THE GREAT BEAST OF REVELATION.—A correspondent of the Somerset (N. J.) Whig communicates the following extracts from Revelation, with a solution, in the name of Louis Napoleon, which seems satisfactory—to himself at least:—

"Revelation, 13th chapter, 11th verse.—And I beheld another beast coming up out of the earth, and he had two horns like a lamb, and he spake as a dragon.

12. And he exerciseth all the power of the first beast before him, and causeth the earth and them which dwell therein to worship the first beast, whose deadly wound was healed.

18. Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast; for it is the number of a man; and his number is six hundred threescore and six."

Thermometers.

IT is known to most scientific men in this country, that the late Thomas Kendall discovered a process, by which the graduation of the Thermometer scales may be made accurately to correspond with variations, which unavoidably exist in the calibre of the tube; thus overcoming what has been considered the insurmountable obstacle to the construction of a perfect Thermometer.

Profs. Silliman and Fisher, Yale College, (see Journal of Science and Arts, vol. 4, p 398,) and other scientific gentlemen, having examined this process, concur in saying that it is correct on mathematical and philosophical principles, and the only known way by which the difficulty referred to can be obviated.

This method has not been disclosed to other manufacturers of Thermometers, neither is it known to be in their possession. These Thermometers, therefore, are the only ones which can be relied upon for entire accuracy.

The subscriber has just received a lot of these Thermometers direct from the manufacturer and made expressly for his order, of various sizes and mountings, for the parlor or out of door use.

Also, a few Papier Mache Mantle Thermometers

THE CALIFORNIA CHIEF.

BY MAJOR G. W. PATTEN, U. S. ARMY.

Near a beautiful stream in California, called the San Joaquin, whose sands sparkle with gold, there resides a tribe of Indians called the King's River Indians. During the month of July last, several miners, having cause, as they supposed, to suspect the good faith of these Indians, attacked one of their rancheries, in the absence of their Chief Pasqual and his principal warriors, killing some twenty-five of the tribe.

Pasqual, previous to the attack, had declared himself a friend to the whites, and had raised a flag in front of his ranche to denote his feelings of amity.

It is related of that powerful chief, who, at the time of the occurrence, was at work for one of the whites on the banks of the Fresno, that when he was informed of the circumstances of the attack, he gathered his people around him, and exclaimed, "My flag is dyed with red: it shall be lifted no more until the stain is washed out. Let us go into the mountains and weep," expressions sufficiently significant to be understood without the aid of an interpreter.

O'er golden sands was streaming
Daylight's declining beam,
Where the red sunset gleaming,
Tinged the San Joaquin stream.

Beside the rushing river
A tawny chieftain stood,
Grasping his bow and quiver,
As he mused beside the flood.

"I must flee into the mountains,"
That dark faced warrior said,
"I must leave these gushing fountains,
For 'my flag is dyed with red.'

That flag I thought forever
Upon the breeze would play,
Shall again be lifted—never
Till its stain be washed away.

My face was bright with gladnes,
When first the pale men came;
But they've witched my brain with madness,
And they've seared my heart with flame.

Along these sunny waters
No more my braves shall sleep;
We will take our wives and daughters
And seek the hills to weep.

The dream of peace is over.
Where shall our footsteps rest?
We will climb and seek a cover
Beside the eagle's nest.

'Mid pass remote and narrow,
When we are gather'd there,
If my warriors plume the arrow,
Not for the elk and bear.

Should my braves who then assemble,
Amid the war-dance form;
Well may the pale face tremble—
But who shall stay the storm!

Let us flee unto the mountains,"
The tawny warrior said,
"I must leave these gushing fountains,

Fort Miller, Cal., Dec., 1852.

OF A LOWELL LADY ON THE ISTHMUS.

A decided "fix," and no "fixens." Lady emigrants from the States to California, sometimes meet with odd adventures. One of these cases is humorously described in a private letter from California, (furnished to the editor of the Lowell Journal,) dated

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14, 1853.

Speaking of the Isthmus, I think I must tell you a tale concerning a young and blooming Lowell lady who has just arrived here, and whose adventures on the Isthmus were somewhat piquant, showing what ladies have sometimes to undergo who travel to California. Miss L——— was well provided with suitable clothing for a trip from Lowell to the "uttermost parts of the earth," and had an exceeding pleasant journey, till she arrived at Cruces, when not knowing, what I know by experience, that it is not at all necessary to travel separated from your own baggage, she suffered herself so be separated from her own, thereby committing a grave error.

She, supposing her baggage would arrive at Panama, nearly as soon as herself, mounted on a ricketty little mule, clad in a thin Bloomer, and started from Cruces to Panama. Now as I before observed, the Isthmus and whole Pacific coast have had a long crying fit, and the consequence is, that the road from Cruces to Panama was never in a more execrable condition. Miss L——— being very large and heavy, and her mule being small and old, they had a good time of it, and floundered through the mud in a most astonishing manner. She told me that at one time the mule went into a mud-hole so deep that nothing but his nose and ears were visible, while she was in up to her chin. The gentleman who was with her, informed me that he rescued her from such a position four times during the day—pulling her and her mule out of the deep mud by main force. The natural consequence of these mud adventures was, that the adventurers were well plastered; so when they got through the worst places, they halted at a convenient native "Ranch," held a council of war, and concluded that inasmuch as Miss L——— had not a change of clothes at hand, it was expedient to wash those she had; so the other ladies (there were several along who were either smarter or had better luck than Miss L———) stripped her, and washed her off as they would a new born baby, rolled her up in a blanket, and laid her away to be a good baby and take a nap, while they washed and dried her only suit.

They washed the suit, and hung it up to dry, and then, very naturally, sat down to dinner. Dinner being over, they went to get Miss L——'s suit, when to their horror and astonishment, they found it had "vamosed the Ranch"—in short, while they had been eating, the natives had stolen it.

Here was a pickle for a nice young lady, and a Yankee school-marm to boot. Naked as she was born into the world—rolled in a blanket, and no clothes to put on—in the middle of a strange country—I think her situation interesting in the extreme, and I don't remember any heroine in any novel who was ever so peculiarly situated. I have a great mind to leave her where she is, just to let you exercise your ingenuity in getting her out of the scrape. I think she must have had some very peculiar feelings while rolled up in that blanket. The ladies finally got her out of the scrape by a contribution. One gave her a petticoat, another a skirt, another a shawl, &c., and as she was probably the largest in the crowd, you can imagine what sort of a rig out she had. It served at any rate for present nakedness; and in this anomalous suit she entered Panama, where she was able to purchase a few absolutely necessary things to come on with. Her baggage did not catch up with her at Panama, and she arrived here about as distressed a looking object as you could easily find. She has since received her trunks by Adams's Express, and rejoices over them, and is ready to laugh over her "adventures on the Isthmus."

The moral of this story is for the benefit of the ladies who travel California-ward, and is this, "Don't lose sight of your baggage;" and in this connection, I will append one remark for the benefit of the aforesaid, which is, that there is not the slightest necessity for losing sight of your baggage.

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH:
THURSDAY, MARCH 10, 1853.

STATE ELECTION.

The returns received by us, are few—so few as to render it of little or no use to publish them;—but the general impression is, (justified by the few returns we have received,) that Gov. Martin is re-elected by an increased majority, and that the democrats have also a large majority in the House.

It is also probable that all three of their candidates for Congress, are chosen. Dr. Kittredge's majority, in the first district, being small.

MASSACHUSETTS CONVENTION.

The election held on Monday, for delegates to the Constitutional Convention, has resulted in a great victory of the Coalitionists, or Anti-Whigs, as they have chosen to style themselves during the canvass.

The Daily Advertiser ascribes the result to the culpable negligence of Whig voters. They have allowed this election to go by default. On the other hand the opposition have been thoroughly organized, and have thoroughly watched their opportunities. This is shown by the fact that so many of their leading men have been chosen in other towns than those of their residences, without but a single instance occurring in which the same person has been elected in both places. This proves to how great an extent the movements of their forces throughout the State were arranged by previous concert.

We have returns from about two-thirds of the State.

If we compare the Convention with the House of Representatives in the present legislature, in which the Whigs have about a dozen majority, it appears that while the Whigs have retained about the same number of members in these towns, the opposition have doubled their strength; so that even if the remaining towns should send delegates of the same politics as their present representatives, there would be fifty majority against the Whigs in the Convention, while if their elections have resulted in the same proportion as those heard from, this majority will be more than doubled.

Most of the towns which made no choice of Representatives to the legislature, have chosen opposition delegates. The Convention will be much more numerous than the House.

Charles Sumner is chosen from Marshfield. Benjamin F. Hallett is chosen both in Marblehead and Gill.

Richard Frothingham jr. and Chs. Thompson, from Charlestown.

The Anti-Whigs have the Convention, and the Constitution, in their own hands, and in the former they can fashion the latter to their liking. Having done this, however, their work must go into the hands of the people to be finished, either by sanction or by destruction.

We remember that the last New Hampshire Convention for a similar purpose, containing eminent men, and with Frank Pierce at its head, made a new Constitution which the democracy of New Hampshire indignantly threw away, every jot and tittle of it, as unworthy of their acceptance.

And we remember, almost as distinctly, the last convention held in Massachusetts to revise her Constitution. It contained the most eminent men in the State, of all parties, and as party spirit, in the Monroe era of good feelings, was quite mild, in many towns which had two delegates, they were the two most prominent men of opposite parties. Where they had but one, he was some old revolutionary soldier, or sage, or clergyman, out of the line of modern party strife, for whom every body voted. It contained several men who had aided in forming the first Constitution of that State, and one or two who had some connexion with the Constitution of the United States.

This body deliberated several months; yet when their work was set before the people, they rejected about half of it; and adopted the remainder, under which they now live. Among the new provisions which they adopted, was one for amendments, without a Convention, by concurrent votes of legislature and people. But this is too slow for modern progress,—so they have just hauled the Old Ship of State into dry dock—the tinkers are at work to strip off the old copper—the landsmen are cutting away the old rigging—and both these things of course will go to the junk store. She is to be razeed; sawed in two, and a piece spliced in; new planked, coppered, painted; new sparred and rigged into a fore and after; and furnished with new sails and flags. Perhaps she will be a very fine ship,—but the old salts, especially those now navigating the river of that name, will hardly believe she can be old Massachusetts: they will think she looks more like a long, low, black schooner.

What favor she may meet with, or how much she may be altered back again, no man can tell at present.

LOCAL.

ELECTION IN PORTSMOUTH.

We republish the following tabular statement of votes in this city, at the meeting on Tuesday, with a few corrections. And we append the list of city and ward officers elected. These, in the first and third wards, are mostly democrats; in the second, whigs. A democratic majority in both branches of the City Council, will enable them to choose a Mayor,—probably Mr. Jenness, but it is not certain.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—Saturday afternoon on the Lawrence road, a little below New Salem depot, 40 loaded baggage cars, from the Montreal road, were thrown off the track.—There were 50 cars in the train. A connecting rod pulled out, dropped down and stuck into a sleeper, and pitched some 6 or 8 cars behind down the embankment, about 20 feet. One car was thrown entirely round, end for end. One was a saloon car in which was the freight conductor, who thinks it must have turned over four times before it reached the bottom of the embankment. He was terribly bruised and jammed. The engine and ten cars went on and he was left alone in "inglorious ease." Finally he kicked a hole through the side of the car and crawled out. This accident blocked up the road, so that passengers had to cross this point on foot. To-day it is all right.—Manchester Mirror.

Bridget Dwyer, aged eleven years, died in New York on Friday. The body was reduced to a skeleton. A coroner's jury held that her death resulted from slow starvation, endured during a sea voyage. The girl landed from the ship Antarctic.

WASHINGTON RUMORS.

WASHINGTON, March 9.

It is reported here upon respectable authority that an agent of certain book publishers of New York, is in this city, with $50,000 at his disposal, if wanted, to defeat the copyright treaty.

The President has given out that he will appoint no Marshal who is opposed to the fugitive slave law.

WASHINGTON, March 8 Boston Appointments.—Gen. Peaslee is nominated for Collector of Boston, and Mr. R. F. Hallett for District Attorney of Massachusetts.

Appointment.—Peter C. Washington was to-day appointed Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Vice Mr. Hodge.

Nominations.—The President has nominated, and the Senate has confirmed, Selah R. Hobbie, first assistant Postmaster General, and Charles Eames, late Assistant Editor of the Union, Assistant Secretary of State.—Willis A. Gorman, late member of Congress from Indiana, Commissioner General in the Land Office.

The Gardiner case came up to-day but was postponed to Thursday, the prosecutors not being in attendance.

The officers of the army and navy at present in Washington, called upon the respective Secretaries to-day, and were presented by them to the President. They also attended by Chief of Bureaus, went to Mr. Fillmore's rooms and took a friendly leave of him.

It is generally understood that Fletcher Webber, Esq., will retain his office of Surveyor of the Port of Boston. His commission will not expire for a year and a half.

The Hon. James Campbell of Pennsylvania, the new Postmaster General of the United States, is a Roman Catholic.

FROM THE CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.—The Providence Journal, by the arrival at that port, of the bark Corsair, from Mozambique, has Cape Town papers to the 4th.

The Cape Town Mail of January 4th, contains the account of a severe fight, in which 6000 native armed horsemen were routed by about 1000 British troops The Chief Morhesh had agreed to deliver 10,000 head of cattle and 1000 horses, as a fine for the depredations which had been committed on the Colonists. He however failed to comply with his engagement, and the Governor advanced into his territory to seize the cattle. The Basutos defended their property, and although the British at one time captured 30,000 head, they were compelled to abandon all but about 6000 head of cattle. The Basutos, however, were completely overthrown, and the next day the Chief sued for peace. The conflict lasted from morning until 8 o'clock in the evening. The British loss was 38 killed and 15 hurt, while the loss on the other side was much greater.

John F. Winkle, colored, has been arrested in Newark, N. J., for violating and murdering the German girl, Catharine Schuellin, on the 6th of Feb. last. He has before been in the state prison for a felonous assault upon a white woman.

A despatch from Boston to the New York papers report that an extensive glass and hardware dealer in Boston has failed. His liabilities are estimated at $300,000.

Chas. J. Shaw was killed in Wethersfield, Ct., a day or two since, while entering the born of a neighbor, by a loaded gun, which had been left standing near the door; the concussion of shutting the door caused the gun to fall against him, when the contents were discharged into his neck, causing instant death.

FIGHTING FOR A FOUNDLING.—On Friday evening last, a baby was left upon the step of Mr. John Augustus's residence, in Bridge street, Boston. The fact, as is the custom, was duly chronicled in all the papers. Since that time no less than two women have claimed to be the mother of the foundling; but as neither could describe the baby or its clothing, Mr. Augustus has refused to give up the child.

THE NEW ENGLAND BAPTIST EDUCATIONAL CONVENTION assembled at the Baptist Church, on Harrison Avenue, Boston, on Tuesday. Rev. Dr. A. Caswell of Rhode Island was elected President; Hon. Isaac Davis of Worcester was elected Vice President; and Rev. Messrs. C. W. Flanders of New Hampshire, and J. C. Foster of Vermont, were elected Secretaries. Dr. Caswell on taking the chair, made an address.

Rev. Dr. Stowe moved that a committee be appointed to consider the expediency of establishing an historical society, with a view of ascertaining information relative to the Baptist Church history. The motion was advocated by several gentlemen, and adopted, and the committee was appointed as follows: Rev. S. S. Cutting of Massachusetts, Rev. W. Gammell of Rhode Island, Rev. G. B. Ide, Rev. Barnas Sears, and Hon. Isaac Davis of Massachusetts. Reports were made in relation to the condition and capabilities of the educational institutions of the denomination, and committees were appointed on the subjects of theological seminaries, colleges, academies, educational societies, and on finance.

The Sons of New Hampshire in Bangor, Me., held a meeting at the Bangor House, last Wednesday evening, to organize for the purpose of a future reunion and festival. It is said there are about 200 scions of the Granite State in that city. It would be well for the Boston society to send a delegation to the celebration, if their brethren should decide to have one.—Boston Cour,

For Preserving, Restoring & Beautifying the Hair,
CAUSING it to grow luxuriantly, and giving it a soft and curling appearance, of the most delightful character. The KATHAIRON neutralises the effects of disease, climate, and old age, in preserving and restoring the Human Hair, even after a Baldness of many years,—cleanses the scalp from Dandruff, and its natural impurities,—immediately relieves sympathetic attacks of Nervous Headache, and cures all cutaneous diseases of the skin, such as Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Itch, &c.

SNOW A HUNDRED FEET DEEP.—The St. Louis Intelligencer publishes a letter from an overland emigrant to California, which gives a fearful account of a tremendous snow storm in the mountains near Carson valley. On what is called the Second summit, the writer says, he caught hold of the tops of pine trees, and was confident they were one hundred feet deep. This is an item that should have a bearing upon the question of a railroad to the Pacific, through the South Pass. Rails buried in snow a hundred feet deep, would stand little chance of removal by any scraper yet invented.

So we should think—but this story puts us in mind of our old friend Baron Munchausen, whose wonderful tales must have stimulated our marvellous bump, and whose veracity we suppose the moderns will not call in question.

PATENTS.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS

With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,

No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IN 1840 the subscriber was appointed Agent of the United States Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th section of the Act of 1837.

Having relinquished the agency for the transmission of models, and adopting a more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, whereby a Patent can be procured several weeks earlier, he continues to forward them, as before, free of expense, and to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe.

The subscriber aims to present to inventors superior facilities for obtaining patents; and is now prepared to make Specifications at rates cheaper by ten to twenty per cent. than those of other agencies. They can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in this capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"PATENT OFFICE, ——.

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agent I am acquainted with, respectfully,

Yours, &c. THOMAS EWBANK,
Commissioner of Patents."

Thermometers.

IT is known to most scientific men in this country, that Dr. Isaac Thomas Kendal discovered a process, by which the graduation of the Thermometer scales may be made accurately to correspond with variations, which unavoidably exist in the calibre of the tube; thus overcoming what has been considered the insurmountable obstacle to the construction of a perfect Thermometer.

Profs. Silliman and Fisher, Yale College, (see Journal of Science and Arts, vol. 4, p 398,) and other scientific gentlemen, having examined this process, concur in saying that it is correct on mathematical and philosophical principles, and the only known way by which the difficulty referred to can be obviated.

This method has not been disclosed to other manufacturers of Thermometers, neither is it known to be in their possession. These Thermometers, therefore, are the only ones which can be relied upon for entire accuracy.

The subscriber has just received a lot of these Thermometers direct from the manufacturer and made expressly for his order, of various sizes and mountings, for the parlor or out of door use.

Also, a few Papier Mache Mantle Thermometers

HOUSE AND LIFE PROTECTORS

AGAINST FIRE AND LIGHTNING.

PATENT METALLIC

LADDER AND CONDUCTOR.

THIS new and important invention is one that should receive the attention of every person who owns a building, or who is interested in that which presents a "permanent safeguard" against lightning, and at the same time a light, strong and ornamental Ladder, which will securely warrant the inmates of any house the ready means of escape in case of fire.

The above are manufactured by Messrs. Washburn, Holland & Co. of Worcester, Mass., and have received the strongest testimonials of approval from many scientific and practical men. A moment's examination of the Metallic Ladder is sufficient to convince any person of its great utility.

☞ Price per foot, 20 cents; including Lightning Rods and Points of the most approved material.

Specimens of the article may be seen at the office of the subscriber.

CURIOUS CHAPTER OF PERSONAL ADVENTURE IN CALIFORNIA.

We learn from late California papers that Thomas Burdue has petitioned the Legislature of that state for $3,000 as a remuneration for his losses, by reason of arrest, trial and imprisonment through mistaken identity, having been arrested, tried and convicted under the belief that his name was James Stewart, of criminal notoriety.

James Stewart was an English convict from Sydney, had been charged with more crime than any man on the Pacific coast—was the acknowledged head and leader of as desperate a gang of ruffian thieves as ever infected any community. Their society was organized and extended throughout the state. Graduates from Old Bailey, and proficients from the convict colonies, had banded together, and for a long time had boldly perpetrated crime and successfully set at defiance the law. Theft, arson and burglary were among their lesser crimes—they hesitated not at murder. Throughout the mines and in the cities Jim Stewart and his confederates carried on their fearful conspiracy against men's property, their lives and the law. If they were detected, associates would swear them clear by an alibi, or by some other rogues' device. If they were convicted and imprisoned, their escape was effected by assistance from the gang or bribery of keepers—their funds were ample, and their faith to each other sacred.

Jim Stewart had been convicted of robbing $7,000 at Foster's bar in San Francisco, and escaped the Sheriff on his way to prison. Had been convicted of burglary at Sacramento, and while in prison was charged with the murder of Charles Moore, at Dobbin's Ranch, but ere he was taken to Marysville, where all the population stood ropes in hand, to hang him on his arrival, he made his escape and was again at large. The community was much excited in relation to the frequency and atrocity of crime committed here. Jim Stewart was earning a notoriety equal to that of Cartouche.

At this time, a police officer from Sacramento, walking along Commercial street, saw a man he regarded as Jim Stewart, and arrested him. This was Thomas Burdue. He was examined before a Justice—brought forward friends and acquaintances to prove his identity—others swore positively that he was James Stewart, and he was sent to the city prison. The report got wind that Stewart was in limbo, and the flame that had been smouldering in San Francisco, burst out into the greatest popular excitement that had then been witnessed in our city. Thousands thronged about the City Hall and demanded this man's life—the meeting was a mob and the mob was frantic. Men having authority attempted to arrest the popular feeling—the prisoner heard the uproar in the street and prayed for his life. A trial was held by the people, and the time consumed in it, cooled the phrenzy of the populace, and the jury not being able to fully determine his identity, he was sent to Sacramento.

Again he was examined, though conflicting testimony was given of his person—he was sent to Marysville. Here ensued another popular commotion, and by the greatest exertion his life was again saved from the enraged citizens, and he was imprisoned to await his primary examination. He was examined and remanded to jail to await his trial for the murder of Charles Moore. Those who had seen James Stewart swore positively that he was the man—he was indicted by the grand jury for murder—was tried in open Court, and though he had able counsel, was finally convicted of murder and sentenced to be hung. A new trial was asked and denied, and the time of his execution drew near.

Another man was arrested in San Francisco, taken to the Vigilance Committee rooms, and recognized to be the genuine James Stewart. An express was sent to Marysville just in time to save the life of Thomas Burdue, and he was set at liberty, after some four months of imprisonment—grown old from the agony of fear, and prematurely gray from his troubles. His money, some thousands of dollars, was expended in his defence and maintenance. James Stewart was hung by the people of San Francisco, and thus paid the penalty of a long life of crime. Thomas Burdue now petitions the State for indemnification for his losses and time. His history is a strange one, and his escape from an ignominious death miraculous. We hope he will promptly receive the remuneration prayed for.

A SAD STORY.—A young man from Arkansas recently attempted to committ suicide at one of the hotels in Louisville, the causes of which are thus accounted for by the Courier of that city:

"The causes that induced the rash act were the loss of his money by gambling and dissipation. He was on a visit to his mother and relatives, in Ohio, and while on the boat coming up the Mississippi, had been persuaded to play 'a little game of cards,' for amusement,' by a set of sharpers, who are always traveling up and down the river to prey upon the unwary. He was plied with liquor—the bar being handy—and then induced to hazard his money at the card table, and was soon fleeced of $500 or $600, all he had. He is a mechanic, and his hard earnings by his trade were swept off in a few hours. This is but one of the many coils brought about by the tolerance and encouragement of the splendid and extensive bars in steamboats."

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.
PORTSMOUTH:
FRIDAY, MARCH 11, 1853.

OVER TRADING—CRISIS.

There was a little wholesome panic in the fancy department of the New York Stock Market on Tuesday morning,—various fancies undergoing a decline of one quarter per cent., and from that rate to two and three quarters. On these and similar facts, the financial writer of the New York Herald grounds predictions of a tight place in money matters, which will squeeze the most, those who prepare for it the least. He has predicted such a squeeze, for some time past, and now shows beginning of the pressure, to be such a state of things as he had before suggested, and utters a new warning. The evil is to be attributed to over trading, especially over importations.

We copy a few sentences.

The movements in financial affairs during the past week have not been of a character to sustain public confidence; but, on the contrary, they have had a tendency to destroy the speculative bubble which was becoming so rapidly inflated. They have opened the eyes of the community to the rottenness of our banks, to the enormous expansion of their lines of discount, to the precarious position of the entire credit system of the country, and speculators may well pause in their mad career. Very few appear to have the most remote idea of the immense amount of public indebtedness. For several years we have been going on piling up millions upon millions of liabilities, until we have got a load that may crush every important interest of the country to the earth.

When we reflect on the immense expansion of credits, in real estate, railroad bonds, and bank facilities, which now immeasurably exceed that of 1836—when everything presents the most flattering appearance of the greatest prosperity—the opportunity is afforded us to look with some distrust upon the permanency of our present position.

BREACHES OF PROMISE.

Breaches of Promise are sometimes made up by money,—sometimes made wider by shooting faithless swains with pistols—and sometimes by marriage per force or otherwise.

The latest case we have heard of, resulted in this wise. An adoring swain in New Bedford, as we learn from the Standard, exhibited symptoms of being unfaithful to his lady love, whereupon she prosecuted him for a breach of promise, and he was lodged in jail, not being able to come up to the legal requirements in the case. The injured damsel paid his board for the term of two weeks, out of her own purse, when at the expiration of that time, the faithless fellow knocked under, was released from confinement and joined in the holy bonds of matrimony with the spirited and ever constant object of his first love. This is the way she "fetched him." "Perhaps, it is worthy of imitation," says the Standard,—and the mixture of moral and legal suasion applied by this energetic damsel is indeed remarkable—but the result, though favorable to her object, would not seem to promise great happiness to either party. The noose matrimonial smacks rather too strongly of the hangman's knot; and the jail-bird is too nearly identified with the bridegroom.

THE MADIAI FAMILY.—The British government has taken up the case of the Madiai Family. Lord John Russell has addressed an energetic despatch to Sir Henry Bulwer in behalf of the Madiai family, instructing him to lay before the Tuscan Minister of Foreign Affairs the views of the government upon the subject of their persecution, and which are conveyed in the following extract of the despatch:

"According to the last accounts received from you, the Grand Duke of Tuscany still hesitates on the subject of the Madiai.

But this is a matter on which hesitation implies capital punishment. It is the same thing in effect to condemn a man to die by fire like Savonarola, or put him to death by the slow torture of an unhealthy prison.

It seems to be imagined, indeed, by some governments on the continent, that if they avoid the spectacle of an execution on the scaffold, they will escape the odium to themselves, and the sympathy for their victims, which attends upon the punishment of death for offences of a political or religious character.

But this is an error. It is now well understood that the wasting of the body, the sinking of the spirits, the weakening of the mind, are but additions to the capital punishment which long and close confinement too often involves. If, therefore, as has been lately reported, one of the Madiai were to die in prison, the Grand Duke must expect that throughout Europe he will be considered as having put a human being to death for being a Protestant. It will be said, no doubt, that the offence of Francesco Madiai was not that of being a Protestant, but that of endeavoring to seduce others from the Roman Catholic faith; that the Tuscan government had the most merciful intentions, and meant to have shortened the period of imprisonment alloted by law to his offence; and that such offences cannot be permitted to pass unpunished.

All this, however, will avail very little.—Throughout the civilized world this example of religious persecution will excite abhorrence. Nor will it be the least of the reproaches addressed to the government of the Grand Duke that the name of Leopold of Tuscany has been thus desecrated, and the example of a benevolent sovereign thus departed from. The peaceful, mild, and ingenuous character of the Tuscan people, makes this severity the less necessary and the more odious."

OLD FASHIONED SHIPS.—A writer in the Portland Advertiser, states that the "gangways" of a ship are so called from a light grating deck that was early used to bridge or connect the castles at the stern and prow.—The quarter deck and forecastle of the line-of-battle ship America, built during the revolution, were thus connected, as I have seen in a model of her yet extant. The spar decks of the earlier frigates were also connected, &c.

Modern double decked ships, until very recently, have generally been flush decked. It is now fashionable to partially restore the poop or stern castle, to afford a cabin for officers and passengers, and the forecastle for the lodging house of the seamen—and the spar deck and those below it being flush—and the ship retaining her general horizontal set on the water, by means of a high connecting rail or bulwark from poop to forecastle, or top-gallant forecastle as the forecastle deck is now styled.

In 1844, I saw in the Canton river, two Cochin China ships, with high poops or stern castles, and resembling the drawings of ships of the time of Louis fourteenth. It was told me that two French ships of that period were shipwrecked on that coast, and have served as models to the Cochin Chinese ever since. The similarity in rig and build was striking.

SCREW LOOSE IN COLUMBIA COLLEGE.—It appears from the report of the legislative Commission, appointed to examine into the financial condition of Columbia College, N. Y., that there is due to the College from the President, Dr. Eliphalet Nott, the sum of $700,000.

This item of intelligence takes us by surprise; and as so much is now disclosed, as to the delinquency, it is desirable that some one who understands the whole case, should make it plain by publishing an intelligible statement of the principal facts.

☞ The Newburyport Herald states that Mr. Benjamin Saunders, the Agent of the Ocean Steam Mills in that city, has been offered, and will no doubt accept the agency of the united Perkins and Cabot Manufacturing Companies, at Chicopee, formerly a part of Springfield. These companies have obtained an act of the Legislature to consolidate their capital, which is $1,200,000. They have four large mills, two making printing cloths, one drillings, and one sheetings.

SMALL NOTES.

The small note law has gone into operation in Maryland, but does not seem to be very popular. The Westminster Carrolltonian says—"there appears to be an almost general disposition to disregard its enforcement. In all business operations we have discovered no more change than if the law was not in existence." The law prohibits the circulation of notes of a denomination under $5 we believe.

Such a law is impracticable and foolish.—The public have been accustomed to use the small notes; find them convenient; and will pass them. If the State of Maryland does not suffer her banks to issue them, the banks of other States will furnish them;—and they will circulate, law or no law.

WHAT CHURCH?—We put this question, the other day, when a Boston paper said that a scamp named Reyno, "had joined the church." The Boston Pilot promptly answers, "Brother Kirk's Church. Reyno was a Catholic, and was a hopeful convert to Protestantism." It may not be known to some readers, that in a Catholic community every child is baptised, and all are thus considered Christians, i. e. Catholics. We suppose the Pilot to be correct in its statement, and that Reyno in this sense was a Catholic; as are nearly all the foreign immigrants who attend the Catholic churches in this country.

EXTRAVAGANCE IN LIVING, is prevalent in all parts of the country, especially in the great cities. The New York Herald says of that city. "Go up Broadway any time during the day, between eleven and four, and you might fancy, from the number of aristocratic equipages rolling past, with livered coachmen holding the ribbons, and tasselled and silver-laced footmen, endeavoring to maintain their footing behind, that you had been transported to Regent street, or else that New York had suffered an irruption of the wealthy parvenus of London. In fact, handsome liveries, gold lace, and splendid equipages are now the rage of the upper ten of New York. Flunkeyism has been transplanted to the metropolis of this democratic land, and from the evidence before our eyes, we would say it has found a most congenial soil."

☞ Concord, by a majority of 280, at the late town meeting, accepted her city charter.

WHO WAS THE FIRST MAN?—A Washington letter writer says: "It would be an interesting calculation to find out the number of patriots here now, who were, each one, the first to nominate Gen. Pierce for the Presidency."

City Council—March 10.

The returns of votes for Mayor from the three Wards, were presented, by which it appears that

Richard Jenness has	572
Horton D. Walker	493
Brackett Hutchings	80
Scattering	13

580 were necessary for a choice; therefore there was no election by the people.

The Mayor's attention was called to those sections of the Charter relating to the choice of Mayor, and it was stated to be the duty of the present City Council to make the choice. He expressed his dissent from this opinion, and stated that he should be governed by the precedent in the case of Mr. Laighton's election, when the new Council made the choice.

These opposite opinions were advocated by two members of the Board, but no question was taken.

Franklin street was accepted.

The Report of the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department, was accepted, and sent to the Common Council.

A large number of bills were passed for payment.

ELECTION OF MAYOR.

An opinion has been entertained and expressed, out of doors, that in case of a tie vote, in the new City Council, on the election of a Mayor, the old Mayor might exercise his right of casting a vote to decide the election. We can see no such provision in the charter—and do not believe that common sense or common law would favor such an assumption.

Another opinion is also expressed, and is fast gaining advocates, that in case there is no election of Mayor by the people the present City Council shall make the election. This, to us, appears to be the proper course, as will be seen by the law in such cases as found in Secs. 8 and 10 of the City Charter, and Sec. 4 of the Amendments. This course is pursued in the election of President, by Congress, when the people fail to elect. As there is no choice of Mayor, we consider it the duty of the present Mayor to call a meeting of the present City Council to fill the vacancy.

EXAMINATION.—It is getting to be very fashionable to attend our school examinations. At the examination of the Boys' High School, on Thursday, the spectators could not have numbered much less than one hundred and fifty. The scholars were highly complimented for their scholarship and general good behavior. There were declamations in three languages, English, French and Latin. A Latin translation of a chapter of John was highly commended as being purer than the Latin versions of the New Testament now in use. The reading was also praised, being clear in enunciation, and with a distinct emphasis.—School closed with prayer by Rev. Mr. Lamson.

POLICE COURT.—In the Police Court, on Thursday, Richard Walden, Esq., representative elect from Ward 3, was tried before Justice Parker, for assault and battery on Mr. Edwin R. Locke; found guilty and fined $5 and cost, from which decision he appealed.—The occurrence took place the evening before election, at a political caucus, of which Mr. Walden was chairman.

☞ The appearance of the Temple has been very much improved recently, by some ornamental and fresco painting, executed by Mr. P. A. Butler. On one side of the stage is painted a representation of Beethoven, and several musical instruments; and on the other, one of Shakespeare, and the paraphernalia of a theatre; the back part of the hall is painted in imitation of panels. The whole displays the usual good taste and handiwork of the artiste.

☞ The Kimball Brothers, as may be seen by their advertisement, are to give a second Concert this evening at the Temple, by the special request of several friends. At their former concert, on Wednesday, though the day and evening were quite unfavorable, they had a good audience, who were greatly delighted; of which fact they gave evidence by applause and encores.

EASTERN RAILROAD.—The Eastern Railroad Company has ordered surveys and estimates to be made for an entrance into Boston upon an elevation of about sixteen feet above the present grade of Causeway and Travers streets. Should the plan be deemed feasible, it is proposed to commence an up grade upon the new track of this road in South Malden, so that the road can pass over the Boston and Maine road in Somerville. If this plan is adopted, the bridge over Charles river will be at an elevation of about fifteen feet above the bridges of the Fitchburg and Maine roads.—the Company contemplate having a row of warehouses, to let for business purposes and for storage, under the line of their road from Causeway to Market street The Eastern Railroad crosses the Merrimac river at Newburyport, at a greater elevation than will be required to raise the track of the road over the streets of Boston and Somerville, and the line of the Maine road.—Transcript.

WHAT CAN BE GOT FOR $5.
THE UNDERSIGNED have entered into an arrangement by which they agree to furnish the Knickerbocker Magazine, (monthly,) the Home Journal, (weekly,) and the Musical World and Times, (weekly,) to new subscribers, at the very moderate price of five dollars a year for the three publications; all orders, enclosing that amount to Dyer & Willis, will be promptly attended to.

Grand Literary and Artistic Combination.

Arrangements have been made to furnish the KNICKERBOCKER MAGAZINE, the HOME JOURNAL, and the New York MUSICAL WORLD AND TIMES to new subscribers, for Five Dollars a year! This is cheap literature, with a vengeance. The Knickerbocker is $3 per annum; the Home Journal, $2; and the Musical World and Times, $3; making $8 a year at the usual rates. That three such works can be obtained for $5 a year, is a fact truly worthy the Caloric age, which is just now being ushered in. Of the Knickerbocker Magazine, edited by Lewis Gaylord Clark, it is unnecessary to speak. For twenty years it has been the most genial, humorous and "saucy" monthly in the world; and the present volume will be better than any which preceded it. The Home Journal, edited by Geo. P. Morris and N. P. Willis, is well known as the Best family newspaper in America; and the Musical World and Times, edited by Richard Storrs Willis, with Lowell Mason, Geo. H. Curtis, Thomas Hastings, William B. Bradbury, Geo. F. Root, and other musical writers contributing; and which gives, among other things, over $25 worth of music and a full course of instruction in harmony annually, is the very best musical journal ever published. These three publications will post a family up in regard to everything worth knowing;—Art, Science, Literature; Music, Painting, Sculpture; Inventions, Discoveries; Wit, Humor, Fancy, Sentiment; the Newest Fashions and other attractions for Ladies; Choice New Music for the Sabbath, the Church and the Fireside; Reviews and Criticisms of Musical Works, Performers and Performances; in short, the very pick and cream of Novelty, Incident, History, Biography, Art, Literature and Science; including whatever can be given in periodicals to promote Healthy Amusement and solid instruction in the family, and help to make it Better, Wiser and Happier, may now be obtained for FIVE DOLLARS. Address DYER & WILLIS, 257 Broadway. f16

WASHINGTON ITEMS.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Many Democratic Senators are opposed to the copyright treaty, and it is feared that it will not be ratified.

Mr. Livingston, of the firm of Barclay and Livingston, was yesterday offered by the President the Collectorship of New York.

Mr. Douglass will reply to day to Mr. Clayton, and Mr. Mason will follow. Messrs. Everett and Soule also intend to participate in the discussion.

The post of Minister to England will be offered first to Mr. Buchanan, and in case of his declination to Mr. Dix.

It is said that Nathaniel Hawthorne will get the Consulate at Liverpool. Judge Henry W. Bishop will probably succeed Charles Hudson as Naval Officer at Boston.

Mr. Fletcher Webster will not be disturbed. William H. Veazie has been confirmed by the Senate as Consul at Havre, vice Draper removed.

WASHINGTON, March 9.

SENATE.—Mr. Badger read an extract from a newspaper printed in Wilmington, N. C., reflecting upon the conduct of himself and colleague for failing to obtain a certain appropriation for the removal of obstructions in Cape Fear River. He referred to his constant efforts to get the appropriation, and his eventual success, so far as the Senate was concerned.

Several members bore testimony to the constant efforts of Mr. Badger to get that appropriation through.

Mr. Clayton then resumed his remarks, and contrasted the Hise with the Squier treaty, and held the former to be so unconstitutional, wild, visionary and impracticable, that no man who had ever read the Constitution of the United States would have voted for it. This was the reason why the administration of Gen. Taylor had never sent it to the Senate for ratification. He then referred to the Monroe doctrine, and denied that at any time in the history of the United States had the government, or any party, declared themselves in favor of the Monroe doctrine. Presidents Jackson and Polk both opposed it. Congress had repeatedly refused to declare it. He further contended that the Clayton and Bulwer treaty was based on principles announced by the administrations of Jackson and Polk, and by both houses of Congress.

Mr. Douglass obtained the floor when the subject was postponed.

Mr. James presented the resolutions of the Legislature of Rhode Island relative to the imprisonment of James H. West, a citizen of that state, and the seizure of his property.

Mr. Mason offered a resoluation calling for information respecting the same.

After an executive session, the Senate adjourned.

New Orleans, March 7.—FIRE ON SHIPBOARD.—The British ship Belmont, when nearly loaded for Liverpool, having on board 300 bales of cotton, caught fire this morning and was scuttled. All the cotton was either burned or badly damaged. The American ship Maine, which had just commenced loading alongside the Belmont, also took fire in her rigging, but the injury she sustained was very slight.

New Haven, March 9.—The Whig congressional convention, at Norwich, have nominated Austin Baldwin for Congress in Mr. Ingersoll's district; and the State Convention, in session at the same place, nominated Nathan O. Kellogg for Lieut. Governor, in place of Thomas Fitch, declined.

Louisville, March 9.—A tornado visited the vicinity of Clarksonville, Tenn., on Sunday night, levelling dwellings, stables, barns, and trees to the ground, but, as far as heard from, no lives lost. The track of the storm was half a mile wide. So terrific was it, that the roads were filled with the fallen timber.

FROM AUSTRALIA.—Nov. 17.—90,348 ounces of gold were brought into Melbourne for the week ending Nov. 11, and 152,501 ounces exported.

Flour was £44 a £46 per ton, and it was thought would soon be higher.

New gold diggings have been discovered of apparently unequalled wealth. The rush to diggings was immense, but the success of the diggers was extremely unequal, some having no luck at all.

On the 16th Nov. 13 ships arrived at Melbourne from London, with passengers and cargoes.

A Melbourne paper, speaking of the arrival of the American ship Revenue, from New York, with a cargo of "notions," says:

"The Americans appear to have an idea that S. Australia and Van Dieman's Land, will supply all our wants, and they have not at present any idea of supplying flour to this colony."

At Melbourne half an acre of land had been sold at the rate of about $50,000 an acre.

The influenza was so general at Sydney, that at one place, out of 500 inhabitants, only 25 were out of their beds.

At the diggings, provisions, especially flour, had risen rapidly, as had also brandy, and are quoted at extravagant rates.

At Melbourne butter was 1s 9d; pork £5 10s per barrel, coffee 1s 1d per lb; vinegar 1s 6d; sugar 23s 4d. Revolvers £6 each.

A GREAT CARGO OF GOLD.—The ship Roxburgh Castle put into Cape Town, Cape Good Hope, Jan. 8th, bound from Australia, with eight tons of gold on freight, valued at three millions three hundred thousand dollars, the largest amount ever shipped.

MRS. STOWE'S LIBEL SUIT.—It is said that Jewett & Co., the publishers of Uncle Tom's Cabin, generously offered to pay any damages the Rev. Joel Parker might obtain, if he sued Mrs. Stowe, and begged her not to expunge the sentiment imputed to him; but she felt able to be not only upright but magnanimous. Her opponent has not sued, nor will he.

Taught at No. 13 Vaughan, cor. Hanover st.
A NEW TERM will commence on THURSDAY, March 10th. Those who are desirous of taking lessons are requested to call at Mr. Gerry's Rooms previous to that time, so that arrangements may be made for the several Classes.
Will the public examine specimens of Drawing by Mr. Gerry and his scholars, at the Bookstore of Messrs. Shores, Foster and Harvey?
☞ Particular instruction will be given in enlarging pictures, which, with other instruction, will give the scholar a fine idea of Landscape sketching, from Nature.
Persons living out of the city, can, by stopping here a few days, complete a course of lessons.
☞ No expense for pupils while taking lessons, excepting the tuition.

Thermometers.

IT is known to most scientific men in this country, that the late Thomas Kendall discovered a process, by which the graduation of the Thermometer scales may be made accurately to correspond with variations, which unavoidably exist in the calibre of the tube; thus overcoming what has been considered the insurmountable obstacle to the construction of a perfect Thermometer.
Profs. Silliman and Fisher, Yale College, (see Journal of Science and Arts, vol. 4, p 398,) and other scientific gentlemen, having examined this process, concur in saying that it is correct on mathematical and philosophical principles, and the only known way by which the difficulty referred to can be obviated.
This method has not been disclosed to other manufacturers of Thermometers, neither is it known to be in their possession. These Thermometers, therefore, are the only ones which can be relied upon for entire accuracy.
The subscriber has just received a lot of these Thermometers direct from the manufacturer and made expressly for his order, of various sizes and mountings, for the parlor or out of door use.
Also, a few Papier Mache Mantle Thermometers

A SCENE IN NEW ORLEANS.

I find it takes new eyes to be surprised at very thought stirring scenes, sometimes; but to give a strong instance of what people may get so used to as to give over looking at it with any particular curiosity, I will describe what was set out upon two tables on the opposite sides of the bar-room of my hotel. The reader will perhaps remember the description already given of this drinking saloon—vast dome, like the body of a cathedral, around which the hotel is built, and to which it seems a secondary appurtenance. It is thronged at the drinking hour, and on the morning I speak of, I had gone down to take a lounge through the crowd, interested as always in the faces and manners of a strange city, but looking for no special novelty beyond. The day was warm, and the drinkers many. I was amused with the usual contrast as I went in, the architectural sublimities commonly reserved for places of sacred resort, (a dome sustained by lofty columns, and admitting light only from the meridian sky,) enclosing a throng so careless and lively. I strolled along one side, and saw the lunch table spread out with terrapin soup, olives, sandwiches, etc., and then with a chance turn, I crossed the crowded floor and came upon another table on the opposite side, set out with—what does the reader suppose?—half a dozen pretty and nicely dressed negresses, from eighteen to twenty five years of age, seated in chairs upon the top of the table, and waiting to be sold presently at auction!

And, to this nobody was giving a second look. Groups of men stood about, on the marble floor of the vast area, with hats on and glasses in their hands conversing gayly. The white aproned waiters ladled out the soup. The gracious and gentlemanly master-barkeepers stood braiding rainbows across their firmament of decanters as they flung the ice and rosy liquor back and forwards into fragrant contact with the mint. Politics were talked loud, and business was talked low. But it was not quite the hour—lacking a few minutes—when the destiny of these other warm dishes was to be decided.

Feeling themselves to be wholly unnoticed, probably the negresses were perfectly natural, and their amused interest in the gay scene around, was sufficient to make them as gay as children at a show. The front of the table was on a line with the circle of columns, and it extended back across the corridor in the rear—one of the women, who had two children at her knee, sitting back against the wall of the dome. This last was the only one whose face expressed any seriousness or anxiety, though all were modest in their cheerfulness, and they were evidently girls of good conduct, as well as in admirably bodily condition. Two of them were really handsome, I thought, and, by the taste with which their bandannas were coiffed, they had inhaled a little of the French atmosphere of the city.

The auctioneer mounted a chair, presently, and the sale proceeded—too rapidly, however, for any very critical observation. With what I could see of it, I was exceedingly interested, though, of the crowd around, no one else except the bidders seemed to have the curiosity to look on. The girls seemed bashful more than anything else, dropping their eyes as the auctioneer told their ages and qualities, or stealing furtive glances at the low-voiced numbers of the dollars they might be worth—their vanity, doubtless, somewhat excited in watching the ladder up which their value was so reluctantly ascending. Imagination might paint very touching pictures from this scene. It was over before I had out my "brushes and colors." I just remember that the mother looked pleased with the destiny of herself and her children.

The others were gone without my having been able to designate even their prices—deficient as of course I was in the practised alacrity of the market. But I looked down, from the gallery above, upon the two bare tables, later in the day, and indulged in reverie over the contrasted disposal of the respective viands—the stomach's digestion of what had been spread upon one, and Fate's digestion of what had been spread upon the other.

NEW "MANIFESTATIONS."—The editor of the Albany Express, in the course of an article upon "Freaks and Wonders of Electricity," narrates the following occurrence:

"Happening to be in the parlor of a friend, a few evenings since, he favored us with the exhibition of a very pretty electrical experiment. His daughter walked briskly across the floor once or twice, and then rapidly approaching an extinguished gas burner, touched it with her fingers, and instantly the escaping fluid burst into flame! It is an entirely new way of lighting gas, and involves a great saving of matches. Any person in the room, if their boots or shoes were not wet, could produce the same effect. The sparks of electricity emitted at the instant of the contact with the metal burner, ignited the gas."

A friend informs the Worcester Spy that he has seen this thing done repeatedly in New York city; and that, in one street, in nearly every house, some one or more of the family can at any time do it. They have only to let the gas into the burner, and apply the finger, as they would a lighted match or lamp, and the gas instantly ignites.

Very strange, if true; but we have always been taught that electricity tended to an equilibrium. The surplus electricity generated by the violent exercise would of course leave the body through the feet, go to the floor and thence to the earth; so that not enough would be left to make a spark when the finger was applied to the pipe.

DAILY

PORTSMOUTH:
SATURDAY, MARCH 12, 1853.

NEW HAMPSHIRE ELECTION.

The Democratic Party have made a clean sweep of the State. The N. H. Patriot has returns from 160 towns, leaving 60 to be heard from.

The whole will re-elect Gov. Martin by nearly 5500 majority.

The Councillors elected are four democrats, viz. Uri Lamprey, first District; Abel Haley, second; Zebediah Shattuck, third; Russell Cox, fifth; and one whig, viz. James Bachelor, fourth district.

In the Senate, one whig is chosen; and nine democrats; and two vacancies to be filled by the legislature, as follows:—

Dist. No. 1.—John M. Weare.
Dist. No. 2.—Dr. Josiah C. Eastman.
Dist. No. 3.—No election; Charles Stark, democrat, will of course be elected by the Legislature.
Dist. No. 4.—Ebenezer Symmes.
Dist. No. 5.—Ichabod G. Jordan.
Dist. No. 6.—Mr. Tuttle re-elected.
Dist. No. 7.—The chances are that there is no choice, if so, Mr. Whittemore will be elected by the Legislature.
Dist. No. 8.—Dr. Leonard Eaton.
Dist. No. 9.—A. H. Bennett, is probably re-elected in this district, being the only whig Senator elected.
Dist. No. 10.—A. B. Williamson.
Dist. No. 11.—Thomas Merrill.
Dist. No. 12.—James M. Rix.

The Democratic majority in the House of Representatives will be about 65.

The three Representatives elected to Congress, are

1. Hon. Geo. W. Kittredge, 1700 majority.
2. Hon. Geo. W. Morrison, 1500 "
3. Hon. Harry Hibbard, 1500 "

THE GRAND RESULT.

It is very natural and proper for a successful party to rejoice in its victories; and for a successful candidate to rejoice in his election: it looks natural and reasonable, therefore, to see the old Rooster perched at the head of the Patriot's second page, in the capacity of editor pro tem. But the following paragraph does not strike us as being quite so natural.

"Of the particulars of this gratifying result of our election, it is not necessary for us to speak. But we must here remark that the most gratifying feature of the whole, is the signal and ignominious defeat of Amos Tuck in the first Congressional district. This result is just what we confidently anticipated; we never had a doubt that the sterling Democracy of that district would rally with zeal and energy to cast off from them and the State the reproach of having such a man to represent them in Congress."

The rejoicing here, is not chiefly that Dr. Kittredge is elected, but that Mr. Tuck is defeated. And the editor is gratified at the ignominy of his defeat, because it is reproachful to the State to have such a man represent it in Congress.

Now a stranger, who did not know the parties, might suppose from this, that Mr. Tuck was of base character and low reputation as a man, and would be surprised if we should tell him, that in private life Amos Tuck is just "such a man," as the certificates, before election, represented Franklin Pierce to be, (only a little more so.) The certificates represented Mr. Pierce as a constant and devout attendant on the Orthodox Church, of which his wife was a member; as a Sunday School teacher, a temperance man, and so forth, Mr. Tuck is all this, and more; for he is and has been for many years, himself a member of that Church, and was for a long time a teacher and superintendent of one of their Sabbath schools.

Now we do not believe that the Patriot will say that Mr. Tuck is a bad man at all, but merely as a politician, that he is a very blue whig and a very black abolitionist,—and above all, that having been formerly a democrat, he left that party and yet kept in Congress six years. In this respect, and this only, democratic New Hampshire might feel "a reproach and a stigma" from his holding a seat in Congress. The ignominy which they inflicted upon him, by electing Dr. Kittredge in his stead, we suppose, makes all square again.

CONVERTS TO CATHOLICISM.—The Pilot contains a list, (derived from the Dublin Telegraph,) of "noblemen, gentlemen, clergymen, and ladies of note, (resident in Great Britain and Ireland), who have been received into the one true Catholic and Apostolic Church within the last four years, or from the 1st of January, 1849, to the 31st of December, 1852."

The list, if we counted aright, numbered 258,—all of whom, we suppose, are from the Church of England.

☞ "Angell's Orris and Charcoal Tooth Soap," is a new article, recommended for general use by the very highest medical authority, in the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.

We have given the article a trial, and find it a pleasant dentifrice: a further trial would probably show it to be all that Dr. Bowditch and others recommend it to be. For sale in this city by J. H. Thacher and Dr. Ryder.

LOCAL.

THE MAYORALTY.

It appearing that the people have not elected a Mayor of this city, a correct legal construction of the charter in respect to the mode and time of proceeding to elect a Mayor by the City Council, may be important. The decision may furnish a precedent for action in the future, and therefore our citizens, and especially the City Council, should wholly discard all party spirit in coming to a correct conclusion. The decision must be made upon the language of the charter itself, which is a statute enacted by the legislative body, although in cases of ambiguity or uncertainty, cases analagous in principle may be referred to, for illustration. Before adopting a conclusion, let us see that our premises are correct. By the 2d section of the charter, it is declared that the Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council, "shall, in their joint capacity, be denominated the City Council." The 11th section contains a limitation of the power of the Mayor. Although he shall preside in joint meeting of the two boards, yet he is restrained from voting, except in cases of a tie, when "he shall have a casting vote only." It is clear that this clause is not repealed by the amendments of the charter, but if it were, his duty to preside over the City Council is reaffirmed by the 2d section of the amendments, and by the 4th section of the amendments there would be no limitation of his power to vote in "the City Council in convention by joint ballot," to "choose a Mayor from the two highest candidates," because the 2d section of the charter makes him one of the constituents of the City Council, and therefore without the restraining clause he would have a right to vote, although there should not be a tie.

The 6th section declares that "all city, ward and town officers, who are chosen by the people, shall be chosen by ballot, and shall hold their respective offices for one year from the 4th Tuesday of March, and until others are chosen and qualified in their stead." It therefore admits of no doubt, that in case the City Council should fail to elect one of the two highest candidates as Mayor, the present Mayor, unless he should resign, would continue in office, vested with all his present powers.

The present Aldermen and Common Councilmen will hold their offices until the fourth Tuesday of March, or until others shall be qualified in their stead. Although they are not prohibited, in express terms, from now proceeding to elect a Mayor, yet we think it is not the true intent and meaning of the charter that they should act prior to the fourth Tuesday of March, because there is yet no vacancy in the office, and there can be no necessity of choosing a Mayor prospectively.—It might be a bad precedent. A JURIST.

☞ We adhere, nevertheless, to our previously expressed opinion, that the 9th section of the City Charter, and the 4th of the Amendments, make it the duty of the existing City Council to meet in Convention and choose one of the two highest candidates for Mayor.

Jurist's closing argument about vacancy, a prospective choice, and bad precedent,—is not sound. The people when they choose a Mayor, do it prospectively. The people, or Congress, when they choose a President, do it prospectively. If the precedent is bad, there is a plenty of it.

We think the precedent quoted by the Mayor, from Mr. Laighton's election, is to be regarded as a mistake, and to be corrected now, if ever.—Where the letter and spirit of a charter are so plain, as they are in this case, there need to be no question as to the powers and duties of the present Council.

Should one or both of the two boards refuse to go into Convention for that purpose, or by any "masterly inactivity" let the matter slip along to the 4th Tuesday of March, then their neglected duty would fall on their successors, who on that day are to be qualified and organized. Over this new body the present Mayor must preside, and if they happen to be tied by an equal ballot, he has the casting vote, according to secs. 6 and 11—contrary to our first impression, and contrary to our views of political equity and expediency—yet the letter of the law is quite plain.

Some have alluded to the practice of our General Court, (the new one) choosing the Governor. This is done by express statute.—On the other hand, Congress, (the old Congress,) also by express statute, choose the President.

We rely therefore, only on the expressions in our City Charter—and they point, clearly, to the election by the existing City Council, in the first place—and then to the new, only by the neglect of the old.

The N. H. Gazette says,

"An opinion is expressed by some persons, that the present, instead of the new city Council, elect the Mayor, but this idea is both contrary to precedent and the plain import of the city charter. We presume that the matter will be referred to the new body as in the election of 1851."

The Journal says,

"The charter provides that when no election is made by the people the City Council shall elect. Now, who are the City Council? Certainly the gentlemen who are elected to compose that board several weeks hence are no more the City Council now than any other citizens. The existing City Council is the only body which is contemplated in the city charter, and by their neglect to elect a Mayor they violate their oath of office, and throw the election upon a body which is not designated by the charter.

In a former like case the election of Mayor Laighton was postponed, wrongfully in our estimation, until the new boards were organized. The charter makes no reference whatever to any delay. It evidently contemplates the election of all the city officers previous to the fourth Tuesday of March.

☞ The proceedings reported in the Daily Chronicle of Friday, under the head of "City Council," were only the doings of the Board of Aldermen. For want of an extra head line, by which we commonly distinguish the Boards, an impression has gone abroad that both boards were in session, which was not the case.

SUNDAY SERVICES.—Elder Pearson is to preach in the Advent Chapel in this city, tomorrow.

The Rev. R. W. Clark will preach at the North Church tomorrow.

☞ The Gazette states that the Manchester Museum Dramatic Company will commence a series of theatrical entertainments at the Cameneum on Monday evening next.—This company is spoken of by the press of Manchester as one of much ability, and we doubt not they will be liberally patronized by the numerous lovers of the Drama in our city.

One of our readers asks where a model of the 74 America, once built here, is to be seen, as stated in the Morning Chronicle.—Journal.

The writer of the article alluded to, probably lives in Portland, and made the statement in the Daily Advertiser of that city, from which we copied the facts, and from which we shall probably receive the answer.

ARREST OF A NEW HAMPSHIRE M. C.—Washington correspondent of the Concord Democrat relates the following incident:

The freaks of lunacy, sad enough when we consider their cause, are often very ludicrous in themselves. Maj. Gen. Samuel G. Chase is well known in your vicinity. It was but a few mornings ago that an M. C. was roused from his slumbers to company an officer before the magistrate. Is your name Peaslee? asked the catchpole, as that astonished gentleman very cautiously opened the door. If so, I am to arrest you. The M. C. perhaps thinking that Gen. Scott or Mr. Fillmore had achieved a "coup d'etat" asked to see the warrant. "O!" said he, seeing through it directly, "he is a crazy man." "No matter for that," said the officer, "I know nothing about it; I must do my duty." And so after reluctantly allowing the M. C. to swallow his breakfast, he was taken before the magistrate on the charge of felony, for wrongfully holding certain properties in that corporate body known as the Concord Railroad. Messrs. Jones and Norris soon appeared and testified to the legacy of Chase, who is here in constant attendance on the Supreme Court, and who so successfully imposed upon the magistrate as to get a writ for the arrest of Peaslee.

NAVAL.—A letter dated Marseilles, February 1st, from an officer of U. S. steam frigate San Jacinto says:—"The Cumberland is at Spezzia, the Levant is at Barcelona, and the St. Louis sailed from this port yesterday, for Genoa. We are continually breaking down in this ship, and are here now repairing damages. This is the third time the same thing has happened. We shall probably be able to leave about the middle of March. The officers and crew are all well. We may add that the St. Jacinto started from New York in December, 1851, broke down when a few days out, and put into Norfolk for repairs, where she was detained for many weeks. She then started for the Mediterranean—broke down a second time, and was again detained for some time at Cadiz. A third time she was compelled to remain for several weeks at Trieste. She has been truly an unfortunate steamer.

[Private steamers built in this country do "break down" in this way.]

NEW CITY ORDINANCES.

No. 32.

An Ordinance concerning Truant Children and Absentees from School.

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Portsmouth:

SEC. 1. Every habitual truant or minor of this city not attending school, without any regular and lawful occupation, growing up in ignorance, between the ages of six and sixteen years) shall, on complaint (as herein after described) to the Justice of the Police Court of this city, be punished by a fine not exceeding ten dollars, or committed to the Alms House or Bridewell attached to the same, for a term of time not less than three days, nor more than thirty days, at the discretion of said Justice.

SEC. 2. There shall be chosen as soon as may be after the passage of this Ordinance, and annually in the month of April or as soon thereafter as may be, by the city council, in the same manner in other city officers are chosen, three persons, one from each of the school districts in this city, to be denominated the committee on truancy: whose duty it shall be to enquire into all cases of the violation of this Ordinance, and who only or any one of them is hereby authorised to make complaint in every case of a violation of the same to said Justice of the Police Court; which committee or any one of them shall alone have authority to carry into execution the judgments of said Justice. And the said Justice upon complaint as aforesaid is hereby authorised to issue his warrant for the apprehension of such truant or minor, to have him brought before the court, to hear and try the complaint alledged, and to carry into execution the provisions of this Ordinance.

SEC. 4. Any minor convicted of either of the offences, and sentenced to pay a fine as provided in this Ordinance, may, in default of payment thereof be committed to the Alms House or Bridewell attached to the same. And upon proof that said minor is unable to pay said fine, and has no parent, guardian or person chargeable with his support, or to pay the same, he may be discharged by said justice whenever he shall see fit.

SEC. 5. If any minor convicted of any offence mentioned in this Ordinance, shall, within twenty four hours after said conviction and sentence, give bond to this city in the penal sum of 25 dollars with good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by said justice before whom said minor was convicted that he will attend some school in said city six months next after said conviction and sentence, that he will voluntarily comply with all the regulations of said school, and will be regular and constant in his attendance upon the same, except in case of ill health, and will at all times be obedient and respectful to the teacher, said justice shall have power, upon the payment of all costs, and upon the filling of such bond as aforesaid, to remit said fine.

SEC. 6. Each officer of said committee shall within thirty days after his election or appointment give a bond with sufficient sureties to the acceptance of the Mayor and Aldermen for the faithful performance of the duties of his office. The fees of the committee, or either officer thereof, for any service performed in pursuance to the provisions of this Ordinance, shall be the same as are allowed to a constable for the service of any warrant or process by the laws of this state.

Passed March 3, 1853.

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

STORM.—New York, March 11—11 A. M.—A thick snow storm prevails here. The wind is blowing half a gale. No appearance of the Africa.

THE FIRE ANNIHILATOR.—At Rochester, N. Y., on Thursday evening, the hat store of J. H. Hays took fire in the upper stories, and burned downwards. The proprietor of Corinthian Hall sent his three annihilators to the rescue, and the premises were saved at $25 damage and $6 expense.

NAVY BILL.—The bill to reorganize the United States Navy did not succeed in the late Congress as has been reported. The statement that it was incorporated in the Naval Appropriation bill is incorrect.

POTATOES IN BERMUDA.—By the late dates from Bermuda, we learn that the crop which now excites the most interest and attention, and from which the greatest results are anticipated, is the potato. The import of that esculent from the United States, exclusively for planting, has reached not less than 6000 barrels, or 16,000 bushels. The Bermuda potato crop of this year, from present appearances, bids fair to be twice as large as any hitherto raised.

REV. RICHARD BOND, agent of the American Bible Society for Missouri, who was recently injured by the accidental discharge of a large horse-gun in his own hand, while examining its workmanship, it is feared will not survive the wound. A letter received in St. Louis gives no hope of his recovery, but admonishes his friends to expect intelligence of his dissolution by every mail.

A writer says that "foul air prevails in some parts of London so that birds cannot live." If birds cannot live in foul air, (no pun intended) how can men live in it? "That's the question," as Hamlet says.

☞ It is reported that a new factory is to be built at Amesbury, Mass., the coming season, larger than any one there now, and that 50,000 of bricks have been purchased in Plaistow for the building.

☞ The Cushing Guard, Newburyport fired a salute of 31 guns Tuesday evening, on occasion of Gen. Cushing taking a seat in the Cabinet.

BACKUS HISTORICAL SOCIETY.—The Baptists of the United States, in convention at Boston, have formed a Historical Society with the above title, designed to collect, preserve and publish Historical Documents of the denomination. The name of the society very properly commemorates their old historian Backus, who wrote a History of the Baptists, many years ago. Some of their most eminent ministers in the denomination are among the officers.

THE SENTENCE OF THE MADIAI.

The following judicial sentence of Francisco and Rosa Madiai, embodying a statement of the offence, or offences, whereof they were found guilty, is translated for the N. Y. Tribune from the Univers, a leading Catholic journal issued in Paris:

"Considering that the penal laws, agreeing with the interpretations of the most illustrious jurists, recognize proselytism a crime punishable by the civil authorities—

Considering that Francesco and Rosa Madiai, born and brought up in the Catholic religion, have, within the last four or five years, been induced to abandon it and embrace the religion which they call Evangelical—

That Francesco Madiai, availing himself of the lessons in the French language, which he gave to a young man of 16, endeavored, though without success, to detach him from the Catholic religion; gave him, in concert with his wife, a prohibited copy of the Bible in French and in Italian—

That he has made to other persons proposals tending to show the superiority of the religion called Evangelical to the Catholic religion, counselling such persons not to hear the priests, reproving the worship of the Virgin Mary, and of the saints, as idolatry, and especially turning into derision the pious custom of burning tapers before the image of the Holy Virgin—rejecting the doctrine of the Real Presence in the consecrated Host, characterising as an insult towards God, intercession by the Virgin and the Saints, rejecting the authority of the Supreme Pontiff, saying that the observance of feast days other than Sundays, and abstinence from certain aliments were the inventions of sinful men; saying that in the sacrament of the communion, the transubstantiation of bread and wine is not true, that confession is useless, because it is made to man, and not God.

That to make a young girl of twenty, who was in their service, abandon her religion, the Madiais taught her to read, so that she might understand the books which they gave her, such as the Bible translated by Diodati, and the Book of Prayer, printed in London by the Society for the Diffusion of the Christian Doctrine, in which it is said that Purgatory and the worship of images are ridiculous inventions. Considering that what has been said by the defence on the subject of liberty of conscience and of religious tolerance is foreign to the question, seeing that the first is not attacked when the citizens are called to answer for their external acts, and that the second is protected, instead of being violated, when one preserves another from the danger of seduction and abandonment of her religion—the Court declares that impiety has been committed by the Madiais in the way of proselytism—and it condemns Francesco Madiai to fifty months' imprisonment at hard labor, and Rosa Madiai to forty-five months' imprisonment and to a fine of 300 livres—and at the expiration of their punishment to three years surveillance by the police."

LYON'S
KATHAIRON
FOR THE HAIR.

LYON'S KATHAIRON.
For Preserving, Restoring & Beautifying the Hair,

CAUSING it to grow luxuriantly, and giving it a soft and curling appearance, of the most delightful character. The KATHAIRON neutralises the effects of disease, climate, and old age, in preserving and restoring the Human Hair, even after a Baldness of many years,—cleanses the scalp from Dandruff, and its natural impurities,—immediately relieves sympathetic attacks of Nervous Headache, and cures all cutaneous diseases of the skin, such as Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Itch, &c.
AS A TOILET ARTICLE,
For giving the Hair a rich, soft, glossy and curling appearance, nothing has been discovered to compare with its incontested—its incontestible virtues. It imparts the fragrance of the most delightful and exotic flowers, and is free from all mineral properties, or any substance which can color the skin, or stain a lady's hat.
FOR BALD OR GREY HEADS
It is pre-eminently beneficial. "The Kathairon restored my hair after a baldness of 12 years. A. J. Couriaent, 76 Bond-st. N.Y." This admirable preparation can be had of all reputable dealers, throughout North and South America, and the Islands of the Ocean, in large bottles, for 25 cents.
Sold to the trade at a liberal discount, but commissioned in no instance.

LIBERALITY.—Mr. Morss, of the Newburyport Herald, was chosen a delegate from his city to the convention, on Monday. The Newburyport Union, (Coalition) in announcing his election, says:—"Had not the caucus nominating him been called exclusively by Whigs, he would have received nearly the unanimous vote of the city, and no man is more deserving of it. We are glad of his election, and wish that two other equally good men might have been chosen."

A BEAR SHOT WITH A CANDLE.—A few days ago a large bear, owned by Mr. Privat, who resides on the Peninsula, opposite Toronto (Canada,) was shot in rather a novel manner—a common candle having been put in place of a ball into the gun. The candle entered immediately behind the ear, and almost instantly deprived the animal of life. It was very fat, and was about four years old.

The sons of an Austrian Emperor got into a quarrel. In the height of passion one of them said to the other—"You are the greatest ass in Vienna." Highly offended at their quarrelling in his presence, the Emperor said: "Come, come, you forget that I am present."

Seamen for the public service are now obtained with great difficulty in England.

A stoker on board H. M. ship Valorus, has become entitled to the Earldom of Stockport, and estates producing $175,000 a year.

Twelve steamers are now on their way from England to Australia.

PATENTS.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IN 1840 the subscriber was appointed Agent of the United States Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th section of the Act of 1832.
Having relinquished the agency for the transmission of models, and adopting a more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, whereby a Patent can be procured several weeks earlier, he continues to forward them, as before, free of expense, and to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe.
The subscriber aims to present to inventors superior facilities for obtaining patents; and is now prepared to make Specifications at rates cheaper by ten to twenty per cent. than those of other agencies. They can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by transmitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.
R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and I do not know there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"PATENT OFFICE, ——
"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.
"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agent. I am very respectfully,
Yours, &c. THOMAS EWBANK,
Commissioner of Patents."

Thermometers.

IT is known to most scientific men in this country, that the Editor shall discovered a process, by which the graduation of the Thermometer scales may be made accurately to correspond with variations, which unavoidably exist in the calibre of the tube; thus overcoming what has been considered the insurmountable obstacle to the construction of a perfect Thermometer.
Profs. Silliman and Fisher, Yale College, (see Journal of Science and Arts, vol. 4, p 398,) and other scientific gentlemen, having examined this process, concur in saying that it is correct on mathematical and philosophical principles and the only known way by which the difficulty referred to can be obviated.
This method has not been disclosed to other manufacturers of Thermometers, neither is it given to be in their possession. These Thermometers, therefore, are the only ones which can be relied upon for entire accuracy.
The subscriber has just received a lot of these Thermometers direct from the manufacturer and made expressly for his order, of various sizes and mountings, for the parlor or out of door use.
Also, a few Papier Mache Mantle Thermometers

FRENCH ETIQUETTE.

The following interesting account of social manners in Paris, is given in a letter published in the New York Times. The Boston Transcript, in endorsing the sentiments of the writer, adds:—"There would be a rebellion in every house here, if the attempt was made to introduce Parisian customs, and compel mamma to accompany her daughters on all occasions. An extra sister is hardly tolerated by our young couples, when they visit places of public amusement, and the very idea of a mother to act as body guard for a yound lady in America, would be hooted by all damsels of spirit, and would be equivalent to non-intercourse on the part of young men of self respect.

We may copy French styles of dress, and tolerate French cooking, but we shall not be content to allow three thousand miles of water to separate us from the etiquette which prevails in Paris, in regard to social customs. The correspondent of the Times remarks:

Newly arrived Americans always express an unmingled surprise at contrasting a ball-rooms they have left behind. The distinguishing features of difference are the form and manners of the young unmarried ladies at home, and their retiring demeanor here.—This difference is worth making a note of. Married ladies upon the Continent, sway and give a tone to society, while in America, it is to those ladies whose youth and extent of experience render their conversation and manners anything but instructive or interesting, that the task of sustaining social intercourse is committed. True, you all know what a young lady in a ball room is at home. Let me say in a few words, what she is in a ball room here.

In the first place, a young unmarried lady is expected to dress modestly and simply—She cannot wear velvet nor lace; she cannot dress in yellow; she cannot wear jewelry, except perhaps ear-rings, containing each a single diamond, with as little setting as possible. It is only of late that she has been allowed to have flounces to her gowns, and to arrange her hair with artificial flowers. She may wear false pearls, but not real ones—may wear necklaces and bracelets of coral, ivory, Venice, small agates, &c., but not of precious stones. She cannot go to a ball without her mother or an elderly lady to chaperone her; she cannot go alone with her father. She stays with her mother or chaperone throughout the evening, except when she dances—and then does not leave her place till the music gives the signal, and returns to it the moment the dance is over. She cannot promenade with her partner—a tete-a-tete is hopeless: a private interview in a corner, or behind a curtain, would compromise her forever. The free and easy manners of an American parlor transported into the Faubourg St. Germain, would make a Frenchman imagine he was in a bedlam broke loose.

This restraint is necessary for many reasons. A gentleman, invited by the lady of the house, is considered authorized to ask any lady present to dance without introduction. It is evident however, that he cannot expect to become an acquaintance, or to claim anything further than the honor of the dance. Again, if the same facilities were allowed in France for the intimacy of young women and young men that are permitted in America, the most disorganizing consequences would ensue. At home I believe that the freedom of intercourse between the sexes leads to but little disorder and laxity of morals. I have heard that our young ladies go alone to the theatre with young men, go to walk with them, to ride with them—sleigh-riding, even—and come home no wiser than they went, or perhaps only a kiss or two worse. This would be utterly out of the question here. A young lady seen walking or riding with a gentleman in Paris, would be at once supposed to have lost all she had worth keeping, and probably the supposition would be correct. If insurmountable obstacles are thrown in the way of a greater familiarity between masters and misses, it is because they have been found indispensable.

American families that live here as residents are of course obliged to bring up their daughters in the French fashion. They never leave their mother's side, and walking, driving, and theatre going with them is as much out of the question as keeping company with the stars.

But families not familiar with Paris, sometimes make a very strange appearance without knowing it. I remember to have seen, some time since, a very beautiful young lady walking arm-in-arm with a daring-looking New Yorker, on the Champs Elysees! They had been accustomed to do so I believe, on Fifth avenue. I thought it my duty to go straight to the fair offender's mother, and remonstrate against a proceeding so inadmissible. The young lady hates me to this day, though she now knows enough of French manners to blush scarlet whenever she thinks of the appearance she must have made on her first and last promenade. In an American parlor, too, one night, I saw a Boston girl, who supposed herself still in Summer street, get behind a door and talk through the crack with a Baltimore boy. Two French ladies who were in the room, seriously contemplated rushing out into the street, as they were hardly sure that the place was respectable. Not wishing to earn this girl's hatred, too, I got somebody else to immolate himself, and to restore the two French ladies' composure.

PORTSMOUTH:
MONDAY, MARCH 13, 1853.

HEAR BOTH SIDES.

We give place below, to a letter from an opponent of the Maine Law, who means also to be heard here, if he can, on the same side of the question, in a lecture. He professes to be a friend of temperance, [who does not?] relying on moral suasion, but distrusting the law.

Correspondence of the Chronicle.
PORTLAND, March 10, 1853.

Messrs. Editors:—I have just returned from a two weeks' tour in the interior of the State, where I have been to gather reliable information by actual contact with the people, and talking freely with them on the operation and influence of the Maine Law; and, to speak the truth without reserve, I am glad to be able to state I have found the sober, thoughtful, well-disposed part of the population, of every religious sect, and all divisions of political parties, as a general thing, are in favor of the law, and would greatly mourn to see the law repealed, or any attempt so to do, by any clique or party. And I believe from the best information I can obtain, this feeling prevails almost universally in all parts of the State. I have sought to gain reliable information, and give you this as the result of my efforts in this particular; and think such a fact, coming as it does, from me, whom the editor of the Temperance Watchman has so often berated as an enemy to the "Club," and an "opposer of the law,—for such I am—is more important than if made by an out and out Maine Law man.

The real state of the case between the Watchman Clubs of this State, and myself, is just this: I am in favor of enforcing Temperance under Gospel teaching; regarding emperance as one of the essential, christian virtues; I am also in favor of the Washingtonian, or moral suasion influences to persuade men, rather than compel them by law—especially such a law as our Maine Law—which leads many men to become persecutors, smugglers, perjurers, informers, defamers, robbers and mischief makers, as is now done under the law, every day, and the people call it a good law! And why? Because the rich can obtain as much wine, brandy, porter, &c., as they want, at all times, and under all circumstances, in every village and town in the State—this no man will deny—while the poor man, the laboring man, is cut off, and not allowed to purchase a drop, except for medicine! and it is vastly wonderful what a large class of invalids we have made under this law! But this is not the worst feature of the law as developed among the actions of the people. I saw barrels of liquors, "Medford Rum," rolled off at several railroad stations, and this liquor is bought by companies of men in neighborhood, who agree to take 5, 10, 15 or 20 gallons, as the case may be; and I have heard of one man's selling thirty barrels in one village, within the last six months, in this county of Cumberland. I have heard of others doing the same thing, though not quite so extensively. It is a notorious fact, too, that in many of the towns and villages, the licensed vender does a large business, and sells to anybody and everybody, for the profits!—But where the licensed individual is really a good man, a consistent man of christian principles, who will not sell liquor to A. B. and C., because they want it; in such places there is smuggling! and all the low cunning, knavish feeling, and debasing influences of the more brutal passions are being nourished and developed. I have seen this in my late tour, in several instances; and think, however clamorous our people as a whole now are for the law, it cannot last many years; because the moral and religious sentiment is being outraged, and men are not willing to regard their neighbor as a criminal, deserving the jail or the penitentiary, because they violate the law of the State; and will refuse to become informers or complainers. This whole business is being left to Watchmen's Clubs; the church is not a party to this movement, and the clergy, as a general thing, stand aloof, and are independent, though they deplore drunkenness and rumselling; they see the temperance reform, once so popular with most christian churches, has actually been taken out of the hands of the church, and become so mixed up with politics, and made a mere hobby by blustering demagogues, the more thoughtful and devout of the clergy fear and stand aloof, and are denounced as rummies and rum sympathisers, by our Maine Law men.

This is the actual state of things in the State of Maine at the present time. I expect to be in Portsmouth (my native place) in a few days, when, if the Washingtonian and other friends of temperance, choose to hear me, I shall try to convince them that our good old moral suasion doctrine is the best law ever discovered to put down drunkenness.

Yours, truly, H. B. BREWSTER.

CHOICE OF MAYOR.

There is considerable interest felt, on the subject of the election of Mayor, and having examined the subject with some care, will thank you if you will make my views public through your valuable paper.

The 6th section of the city charter provides as follows: that the annual meeting of the inhabitants for the choice of city and ward officers, shall be holden on the second Tuesday of March; and they shall hold their respective offices for one year from the fourth Tuesday of March. And the 7th section provides that the clerk (the town clerk) shall within twenty four hours after such choice, deliver to each person chosen Common Councilman or Alderman a certificate of election, signed by himself, the moderator, and a majority of the selectmen present at said meeting. The same section also provides that if the choice of Common Councilmen or Aldermen cannot conveniently be made or completed on that day, the meeting shall be adjourned from day to day to complete the choice. We have thus provided, in a way that cannot be defeated, for the election of the Board of Aldermen and Common Councilmen, and which by section 2d of the charter are made the City Council, and are required by the 10th section of the charter to meet on the fourth Tuesday of March, in convention, at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

By the 8th section the citizens are required to vote for Mayor, which votes shall be received, sorted, counted, and declared, and a record thereof made, which record shall be delivered to the City Clerk after every and each meeting. The City Clerk shall immediately after receiving said copies, enter the same on the city records, and then lay the said copies before the Mayor and Aldermen, who shall thereupon examine the same, and cause the person who has been chosen Mayor, by a majority of votes in all the wards, to be notified of his election.

Section 4th of the amendments of the charter, provides that in case the citizens of Portsmouth shall fail at the annual meeting on the second Tuesday of March, to elect a Mayor, the City Council in convention by joint ballot shall choose a Mayor from the two highest candidates voted for at that election.

The provisions of the charter cited above show how and by whom the Mayor is to be elected. The new City Council (Aldermen and Council) meet on the fourth Tuesday of March, choose a chairman, examine their own qualifications for the respective offices for which they were chosen; and if no person claims to be elected Mayor, to call upon the Clerk (the old city Clerk) for the records, and from these records to proceed and elect a Mayor from the two highest candidates.

No election of Mayor can take place prior to these proceedings, there has been no vacancy in that office, there has existed no reason why an election was necessary, the government has been in full operation and no interest has suffered. The people have done all the charter required them to do, they have elected a City Council and voted for Mayor, presenting two candidates, from which the City Council are empowered to choose.

The old City Council cannot elect a Mayor for a term beyond their own time of service, and have no more right over that than of any other political subject belonging to the citizens.

It has been said that this case was somewhat similar to that of President of the United States in case no election was made by the people. I do not so understand it. In case there is no election by the people of President, the House of Representatives choose by states, not as legislators. The President has no veto. The people of the Union would be sensitive should the President undertake to exercise it.

The settling of this question involves the legality of all acts done by the government of the city for the year. *

CITY LAW.

A Correspondent, who does not believe the present City Council can legally choose a Mayor,—supposes a case, viz. that the the people of this or any other City, at their first meeting under the Charter, should fail to choose a Mayor—and asks what provision there is for a choice, except the City Council. Or "can they go back and form one out of the Selectmen of the former year?"

We answer this by quoting the closing paragraph of our City Charter, which reads thus,

"The first election of Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Councilmen shall be holden on the second Tuesday of March, A. D. 1850, and the returns, hereinbefore provided to be made to the Mayor and Aldermen, shall at that time be made to the Selectmen of the town of Portsmouth, who shall perform all the duties in relation to said election, herein assigned to the Mayor and Aldermen."

We can construe this only in one way, viz. that the Selectmen must choose him.

Our correspondent further asks. "Would this be in accordance with the wishes of many who seem to advocate the choice of Mayor by the old board instead of the new?"

Answer—Wishes are no guide at all in the case. We have no wishes about it; but the letter of the law, as we read it, is quite plain.

Our correspondent closes with this statement; "They seem to wish to form a kind of sliding scale, that slides to suit an interested citizen."

What citizen this can be, is a question we cannot answer—nor do we know any persons who wish any such things. We should deem the city quite safe under the Mayoralty of either of the Candidates—and only hope the City Council will con their little books carefully, and do their duty.

The Union is in no danger, whichever way they decide.

FAIR AT NEW CASTLE.—A fair, got up by the ladies of the Congregational Society in New Castle, is to come off at the Town Hall in that place, on Tuesday evening,—with music by the Brass Band, and many other attractions. Tickets ninepence.

THE OLD SHIP AMERICA.—The enquirer in the Journal need not go to Portland or elsewhere to look at the model of the ship America, but can feast his eyes thereon, in the Museum of the Atheneum in this city, to which he can easily gain admission by applying to a Director.

THE LATE JOHN H. SMITH.—It was stated in the papers, that "the Attorney General of New Hampshire refuses to commence proceedings until the State is indemnified against costs," in an indictment against the Boston, Concord and Montreal Railroad, for causing the death of that gentleman, at the collision at the Weirs in October last.

The last Dover Gazette contains a contradiction of this refusal, signed by the heirs, Messrs. Wm. B. and Jos. H. Smith, in which they say, that, so far from refusing to commence proceedings against that corporation, he has actually drawn an indictment and instituted proceedings against it; and that he has not required that the State should be indemnified against costs, nor, to their knowledge, mentioned the subject of costs in connection with that prosecution. He has done every thing an officer could do to secure their interests and the interests of the State.

WORTHY OF NOTICE.

The following appeared in the editorial of a Southern paper called the Carolina Spartan:

"We value slavery more than we do the Union, and in chosing a foe for our steel, in the settlement of this question, we would prefer a Northern man to a negro. Viewing slavery as we do—the very essence of our moral, physical and civil life—and looking upon the Union as the hateful instrument of its final overthrow, if not dissolved—we believe it would be to the best interests of the South to dissolve their existing connection with the North—and the sooner the better."

Here is fanatacism of a dark color: and may be profitably used as a mirror, by every person who is disposed to be ultra on any subject. It shows what a power of perversion dwells in the human mind; and how easily some men misjudge the plainest cases.

RETURNED.—Col. T. B. Lawrence, attache to the American legation to England, after a brief visit to the United States, returned to his post in London last week. Col. Lawrence has become highly popular during his residence abroad, and the service he has rendered in his official capacity is appreciated at home. During the mission of his father, (Hon. Abbott Lawrence,) he studied to make himself familiar with the duties of his own position, and discharged them with fidelity and earnestness. He remains in the same place under Mr. Ingersoll, and his continuance in office under the new regime is quite probable, from the fact of his peculiar fitness and the highly creditable manner in which he has always acquitted himself, both publicly and privately, since his appointment.—Exchange.

The Exchange that writes thus, whoever he may be, must be quite ignorant of Frank Pierce's political career in New Hampshire, and of Secretary Marcy's principles and mottoes, on which he has acted all along. Mr. M. was the publisher of that celebrated quotation, "To the Victors belong the Spoils:"—and now that he is Secretary of State "under the new regime," he will doubtless suit the action to the word, and send the whigs a-packing.

MISTERIOUS DEATH.—Mrs. Hendrickson, a young lady of estimable character and of highly respectable family, died very suddenly at her residence near Albany, on Monday, and her husband, who is said to have subjected her to ill-treatment, has been arrested on suspicion of having given her poison.

The "Strike" of the workmen of the Lowell Machine Shop continues, and the Lowell American states that there is no prospect that the ten hour demand will be acceded to.

SUICIDE.—Elizabeth Emerson of Belfast, Me., a young woman employed at the Tremont Corporation in Lowell, killed herself with poison on Wednesday.

Rev. Mr. Garretson has been liberated from prison at Ovid, New York, where he was confined for seducing a young lady, now deceased. He asserts his innocence and insists that he is the victim of a conspiracy. A civil suit is to be tried in April.

Why are the Emperor of Russia and a beggar very unlike? Because one issues manifestoes, and the other manifests toes without 'is shoes.

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

GARDINER TRIAL.—Washington, March 12.—Yesterday, in the Gardiner trial, Mr. May of Baltimore, opened the case for the government. After giving a succinct history of the case he stated what the prosecution expected to prove. Dr. Gardiner in a memorial to the board of Commissioners, stated that early in the year 1844 he was largely engaged in mining operations in the State of San Luis Potosi, Mexico—and employed 500 laborers. Had upwards of $500,000 invested in men, buildings, steam engines, horses, mules and men of science. That in 1846 he was compelled to abandon the establishment; his property having been spoiled by the Mexican soldiery. That the said mines were worth half a million of dollars, and would have yielded him $50,000 per annum. The accused filed with this memorial depositions perporting to be from persons residing in Mexico, going to show that he owned the mine. The issue was on the truth or falsity of these assertions. The U. S. affirmed and expected to prove that every sentiment in the memorial, and every paper presented by him were false from beginning to end—pure fiction and invention.

Gardiner received from the United States as the fruits of the fraud $428,750.

VERMONT.—Judge Blodgett is chosen County Commissioner in Washington county, Vt. He was the candidate of the opponents of the liquor law, which received 400 majority of "ayes" in the county at the recent vote of the people.

A heart-rending causalty occurred near Portland, Me., on Wednesday. A gentleman left the city with his wife and infant child in a sleigh, to go to his residence, a few miles out of town. In order to shield the infant from the weather, it was wrapped up very closely, and as it remained quiet they supposed it was asleep; but arriving at the place of their destination, it was taken from its manifold wrappers, when the fearful fact became apparent that it had been smothered to death. The infant was but four or five weeks old.—The anguish of the parents can better be imagined than described.—Advertiser.

FARE TO NEW YORK.—The lines between Boston and New York have agreed to fix the price of fare at $4 for passengers. The price of freights is to be four cents a foot.

WAR IN AFRICA.—Late accounts from the Western Coast of Africa, mention that a religious war was waging among the different tribes, the difficulty being about drinking—the Mirabous being the Maine liquor law and Mahomedan party; and those going for the fire-water of the whites and heathen, are the Mandegoes, Serawollows and the King of Combo. Trade was much interrupted by the existing difficulties. The King of Combo attacked the town of Savaga, containing some 4000 inhabitants, on the 23d of December, and was repulsed by the Miralous with a loss of 17 men, the latter losing but one man, and he a trader.

His Excellency the Governor of Bathurst would take the matter in hand. A settlement of the difficulties might be expected.

☞ Two women, named Ellen Lynch and Hannah Shaw, sisters, were found on the morning of the 11th, murdered in their own house, at Southwark, near Philadelphia. The house had been robbed. Mrs. Lynch leaves twins, only two weeks old. The husband of the other woman is in California.

MINING IN CONNECTICUT.—The old silver and lead mine at Middletown, Conn., is about to be worked vigorously. The report of the state geologist concerning it is very favorable. The vein in the shaft is three feet wide, and carries, it is believed, 30 or 40 ounces of silver to the ton. About 1500 feet of old drifts have been cleared out, and present very promising appearances. The mine has recently been sold for $50,000! Dr. Francfort, the mineralogist, who made the discovery of the great value of the mine, cleared for his part the sum of $30,000. The new company has organized with a capital of $200,000—Robert Bayard is President, and Dwight Johnson Secretary—both of the city of New York. The company will put on at once a force of some 200 men.—So says the Boston Courier.

The best silver mine ever worked in Connecticut, is its Yankee ingenuity and industry, displayed in the manufacture of Wooden Clocks and various other notions. But mining is all the rage, and she will have her share of it.

SHIP AND ENGINE BUILDERS.—Those of our mechanics, who may wish to engage in building here for the government, should understand that the Engineer Department at Washington have advertised for proposals for the construction of the steam dredging machines, tug boats and scows, wanted by the United States. They are required to be of the best materials, and will be well paid for. The same department advertise for proposals for furnishing the Portland harbor Breakwater, where a large amount of stone will be used.

BARQUE FAIRY—It was a great relief to those in the city and elsewhere, who had friends on board the barque Fairy, Capt. Albert Holbrook, of Wellfleet, Mass., to learn last week of their safe arrival at St. Thomas—the vessel, however, a total wreck. The Fairy sailed from Gibralter last November; since then nothing has been heard from her. Owners of the vessel and relatives of the captain considered all lost several weeks ago. It appears by a telegraphic despatch from the captain, that he was within three days' sail of New York three separate times, but the vessel being unmanageable, could not make that port.—Boston Times.

THE HEART'S OFFERING.

The annexed poem was written by Mr. T. B. Aldrich, a very youthful poet; who, we think, possesses talents of a very high order. His poetry is only equalled by the smoothness and purity of his versification. He will do well to cultivate with assiduity, talents that are capable of acquiring for him fame and distinction.—N. Y. Sunday Atlas.

THE HEART'S OFFERING.

BY T. B. ALDRICH.

Oh, glittering gold, ye cannot bind
The mortal spirit here;
Nor give new life to tottering age,
Nor check the trembling tear;
Yet many call thee Mammon God,
And worship at thy throne—
The wealth that God and angels love,
Lies in the heart alone.

Then gentle Nell, if love be true,
Methinks it matters not,
Where one may dwell, mid castle walls,
Or in the humble cot.
The castle is indeed but drear,
If hearts be wanting there;
With lowly cot and love sincere,
What palace can compare?

Now I've no gorgeous palaces,
Of marble towering high,
Nor friends, nor servants false alike
That bend obsequiously:
I cannot robe thy Hebe form,
In folds of rich brocade;
I cannot bind with clasps of gold,
Thy dark and silken braid.

I've ne'er a gem to deck thy brow,
For riches none have I;
But more than these I offer now,
A love that cannot die.
A love as sacred and as true,
As pure as e're thou art—
I offer all that Heaven craves,
The homage of the heart.

Thermometers.

IT is known to most scientific men in this country, that the late Thomas Kendall discovered a process, by which the graduation of the Thermometer scales may be made accurately to correspond with variations, which unavoidably exist in the calibre of the tube; thus overcoming what has been considered the insurmountable obstacle to the construction of a perfect Thermometer.
Profs. Silliman and Fisher, Yale College, (see Journal of Science and Arts, vol. 4, p 398,) and other scientific gentlemen, having examined this process, concur in saying that it is correct on mathematical and philosophical principles, and the only known way by which the difficulty referred to can be obviated.
This method has not been disclosed to other manufacturers of Thermometers, neither is it known to be in their possession. These Thermometers, therefore, are the only ones which can be relied upon for entire accuracy.
The subscriber has just received a lot of these Thermometers direct from the manufacturer and made expressly for his order, of various sizes and mountings, for the parlor or out of door use.
Also, a few Papier Mache Mantle Thermometers

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.
PORTSMOUTH:
TUESDAY, MARCH 15, 1853.

FROM HONDURAS.

Schooner Charles Pearson, arrived at New Orleans, March 9, from Honduras. She reports that great excitement prevailed on the Island in consequence of Her Britannic Majesty's war steamer Devastation having anchored off Toupillo, and demanded the surrender of the place in the name of the Mosquito King. The inhabitants were given two hours time to decide before the commencement of a bombardment. The inhabitants yielded to superior force, but solemnly protested against the outrage.

The Mosquito flag was hoisted, and the Honduras flag pulled down.

The British war steamer then proceeded to Limas, and cannonading was afterwards heard in that quarter. It was presumed that a contest was going on between the steamer and the Honduras troops.

This Steamer Devastation was one of the fleet which so annoyed our New England fishermen on the north-eastern coasts, last fishing season: and her drunken captain, who then made his offensive mission additionally and needlessly offensive, is probably at his old tricks again on the shores of Honduras. Such a commander of a public ship is a disgrace to any navy and to any government.

SIMON PETER'S LETTER.

Some time ago, Arch-Bishop Hughes, [Catholic] of New York, published a letter, defending the imprisonment of the Madiai family, on the ground that they committed a political offence, for which they were justly punished.

Now, one Simon Peter, (either the ghost or a successor of the Apostle who bore that nome,) answered the Archbishop's letter, and has the answer published in the New York Herald, in which he insinuates that the Archbishop himself gave $500, a few years ago, to stimulate rebellion and civil war in Ireland; Simon Peter herein makes a decided hit at the Archbishop's consistency.

THEATRICAL CRITICISM.—The Thespian critic of the Boston Times, says,

"At the Howard, 'The White Slave of England' has been running through the week.—The piece itself, is not worth a single comment, other than in the way of rebuke for the contemptible sentiment it contains, tending to the one point of an effort of the feeblest kind, to set the two nations by the ears. The only harm such trash can do, is to keep money out of the manager's pocket, as he has tested to his cost."

Let the critic never fear that any Englishman will be much affronted with an exhibition of his pauper system—nor that sensible Yankees will take any other than sober views of the social and political vices which have multiplied paupers in England.

It is a little remarkable, in this connection, that the Drama of Uncle Tom should have drawn full houses at the Museum, through a long season, while this intended counterpart to Uncle Tom, has only produced a beggarly account of empty boxes:—and while Uncle Tom will mount the stage once more, next Fall, the other, its rival play, goes off the boards never to come on again.

BOSTON BUSINESS CARDS.

Our columns to-day are so crowded with a large collection of these advertisements, that we have to omit much matter, and several other advertisements, for one day only.

Among these Cards, are wholesale advertisements of dry goods, carpets, clothing, paper hangings, groceries, tools, &c. Also advertisements of great mechanical works, as fire engines, lightning rods, pianos and organs. Medical, literary and musical notices, of books and professors. Luxuries, as cigars, perfumes, cosmetics and soaps.

All these attractions are spread before our citizens who visit the Capital of the Old Bay State, for business or pleasure:—and the reader who sees on a sign the well-remembered name of an advertiser in our paper, will be more likely to walk in there and purchase, than to buy elsewhere.

Competition is the life of business, (though sometimes the death of profit,)—and advertising is one of the grand instruments of competition. As a general rule, those traders who advertise extensively, do much more extensive business than others, who either do not advertise at all, or do it scantily. The advertisers in this list of cards may be fairly set down as some of the principal establishments in their respective lines.

Coleman & Stetson, of the Astor House, New York, have constructed, in the large area of that building, an iron and glass building, which they call the "Astor House Exchange." It is to be heated by furnaces in winter, and cooled in summer by air blown into the room. Every accommodation is provided for gentlemen to meet, eat, talk, drink, smoke, and read newspapers. The whole affair cost the proprietors no less than $20,000.

DROWNED IN A TUB.—The St. Louis, Mo. Intelligencer of Feb. 28, says that on the 25th in the afternoon an Irishman named Forpay, on leaving his house, near the corner of Spruce and Third streets, locked his wife, who was exceedingly intoxicated, in the room to prevent her going out in the street in that state during his absence. On returning about dusk he found her dead, with her body inclined forward by a washtub, and her head under the water. It is supposed that after partially recovering from her intoxication, she attempted to finish the washing which she had commenced, but being still under the effects of the liquor, staggered, and fell with her head in the water, from which position she was not able to extricate herself. The deceased was forty five years old, and left one child.

☞ A party of drunken sailors, belonging to ship Surprise, in New York harbor, bound to Australia, went on board on Friday morning, and so beat and wounded the mate and boatswain, that it is feared one or both of them will die. The drunken men were arrested. There seems to be no liquor law in New York.

VICE PRESIDENT KING.—It appears that the oath of office was not administered to the Vice President on the 4th inst. Mr. Rodney, our Vice Consul, visited Mr. King on the 3d for the purpose; but Mr. K. considered the ceremony unnecessary, fearing that he should never be able to reach Washington to assume the duties of the office, and if he should, the oath could be administered at Washington. The friends, however, who accompany him, encourage the hope that the salubrity of his present location may yet restore him to health.

INTERESTING ITEM.—The Bangor Courier has published daily, since the first of January, a Counting Room Almanac, probably to keep its readers posted up on the flight of time.

☞ Miss Lucy Stone has been lecturing in Newburyport, on Women's Rights. The editor of the Union thinks her beautiful as well as eloquent, and says she is just such a lady as any man would wish to hear, while perhaps few would want to marry, unless they would yield it to be a woman's right to have a pretty clear swing of affairs.

Twelve persons were arrested in Lowell on Saturday night for drunkenness. The News says that since the decision of Judge Merrick rum has run riot in Lowell, and scenes and abuses witnessed such as never before disgraced that city.

Judge Merrick decided that fines imposed were illegal, because the Justices who imposed them were citizens of Lowell! and therefore interested persons!

THE LIQUOR LAW OF IOWA.—The State of Iowa has had a stringent law against tippling since 1851. This law provides that the State, hereafter, shall take no share in the profits of retailing intoxicating liquors; or, in other words will not sanction the license system. Dram shops, and all places for the selling of liquor to be drunk on the premises, are strictly prohibited and declared public nuisances; and all persons engaged in any such acts above described, or in any way aiding or assisting, whether as principal, clerk, barkeeper or otherwise, are subject to the penalties provided in the law; and courts and juries are required to construe the law so as to prevent evasions and subterfuges and so as to cover the act of giving as well as selling intoxicating liquors at prohibited places. The New York Evening Post thinks the Iowa law an improvement on the Maine Law, disposing effectually of the grog shops, as great social nuisances, without making "wholesale war," upon what it terms "natural rights." The law is said to operate very satisfactorily in Iowa.

The correspondent of the New York Courier has the following in relation to the great custom-house claim:—

The circular of the late Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Corwin, issued March 3d, and allowing to certain Collectors of Customs, at different ports, their claims to monies collected for violation of the revenue laws, since 1846, has been suspended but not reversed in its operation, by an order issued by the new Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Guthrie. The amount of those claims in New York, during Mr. Maxwell's term, was seventy-two thousand dollars; during that of Mr. Lawrence, thirty-six thousand dollars, and about half this amount for other ports. Originally, Secretary Walker gave his construction that the claims should be allowed. Secretary Meredith reversed Mr. Walker, Secretary Corwin reversed Mr. Meredith, and now Secretary Guthrie nullifies Mr. Corwin.

At the Theatre Francais, Paris, not long since M. Arsene Houssaye, the manager, received the Emperor and Empress, in full dress, wearing a sword, with a candelabra, and four candles in one hand. Escorting them to their box he went backwards, and the sword caught in an ornamental shrub, throwing him down and smearing his embroidered coat with the melted wax of the candles.

INDIGNATION MEETING.—The New York Day Book informs us that the convicts at Blackwell's Island have held an indignation meeting and appointed a committee to inquire into the cause of "public clamor" against petty thieves and vagrants, and report upon the same. It was said at the meeting that there was no less than forty as respectable and honest men in confinement on the Island as ever made a contract or drank a cup of tea, and that "public clamor" and prejudice created by the newspapers were the causes of their arrest and conviction.

LOCAL.

For the Chronicle.

THE CITY COUNCIL DECAPITATED.

THE ELECTION OF MAYOR.

Messrs. Editors:—In the Chronicle of yesterday morning, we observed an article under the head of "Choice of Mayor," in which the writer would convince us the Mayor does not belong to the City Council. Now we had always supposed that the Mayor was the principal officer in the City Council; we could not see how "the administration of all the fiscal, prudential and municipal affairs of said city, and the government thereof," could properly be vested in the Mayor, and how he could "preside in the Board of Aldermen and in joint meeting of the two Boards, but shall have a casting vote only," and how "the Mayor and Aldermen shall compose one Board, and shall sit and act together as one body," unless the Mayor was de jure a member of the City Council. Perhaps your correspondent had not read the Book; and perhaps he does not know the City Council are in possession of the fact of a failure to elect a Mayor by the people. How stands the record? It speaks for itself, and so does the charter.

There is a failure. The charter commands "In case the citizens of Portsmouth shall fail at the annual meeting on the second Tuesday of March, to elect a Mayor, the City Council in convention by joint ballot shall (!) choose a Mayor from the two highest candidates voted for at that election." Now by the record and the letter of the charter, how is it possible for the City Council to avoid this duty? Shall they violate their oath of office, sworn as they are "to faithfully and impartially discharge and perform all the duties incumbent on them, according to the best of their abilities, agreeably to the rules and regulations of the Constitution and laws of the State of New Hampshire?" Is this not the law and the oath they have taken? The time is designated in case of failure, the 2d Tuesday of March; where is the City Council in this event, unless it is the present? We know of no other. This City Council, then, must act, let the consequences take care of themselves.

A CITIZEN.

FIRE, FIRE!—The fire yesterday P. M. at a quarter past two, was—nowhere,—we believe. At Market Square, we understood it was at the Railroad Depot, and at the Depot it was said to be still further north:—but we did not chase it.

We have since been informed that the alarm was caused by the burning of a partition in a house on Myrtle street, occupied by Mrs. Manson. Damage trifling.

While on this subject we would suggest to the City Marshal to keep the Engines off the side walk and direct them to go in he middle of the street. An engine and fifty men on the side walk, are rather an impediment to pedestrians.

Miss Hannah F. Gould, the sweet and eminent poetess of New England, composed a spirited ode for the recent celebration of the twenty-second of February in Newburyport. The Herald of that city says, "It was one of the best patriotic odes we have ever read, and it was a sure warrant that the spirit of right and liberty, which animated the soul of her father in the days of our country's struggles, still lives in her own. For her father it was who first broke through the barricades of Lexington, and himself, the bravest of the brave, captured the first gun upon that memorable day."

☞ The following is the appropriation for the Navy Yard at Kittery Me., near Portsmouth:

For coopers' shop and watchman's quarters, dredging in front and pointing and puddling stone basin, boiler-room, boilers, engine, and machinery, reservoir for engine-house, pipes, gutters, drains, and cisterns, grading yard near timber shed, and for repairs of all kinds, including care of floating-dock, fifty three thousand one hundred and seven dollars.

A GOOD ONE.—In the U. S. Senate, last week, an Indiana man twitted Clark, of Rhode Island, about the Governor of that State having so poor a salary that he was obliged to raise cows and peddle milk. Clark rejoined saying that while in Rhode Island they killed their calves and sold their milk, in Indiana they raised their calves and sometimes sent them to Congress. The Indiana man sat down, pretty well skimmed.

A VIRGINIA CORN FIELD.—There is a corn field on the Roanoke river, at the place where it is crossed by the Weldon and Portsmouth railroad, which is ten miles long and as wide as the low grounds of the river are broad. This little patch of corn is worked by a man named Pollock, who owns two thousand slaves to work it.

An exchange paper observes that "it is a remarkable fact that people who go up in balloons are not sensible of their own motion." It doesn't strike us as at surprising. "Sensible" people do not go up in balloons.—Boston Post.

An exchange paper says there is in one of the country poor-houses of Alabama an old man of more than ninety years, who was the ferryman for Washington and his army when he crossed the Delaware just prior to achieving the great victories of Trenton and Princeton.

Opinions of Post—Traveller—Transcript.
This is a fine collection of extracts from American speeches and orations. This book is worth buying for its fac-similies alone.—Boston Post.
It combines an excellent and well printed selection from the speeches and occasional addresses of many of those who have given a tone and character to our public oratory. The Fac-Similes embrace the autographs of more than four hundred persons.—Boston Traveller.
The author has been enabled to give very ample spicimens of the prose eloquence of our principle orators and speakers. The selections are made with much good taste.—Boston Transcript.

ARRIVAL OF THE AFRICA.

The steamer Africa, Capt. Harrison, from Liverpool, Sunday morning, 27th ult., arrived at New York, on Sunday P. M., March 13. She brings 58 passengers and $97,000 in specie.

The Africa was detained in consequence of a terrible storm at Liverpool, which prevented her getting her mails on board.

The Liverpool Cotton Market is 1-8d lower. Breadstuffs are dull.

The singular features of the news is, that France, while professing to act with Austria in the Montenegrin difficulty, is evidently on terms of the closest relationship with Turkey.

Apprehensions are entertained of an outbreak in Hungary.

Mazzini is suspected of being in Milan.

ENGLAND.—On Thursday an important debate took place in the House of Lords with respect to the war with Ava.

The Earls of Aberdeen and Derby defended the policy hitherto pursued, and the latter read a memorandum, written by the late Duke of Wellington, to prove that the war could not have been avoided, and that, in justice to the Peguese, and to England, government was bound not to stop short of the annexation of the province.

In the House of Commons on Friday, the subject of the Jewish disabilities was discussed, the object being to extend to Jewish subjects of Great Britain the same privileges as were enjoyed by Protestant dissenters and Roman Catholics. A motion by Lord John Russell that the House go into Committee to consider the subject, was carried by a vote of 234 to 205.

The chief mate of the steamer Victoria, lost off Dublin, has been indicted for manslaughter.

It is not believed in the London Exchange that the difficulty between Austria and Turkey will result in war.

John Williams, a native of Boston, U. S., has been sentenced to death at Edinburg, for the murder of an old man named Adam Mather.

FROM CUBA—MR. KING'S HEALTH.—New Orleans, March 12.—The steamer Crescent City, from Havana, arrived to-day.—A passenger who left Mantanzas on the 4th, says that Mr. King was very low, getting worse and will in all probability never leave Mantanzas.

SANTA ANNA.—New Orleans, March 10.—The brig Robertson, at Mobile, from Vera Cruz 1st inst., reports having met the English steamer going in with Santa Anna on board; his colors were flying at the topmast.

MOB BY STRONG-MINDED WOMEN.—The Cleaveland Herald says that on the 1st inst., some thirty women, well backed by gentlemen, proceeded to the grocery of Anthony Jacobs, in Ashland, and asked him to discontinue the sale of liquor and the use of a bagatelle board, which had enticed many of the youth and some of the married men from their homes.—He refused, and the ladies chopped his bagatelle table into kindling wood, and emptied his liquors into the street. They then visited another grocery and a tavern, both of which capitulated.

SUICIDE.—William Acres, a sailmaker, aged about twenty-one years, committed suicide on Thursday evening by jumping from one of the East Boston ferry boats. It is said that he had been unwell for two or three months, and had been absent from home since Monday last. He leaves a mother, sister and brother in East Boston.

The late Col. Thomas Green of Savannah has left his large property to trustees, to accumulate fifteen years, and then be applied to the building of a ship canal across his plantation, on Hutchinson's island, to connect the Ogeechee and Savannah rivers. This was the favourite project of Col. Green during his lifetime.

The Ellsworth Herald says:—A man at Mt. Desert, a few days since, received a Bounty Land Warrant, printed in red ink, whereupon his wife dryly observed, that she supposed it was on account of the blood he shed in the Aroostook war!

FATHER AND DAUGHTER.—Horace Mann says that Henry VIII and his daughter Elizabeth were as much alike as possible, and yet such is the inherent difference of the sexes, that they were after all essentially dissimilar. "He was composed of ten thousand bears, and she of ten thousend cats." Could pantaloons abolish that distinction? Mr. Mann thinks not.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS

With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,

No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IN 1840 the subscriber was appointed Agent of the United States Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th section of the Act of 1837.

Having relinquished the agency for the transmission of models, and adopting a more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, whereby a Patent can be procured several weeks earlier, he continues to forward them, as before, free of expense, and to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe.

The subscriber aims to present to inventors superior facilities for obtaining patents; and is now prepared to make Specifications at rates cheaper by ten to twenty per cent. than those of other agencies. They can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as the personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,

Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,

Late Commissioner of Patents."

"PATENT OFFICE,

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agent. I am very respectfully,

Yours, &c. THOMAS EWBANK,

Commissioner of Patents."

Boston, Dec. 7, 1852. eodly

THE ART OF BEING BEAUTIFUL.

IT has long been a desideratum that some scientific man should apply himself to the study of the human scalp. Dr. JACOBY, the great Pathologist, from Berlin, has done this, and in this new field has attained the most brilliant results.—Satisfied by an analysis of the red colored alcohols and other washes, of their deleterious effects, he compounded his celebrated Berliner Haar Wasche, to the efficacy of which thousands of witnesses might be summoned, of the accompanying character:—

BOSTON, Jan 1, 1848.

This is to certify that I have had an article called the Berliner Haar Wasche applied during the past five or six weeks to my head, for the purpose of renewing and strengthening the hair. It has been very effective in producing such a result; and I can cheerfully recommend the same to those afflicted with baldness or diseases connected therewith.

JOHN S. CHICKERING.

It frequently happens that ladies suffer from hair eaters, and apply some of the nostrums prepared by apothecaries, who think, because they can make poor soda water, they can prepare good hair wash. The effect of these is often highly injurious. Ladies, use none of them,—consult Dr. Jacoby, who will eradicate the nuisance and guarantee a beatiful head of hair. His motto is, no cure, no pay.

To those at a distance, the Champoo Washer Nos. 1 and 2, and Hair Wasche, are recommended.—There is, however, no universal specific, and all persons troubled, should if possible see Dr. Jacoby.

In the course of his scientific research, Dr. Jacoby has discovered a Hair Dye that does not stain the skin, will give any shade of color, and will stand exposure in all weather. The accompanying certificate, from a highly scientific source, must satisfy the most incredulous.

BOSTON, Nov. 18, 1851.

I have seen Mr. Moses Jacoby's Hair Dye, used in coloring hair of a deep brownish black, of a beautiful natural color, and can certify that it is perfectly efficient and permanent.

CHARLES T. JACKSON, M.D.,

Assayer to the State of Maine.

Dr. Jacoby's rooms are at 5 Franklin street, Boston, where he may be consulted at all hours.—There are always in attendance in both ladies' and gentlemen's rooms the most skilful hair dressers.

Thermometers.

IT is known to most scientific men in this country, that the late Thomas Kendall discovered a process, by which the graduation of the Thermometer scales may be made accurately correspond with variations which unavoidably exist in the calibre of the tube; thus overcoming what has been considered the insurmountable obstacle to the construction of a perfect Thermometer.

Profs. Silliman and Fisher, Yale College, (see Journal of Science and Arts, vol. 4, p 398,) and other scientific gentlemen, having examined this process, concur in saying that it is correct on mathematical and philosophical principles, and the only known way by which the difficulty referred to can be obviated.

This method has not been disclosed to other manufacturers of Thermometers, neither is it known to be in their possession. These Thermometers, therefore, are the only ones which can be relied upon for entire accuracy.

The subscriber has just received a lot of these Thermometers direct from the manufacturer and made expressly for his order, of various sizes and mountings, for the parlor or out of door use.

Also, a few Papier Mache Mantle Thermometers

FRANKLIN AND THE BARBER.

On Dr. Franklin's arrival at Paris, as Plenipotentiary from the United States, during the Revolution, the king expressed a wish to see him immediately. As there was no going to the court of France, in those days, without permission of the wigmaker, a wigmaker of course was sent for.

In a few minutes a richly dressed Monsieur, with his arms folded in a prodigious muff of furs, and a long sword by his side, made his appearance. It was the king's wigmaker, with a servant in livery, a long sword by his side too, and a load of sweet-scented band-boxes, full of "de wig," as he said, "de superb wig for de great Doctor Franklin."

One of the wigs was tried on—a world too small! Band-box after band-box was tried, but with small success.

The wigmaker fell into a most violent rage, to the extreme mortification of Dr. Franklin, that a gentleman, so bedecked with silks and perfume, should, notwithstanding, be such a child.

Presently, however, as in all the transports of a great discovery, the wigmaker cried out that he knew where the fault lay—not in his wig as too small. "O no," said he, "my wig no too small, but the doctor's head too big, great deal too big, by gar!"

Franklin, smiling, replied "that the fault could hardly lie there; for that his head was made by God Almighty himself, who was not subject to err."

Upon this the wigmaker took in a little; but still he contended that there must be something the matter with the Doctor's head. It was at any rate out of fashion. He begged Dr. F. would "please for remember dat his head had not de honeer to be made in Parre. No, by ga! for if it had been made in Parre, it no bin more dan half such a head." None of the French nobles, he swore, had a head anything like his. "Nor de great Duke D'Orleans," nor the grand Monarch himself, had such a head as Dr. Franklin. And he did not see, he said, "what business any body had wid a head more big dan de head of the grand monarque."

Pleased to see the poor wigmaker recover his good humor, Dr. Franklin could not find it in his heart to put a check to his childish rant, but related one of his fine anecdotes, which struck the wigmaker with such an idea of his wit, that, as he retired, which he did bowing most profoundly, he shrugged his shoulders, and with a most significant, arch look, said:

"Ah, Doctor Franklin! Doctor Franklin! I no wonder your head too big for my wig. By gar, I 'fraid your head too big for all de French nation."

A NEGRO SERMON.—The discourse from which the annexed passage is taken, was actually preached in the town of Zanesville, Ohio, some years ago. The name of the reverend divine, who was a colored gentleman, and we believe a sincere and humble Christian, we have forgotten; but the Judge Harper to whom he refers we remember well. He was, we believe, at that time presiding Judge of the 15th Judicial Circuit of the Court of Common Pleas, has since represented the District in Congress, and is, if we are not mistaken, the present Representative. The Judge was present at the delivery of the sermon, and was brought in by the preacher, by way of illustrating a certain position, then and there taken by him. But to the passage:

"My dear frens and bredren," said the preacher, "de soul of the brack man is dear to the Lord as de soul of de white man.

Now you all see Judge Harper, a sittin dah leanin' on his gold headed cane—you all know de Judge, niggers, and berry fine man he is; too. Well, now, Ise gwine to make a little comparishment. Supposin' de Judge some fine mornin' put his basket on his arm, an' goes to market to buy a piece ob meat. He soon finds a nice fat piece of mutton, and trots off wid it. Do you s'pose de Judge would stop to 'quire wedder dat mutton was ob a white sheep, or a black sheep? No, nuffin ob de kind—if de mutton was nice and fat, it would be all de same to de Judge. He would not stop to ax wedder de sheep had white wool or brack wool.

Well, just so it is, my frens, wid our Heb-enly Marster. He does not stop to ax wedder a soul 'longs to a white man or a brack man—wedder his head is kivvered with straight har, or kivvered wid wool. De question he will ax, will be—'Is dis a good soul?' an' if so, de Marster will say—'Enter into de joy ob our Lord, an' set down on de same bench wid de white man; yo'se all on a perfect quality.'"

—Decatur Gazette.

THE AILANTHUS TREE.—Congress has solemnly proscribed this tree in an especial act. To the item in the Civil and Diplomatic Bill, providing for setting out the public grounds in Washington with trees, is this condition: "That no more ailanthus trees shall be purchased or planted in the public grounds."

We find in the Navy Appropriation Bill this item: "For the completion of a scientific investigation and experiments upon the character of alimentary substances, used as subsistence in the Navy, and means to prevent their deterioration, five thousand dollars is appropriated.

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.
PORTSMOUTH:
WEDNESDAY, MARCH 16, 1853.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

Thursday, the 17th, is set down in the Calendar as St. Patrick's Day. It is a Catholic Festival, and still more, an Irish Festival.—And though we are neither Roman Catholic nor Irish, (that we know of, though we have sometimes suspected ourselves of an Irish facility of making blunders,) yet we confess a great reverence for the memory and character of St. Patrick, not so much as a Saint half worshipped by Irish Catholics, but more as a good missionary and wise man, who tamed a nation of wild pagans, and left his mark on that land for good and only good, plainly visible for centuries, and dimly so to this day. We can laugh at superstition, and be amused with the mythic stories about St. Patrick, but we admire the sturdy faith of his followers, and we honor him both as a genius and a good man.

The Celt newspaper says:

The festival of the Irish Race being now at hand, a few suggestions from one as anxious for its proper observance as any man alive, cannot be ill-timed.

What is the day to be so honored? It is a day sacred to the memory of an illustrious Bishop and Doctor; it is the day of his death as a man, and of his birth as a Saint; it is the day which Rome allotted to his memory, out of all the days of the year. Thus, in celebrating it in any spirit, we recognize, first, the sanctity of the Saint, secondly, the authority of Rome in assigning him a place on the calendar and an office in the liturgy; thirdly, we profess to be influenced by the example of the illustrious person whose anniversary it is.

The festival of a National Saint is properly the occasion for innocent enjoyments. In so doing, we may be sure we do not displease him whom we purport to honor. While in life, it is well known that Saint Patrick was a patron of the innocent amusements and of the public games of the Irish, and of certain feasts, music, and the modest dances of our ancestors. Every national custom which was not of pagan meaning, he left untouched and uncensured. But we must remember along with this, that in his day drunkenness was unknown to the people among whom he labored. Had it been otherwise, he probably would not have permitted such festivals as that held annually on St. John's Eve.

TWO VACANCIES FILLED.—We perceive by the papers, that the Rev. Rufus Ellis, of Northampton, has accepted the unanimous invitation of the First Church and Society in Boston, (Chauncy place,) to become their pastor.—For the last ten years, Mr. Ellis has been pastor of the Unitarian Church in Northampton. Chauncey Place has been without a pastor two or three years, having dismissed at his own request, the late pastor, Dr. Frothingham, a most beautiful writer and speaker, whose enfeebled health made pastoral labors undesirable, and whose wealth renders a pastoral salary of no account. The society is one of the wealthiest in the city, and liberal withal.

A letter of acceptance from Rev. A. B. Fuller, late of Manchester, N. H., was read on Sunday to the New North Society in Boston. Their late pastor was a young preacher of fine talents: but the society is rather poor, and not rapidly increasing, as the Protestant population at the North end is removing to other and better localities.

Both these removals will leave vacancies to be filled—places, we should deem, not less inviting, nor less important, than those now filled in Boston.

FANEUIL HALL.—This grand old Hall is to be enlarged. In the Boston City Council on Monday afternoon, the Committee on Public Buildings, who were directed to inquire into the expediency of improving the present interior of Faneuil Hall, reported that by raising the upper ceiling of the Hall, and removing from the building the present armories, which are conceded by all to be too low and contracted for the purpose for which they are used, an additional gallery can be obtained for the hall, capable of containing seven hundred and fifty persons. The interior effect of the hall will be very much improved, and no detriment occasioned to the building. It is not proposed to change or alter the present form or fashion of the building, but simply to add the proposed gallery. The cost of the proposed alteration is estimated at $11,500.

THE LIVERPOOL STORM.—We barely mentioned it on Monday; and in the Boston Advertiser it is further stated, that on Saturday the 26th, at the hour for the departure of the Africa, a storm was raging, the most violent that has visited Liverpool for many years. Its approach was announced by the fall of the barometer one and a half inches in the space of 12 hours. Vessels at anchor had great difficulty in holding their moorings, and some broke loose and sustained considerable damage. In consequence of the swell of the sea it was impracticable to ship the Africa's mails, and she consequently did not leave Liverpool until the 27th.

We shall doubtless hear of many wrecks, by the arrival of the next steamer.

CHOICE OF MAYOR.

Messrs. Editors:—

"A citizen" in your paper of yesterday, misapprehended the writer of the 14th, under the head of "Choice of Mayor" as much as he does the true enactments of the Charter itself. It was not contended that the Mayor was not the chief executive officer of the City, nor were his duties at all discussed. The object was only to settle the manner of his election and by whom it should be made. There was no attempt to decapitate the City Council, but rather to show by fair reasoning and citing the city charter, that the citizens did not wish the present City Council to be double headed, and that they had no right to elect a Mayor.

"A citizen" says, that perhaps your correspondent has not read the Book, and perhaps he does not know that the City Council are in possession of the fact of the failure to elect a Mayor by the people. I would inform a "citizen" that I have carefully read the book, but do not know that the City Council are legally informed that the people have failed to elect a Mayor. Let us see how the matter stands:

The charter provides, as I have before stated, that there shall be an election of city officers on the 2d Tuesday of March to hold office from the 4th Tuesday, for one year, until, &c.; and the town clerk is within twenty four hours to notify them of their election, and to meet at 10 o'clock the 4th Tuesday of March to organize the Boards to which they are chosen.

These officers know nothing and have no evidence of their election except the certificate from the clerk: no hearsay or record would give them power to act. The old board do not meet on the 4th Tuesday of March to see if their power is continued by the failure to elect a new board, or if elected eligible,—but take it for granted, in the absence of notice, that they are not elected and consequently no longer in office. The Mayor, if one is elected, is to be notified by the Mayor and Aldermen. If, therefore, an election happens, all is well enough. How stands the matter in case no election takes place? A meeting has been held by the inhabitants, the record has been made of the proceedings of the meeting, which on the 4th Tuesday of March goes to the city council, who are on that day to take the administration into their hands.

The present City Council have nothing to do with the record; they are to know nothing of it. It relates to proceedings of an election and action of the city beyond their own term of office.

It is contended that the Mayor is to preside over the new city council because the charter provides that the Mayor, Aldermen and Common Council shall continue in office for one year from the 4th Tuesday of March, and ununtil others are chosen.

The wheels of government having been put in motion, the presumption is that all required officers will be chosen, and those holding offices must act on this presumption, and are bound to presume so till the contrary appears.

The course of the Mayor then would be, not having been notified of his election (re-election), to presume that some other person had been, and attend to his own business on the 4th Tuesday as other persons do; and if the city council cannot elect, agreeably to the provisions of the city charter, they will give him due notice, and he will resume his position as Mayor. Making up a record is no evidence of an election, nor is common report: something more tangible and certain than this is required. *

MUSIC IN PORTSMOUTH.

There are some people—old fogies of course—who would fain have us believe that the science of Music has less attention given to it in our city now, than when they were young. They also would have us believe there are no singers now so refined and cultivated as those who sang here fifteen or twenty years ago.—To judge from what these would-be musical cognoscenti say of the companions of their youth, when comparing them with the singers of the present day, a person would suppose them fully equal, if not superior to Jenny Lind.

It is an excellent thing to have a good opinion of one's self, but this feeling may be carried too far. I think the antiquated people alluded to above, are exemplifications of this fact, and shall endeavor to enlighten them in regard to the interest felt in, and attention paid to music in our city. Nearly or quite all the dilettanti of Portsmouth have their houses furnished, among other things, with piano fortes, and I think I am correct in saying the number of singers and players in this city has doubled within the last fifteen years. An effort is being made by a number of gentlemen connected with the Unitarian Choir, to form a Union Choir, for the purpose of practice and improvement in sacred music. A meeting of the Union Choir was held some weeks since, at the Stone Church, the members of several choirs being present; the singing on the occasion was very fine, and if the meetings were kept up, they would doubtless result in much improvement, at least of the younger members.

A club for the practice of songs and glees, called the Philharmonic Club, was formed a few months since, and have made very rapid progress. From what I know of several of the members, and what is said of the others, I think this club must be a superior one.—Those who have heard them, speak very highly of their singing, and wonder why they do not favor the public with a musical soiree. They would doubtless meet with a cordial reception, and it is to be hoped they will consent to give their friends at least one entertainment, as soon as convenient. A LOVER OF MUSIC.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN UNION.—On Tuesday forenoon we observed about forty respectable looking young men crossing Market Square in couples, and passing up Market street in regular order. On inquiring who they were, and why they had thus turned out in procession, we were told that they were members of the Young Men's Christian Union of this city, and that they were going to Kittery to attend the funeral of a deceased brother, Mr. George Hutchings, of Kittery, whose death we published on Monday. The same funeral services were also attended by an engine company, and other acquaintances of the deceased, from this city. Social and fraternal institutions, of all sorts, have their uses,—and tend to give the members better views of men, by bringing them into a closer acquaintance.

☞ While the procession was following the body of Mr. George Hutchings to the grave, at Kittery Point, yesterday afternoon, a horse took fright, run away, and overturned a chaise to which he was attached. Mr. J. Wesley Moses and wife, who were in the chaise, were somewhat injured, the latter severely so.

COURT RECORD.—The District Court of the United States for the District of New Hampshire, held a session at the Court House in this city, on Tuesday, Hon. Matthew Harvey presiding. The only business was a few cases in Bankruptcy and in Admiralty, which were variously disposed of.

☞ By reference to our Advertising Columns, it will be seen that Dr. N. L. Folsom of Dover proposes taking up his residence among us for the purpose of practising his profession. He comes highly recommended by the first physicians of Dover, and from a personal acquaintance, we can commend him as an experienced and well qualified practitioner of medical art and science.

WINTER NEVER ROTS IN THE SKY!—Thus spoke our grandmothers, and wise old dames were they. Nothing rotted in our climate yesterday—for the Thermometer stood at only 5 degrees below 0, at sunrise, and 7 above at 9 o'clock, A. M.

Spring weather we had during the winter—and now we have wintry weather in the spring.

A very valuable "dead letter" came to life again at the letter office in Washington, on Monday last. Last September a gentleman of one of the Western States purchased a farm still further in the "Eden of America." He was going in person to survey his new possession, but instead of carrying a sum of $2500 about him, preferred consigning it to the mails. On arriving at the town which was the terminus of his journey, he enquired at the post office for the letter which contained the treasure, but owing to the failure of the mail on that particular day, or some other cause, he did not receive it. The alleged loss was communicated to the Department at Washington, and prompt measures were adopted to ferret out the cause. On Monday, however, the letter enclosing five $500 bills in good money, was received as a "dead letter." The owner was immediately apprized of the discovery, and will soon be in possession of the funds.

A BOUNCING BOY.—There is a couple in Charlestown, who disbelieve in the virtues of corporal punishment, and who, when their children need chastisement, resort to solitary confinement rather than the rod. On Friday last their young son, a lad about four years old, offended his mother, and she at once seized him, conveyed him to a chamber in the third story of the house, and locked him up. The youngster was sadly exercised for a means of escape from his prison. He finally raised the window, and deliberately jumped into the yard, which was paved with brick, and though the leap must have been at least twenty-five feet, he escaped the slightest injury. He was the first to apprise his mamma of the achievement. It is to be hoped that this providential escape of the child will induce parents to avoid transcendentalism in the management of babies.—Boston Courier.

THE ALDERMEN IN COURT.—In the Superior Court, before Judges Duer, Emmet, and Bosworth, the case of Aldermanic contempt was decided. Sturtevant was fined $250, and to be committed to the City Prison for fifteen days! and also to pay $102 to the relators. All the others, except Smith, were fined $250, and $101 50 to relators.

Dougherty was also fined $100, and ordered to pay $101 50. The Judges were very decided in their sentence of Alderman Sturtevant. Judge Emmet throught fifteen days was not long enough. They have all taken an appeal. —N. Y. Mirror.

THIRD OFFENCE?—William Daily was convicted on Monday, at Portland, of a third offence for selling liquor, before the Municipal Court, and was sentenced to three months imprisonment in the County jail, and to pay a fine of $20 and costs.

RESTITUTION OF MONEY OBTAINED BY FORGERY.—A cashier of a bank in Lexington, Ky., writes us that a few months since, a teller in that bank paid a forged check for the amount of $683, and that on the 24th ult., he received a letter from Archbishop Hughes, of New York, containing a check for the above amount, stating that the money was received from Belfast, Ireland, by the last steamer from an individual, with a request that it be forwarded to the above bank. Conscience was at work with its mysterious influence, and the ritual confessional, no doubt, caused the money to be restored.—Cin. Gazette.

The steamer John L. Stephens arrived at Panama, March 3d.

The Sierra Nevada sailed on the 5th for San Francisco, with the Uncle Sam's outward passengers.

The steamer Panama, from San Francisco, arrived on the 2d, with 320 passengers, and $726,000 in specie.

Travelling on the Isthmus was remarkably good.

Dates from California are to the 16th.—The weather throughout the mines was delightful, and the miners were mostly doing well.

Benica had finally been fixed upon as capital of the State.

The steamers Panama and ——— left San Francisco on the 15th and 16th, with nearly $4,000,000 of gold.

Some fresh fighting had occurred between the miners and Indians on the Dry Creek.—Several whites had been killed.

The excitement in Calveras County, concerning Mexican marauders, continued. The entire Mexican population had been driven away. The utmost consternation prevailed among all the foreigners.

Beautiful specimens of diamonds, rubies, and emeralds, had been found in the interior.

The British ship Brandt, from Chincha Islands, with a cargo of guano, was burnt on the night of 25th January, off those islands.

A Frenchman, named Leamantour, has sent into the Land Commissioner's office claims to an immense tract of land, including nearly the whole of San Francisco.

Charleston, March 14.—The hail storm on Thursday lasted but ten minutes, but in that time did an immense damage. Almost every house in the city was injured. Warehouses and dwelling houses were blown down, or unroofed, and almost every chimney in the place was demolished. Taylor & Co.'s gin factory was largely damaged. It is reported that the bridge in Girard was blown down, and a wagon, horses, and driver precipitated into the river. No lives were lost, it is believed; the damage is immense, impossible to be estimated at present.

Washington, March 14.—In the Gardiner Trial the argument upon the admissibility of the Memorial was continued at length, and finally Judge Crawford decided that the evidence adduced was sufficient to justify the reading of the Memorial. Mr. May, United States Counsel, then read it to the jury, and the court adjourned till morning. The case now goes on upon its merits, and will probably occupy several weeks.

FIRE.—Louisville, March 14.—The extensive pork house of Jackson, Ouseley & Co., was partially burnt last night—70,000 pieces of meat were consumed. Loss $75,000; fully insured here and in New Orleans.

Mr. Trowbridge, formerly a telegraph clerk in this city, has been sentenced in St. Louis to three years imprisonment in the penitentiary, for forgery.

THE SOUTHWARK TRAGEDY.—Philadelphia, March 14.—Additional circumstances have been discovered rendering the evidence against Spring, an old culprit, as guilty of the late murders, conclusive. Mr. Lynch has returned from New York, and says his wife had $170 in her trunk.

FISHERIES AND RECIPROCITY.—The European Times, says:—

We are gratified to learn, by the latest accounts from America, that the vexed question of the fisheries is about to be settled, on terms which cannot fail to prove satisfactory to our colonists on the North American continent, to the people of the United States, and to those of the mother country.

The latest provincial papers, per contra, breathe nothing but hostility to the "Seymour bill," and talk as largely to Great Britain as they do to the United States. They declare their motto to be "reciprocity or retaliation," but no one knows what they mean by "reciprocity."—Boston Courier.

THE GREAT VASSAL CLAIM IN MAINE.—Messrs. Peter Cooper, Gilmore Blin and Moses Harris, by advertisement, invite a meeting of all persons who own lands which were formerly included in what was known as the "Vassal Claim," at Augusta, on the 12th of April next. In consequence of the late decision of the U. S. Court reversing the decision of Judge Woodbury in the case of Henry Webster vs. Peter Cooper, the titles of a large number of citizens in Maine to their lands and homes are jeopardized. A union of those interested is especially necessary to combined measures of self-defence.

SALARIES RAISED.—The Salaries of the Vice President and seven members of the Cabinet have been raised to $8000 each, while the four missions to Great Britain, France, Russia and Spain, have been raised from $9,000 to $20,000 each per annum. This work was accomplished by inserting these provisions in one of the appropriation bills, as amendments.

LYON'S KATHAIRON FOR THE HAIR

LYON'S KATHAIRON,
For Preserving, Restoring & Beautifying the Hair,

CAUSING it to grow luxuriantly, and giving it a soft and curling appearance, of the most delightful character. The KATHAIRON neutralises the effects of disease, climate, and old age, in preserving and restoring the Human Hair, even after a Baldness of many years,—cleanses the scalp from Dandruff, and its natural impurities,—immediately relieves sympathetic attacks of Nervous Headache, and cures all cutaneous diseases of the skin, such as Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Itch, &c.
AS A TOILET ARTICLE,
For giving the Hair a rich, soft, glossy and curling appearance, nothing has been discovered to compare with its incontested—its incontestible virtues. For the Chronicle.

ELECTION DAY.

Hear the loud bells speaking,
Hear their great tongues say—
"Buckle on your armor!"
'Tis election day.

Sick and old, who should not ride
Till the death bell tolls;
Cripples, idiots—never mind,
Drag them to the polls.

Do not tell us you are blind;
Hurry on your coat,
Hav'nt you a friend behind
To tell you how to vote?

Don't be know what principles
Will sustain the laws,
And save the glorious Union
From fanatics' claws?

See those burly fellows
Driving through the town!
They don't care for horse-flesh;
What's that to renown?

Are not fires of liberty
Burning in their throats?
Don't they prove their loyalty
Scouting round for votes?

Men of meagre station,
Feeling now so great;
Could she sail without them—
The glorious "Ship of State?"

Men disinterested—
Who expect no pay,
And never work for office
On election day!

Men who say we prize not
Blessings we inherit,— Else we'd do as they do—
Show more zeal and spirit!

They would teach us politics
In their baby schools;
And would we play the truant
Set us down as fools!

March, 1858. TOPSEY.

Thermometers.

IT is known to most scientific men in this country, that the late Thomas Kendall discovered a process, by which the graduation of the Thermometer scales may be made accurately to correspond with variations, which unavoidably exist in the calibre of the tube; thus overcoming what has been considered the insurmountable obstacle to the construction of a perfect Thermometer.
Profs. Silliman and Fisher, Yale College, (see Journal of Science and Arts, vol. 4, p 298,) and other scientific gentlemen, having examined this process, concur in saying that it is correct on mathematical and philosophical principles, and the only known way by which the difficulty referred to can be obviated.
This method has not been disclosed to other manufacturers of Thermometers, neither is it known to be in their possession. These Thermometers, therefore, are the only ones which can be relied upon for entire accuracy.
The subscriber has just received a lot of these Thermometers direct from the manufacturer and made expressly for his order, of various sizes and mountings, for the parlor or out of door use.
Also, a few Papier Mache Mantle Thermometers

THE HOME OF BURNS.

Grace Greenwood, the sprightly correspondent of the National Era, writes of her visit to the Home of Burns:

The cottage in which Burns was born, and which his father built, was originally what is here called a "clay bigging," consisting only of two small apartments on the ground floor—a kitchen and sitting-room. The kitchen has a recess for a bed, and here the poet first opened his bewildered baby eyes on a most ungenial world. This room, it is supposed, was the scene of "The Cotter's Saturday Night." I was somewhat disappointed to find this cottage standing on the road, and that it had been built on to, and whitewashed out of all character and venerableness. It is now occupied as an ale-house, which beseemeth it little as the scene of the beautiful religious poem above named. A few rods from the door stands the "auld haunted kirk," through one of whose windows luckless Tam O'Shanter took his daring observation of Old Nick and the witches, "as they appeared when enjoying themselves." This a picturesque, roofless, rafterless edifice, in a good state of preservation. In the pleasant old church yard rests the father of the poet, beneath the tombstone erected and inscribed by one whose days should have been "long in the land," according to the promise, for Burns truly honored his father and his mother.

From the kirk we went to the monument, which stands on the summit of the eastern bank of the Doon, and near to the "auld brig," on the "key-stone" of which poor Tam O'Shanter was delivered from his weird pursuers, and his grey mare, "Meggie," met with a loss irreparable. This monument, of which the prints give you a very good idea, is of graceful proportions and a graceful style of architecture. The grounds about it, though small in extent, are admirably kept, shaded with fine shrubbery, and made more beautiful by hosts of rare and lovely flowers. There seemed to me something peculiarly and touchingly fitting in thus surrounding an edifice, sacred to the genius of Burns, with the leafy haunts of the birds he loved, in whose songs alone would his tuneful memory live, and with the sweetness and brightness of flowers, from whose glowing hearts he would have drawn deep meanings of love and pure breathings of passion, or on whose frail, fragrant leaves he would have read holy Sabbath truths, lessons of modesty and meekness, and teachings of the wondrous workings of Him who planted the daisy on the lonely hillside, and the poet in a weary world—the one to delight the eyes, the other to charm and cher the souls of his creatures.

Within the monument we saw that most touching relic of Burns, the Bible which he gave to "Highland Mary" at their solemn betrothal. It is in two volumes. On the flyleaf of the first, in the handwriting of the poet, is the text, "And ye shall not swear by my name falsely: I am the Lord." In the second, "Thou shalt not forswear thyself, but shalt perform unto the Lord thine oaths." In both volumes is the name of Burns, with his Mason's mark, and in one is a lock of Mary's own beautiful golden hair—a soft, glossy curl, which, in that last tender parting, may have been smoothed down by the caressing hand, may have waved in the breath, or lain against the breast of the poet-lover. * * * *

On our way back to Ayr, we called to see the sister and nieces of Burns—Mrs. Beggs and her daughters—who we had been assured were most kindly accessible to visitors. This visit was altogether the most interesting and gratifying event of the day. Mrs. Beggs lives in a simple but charming little rose embowered cottage about a mile from her birth-place, where all who seek her with a respectful interest receive a courteous and cordial welcome. Mrs. Beggs is now about eighty years of age, but looks scarcely above sixty, and shows more than the remains of remarkable beauty. Her smile could hardly have been sweeter, or her eyes finer, at twenty. Her sight, hearing and memory seem unimpaired; her manners are graceful, modest and ladylike, and she converses with rare intelligence and animation, speaking with a slight, sweet Scottish accent. Her likeness to Nesmith's portrait of her brother is very marked—her eyes are peculiarly like the idea we have of his, both by pictures and description—large, dark, lustrous, and changing. Those eyes shone with new brightness as I told her of our love for the memory of her beloved brother, our sympathy in his sorrows, and our honor for his free and manly spirit—when I told her that the New World, as the Old, bowed to the mastery of his genius, and were swayed to smiles or tears by the wondrous witchery of his song.—But when I spoke my admiration of the monument, and said, "What a joy it would have been to him, could he have foreseen such noble recognitions of his greatness!" she smiled mournfully, and shook her head, saying, "Ah, madam, in his proudest moments, my poor brother never dreamed of such a thing;" then added that his death chamber was darkened and his death agony deepened by want and care, and tortuning fears for the dear ones he was to leave. I was reminded by her words of the expression of an old Scotch dame, in our country, on hearing of the completion of this monument: "Puir Rob! he asked for bread, and now they gie him a stane."

Mrs. Beggs says that Nesmith's portrait of her brother is the best, but that no picture could have done full justice to the kindling and varying expression of his face. In her daughters, who are pleasant and interesting women, you can trace a strong family resemblance to the poet. The three sons of Burns are yet living—two are in the army, and one has a situation under government at Dumfries. All three are widowers. When I saw her, Mrs. Beggs was expecting daily the two youngest, the soldiers, who as often as possible visit Ayr, and cherish as tenderly as proudly the memory of their father.

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.
PORTSMOUTH:
THURSDAY, MARCH 17, 1853.

LOBOS EXPEDITION.—The Panama Echo learns, that most of the vessels of the Benson Expedition had been filled with guano and gone homeward, and that the Peruvian government had strictly complied with its engagements on the subject with the United States, taking everything from the vessels that comprised their outfit for the expedition, not excepting the Sarah Chase, the chief one among them, from which they took her whole armament and cargo, even to the most ordinary articles, paying liberally for the same.

Capt. Caleb, who was sent out to be the Governor of the Lobos Islands, was at Callao in fine health and spirits, and would probably return home via the Isthmus.

Thus, the great mistake of our government, made by Mr. Webster while Secretary of State, is happily corrected, and all evil consequences averted.

ANOTHER OLD BISCUIT.—We were quite interested in the story of Mr. Carter's old biscuit, baked in '93, as told in the Journal. It seems, by the Salem Freeman, that they have an older one in Salem, whose history is more romantic, too. In the year 1787 a young sailor who was about leaving Salem harbor, gave to his lady love, who was bidding him adieu on shipboard, the simple gift of a ship-biscuit, and she placed the date of the year upon it, and carefully put it aside as a treasure of the heart. Her betrothed never returned, dying abroad. She finally married another, and the biscuit is now carefully preserved by her daughter, the mother having been dead for some years. This biscuit is therefore sixty-six years old from its date, and may be somewhat older, probably not more than a few months, however. It differs from our modern biscuits, in being thicker and clumsier in shape, resembling more the Graham crackers, and in being externally brown in color. It is in good preservation, and looks as if it would last for an almost indefinite period. It is a singular relic of the past, and the associations connected with it, invest it with a touching interest.

THE MADIAI.—The official sentence on this family puts it beyond dispute, that they were condemned for proselyting, teaching to read, expounding the bible, &c., which are high crimes in Tuscany, where "the Church" bears rule. To enlighten the people, and teach them to think for themselves on all subjects, would be too dangerous to be allowed, where civil and ecclesiastical tyranny are braided and cemented together with popular ignorance and superstition.

FROZEN TO DEATH.—A man by the name of Charles Kingsbury, who resided on Dedham Island, in the town of Dedham, was found on Tuesday morning, in the road leading to his residence, frozen to death. He was a single man, forty years of age, and of intemperate habits.

This poor fellow used his liberty to great disadvantage.

☞ There is a great jam of office seekers at Washington, at the present time—and the Hotels and eating houses are reaping a golden harvest. A great proportion of the applicants for office must be disappointed. We could not publish half the letters and speculations about the offices, if we wished;—but we are not greatly interested in them, and presume our readers would not be.

INNKEEPERS IN BOSTON are raising the price of board, both transient and permanent. Several boarding houses have failed recently—because provisions advanced, and the price of board did not advance, soon enough to save them.

ITALY, especially the Austrian provinces of Lombardy, is represented as but a slumbering volcano. The harsh and tyrannical measures of the Austrian military authorities are fanning the smouldering embers of insurrection into a new blaze. Oppression makes even a wise man mad.

AN OLD SUBSCRIBER.—The Newburyport Herald records the death of Mr. Joshua M. Pike, in Salisbury, (Ring's Island,) and adds, that Mr. Pike has been a subscriber to the Herald, for fifty-nine years.

No Catholic has ever been known on his death bed to dream of changing his religion; but some of the best and most exemplary Protestants could not die easy, until they had sought and obtained admission into that Church, which they had combatted incessantly during life.—Pilot.

Very important, if true.

A terrible bitter sarcasm was that perpetrated at Rome many years since. The death of one of the popes occasioned so much joy in the city, that the night after his decease, the people adorned the door of his chief physician's house with garlands, adding this inscription—"To the deliverer of his country."

LOCAL.

CITY CHARTER.

Our correspondent *, in his essay of yesterday, enters into a chain of reasoning, to prove that the old City Council, especially the Mayor, do not know, officially, whether there is an election of Mayor, or not.

We do not propose to argue the case at all—but merely to quote from the Charter.

Sect. 8, provides that the Record of Votes for Mayor in the several Wards on the 2d Tuesday of March, "shall be delivered to the City Clerk within twenty-four hours after every and each meeting. The City Clerk shall, immediately after receiving said copies, enter the same on the City records, and then lay the said copies before the Mayor and Aldermen, who shall thereupon examine the same."

Sect. 9, (now repealed) provided, for a second ballot, on the next Friday after the 2d Tuesday, for Mayor—and that "the same course shall be pursued as if there had been no previous ballot for that officer."

That is to say, the votes shall be returned, in the same way, to the City Clerk, and counted in the same way, by the Mayor and Aldermen. The Mayor and Aldermen, then, cannot very well help knowing whether any Mayor is chosen, or not. Next, in the same section, comes this paragraph.

"And in case the citizens shall fail, on a second ballot, to elect a Mayor, the City Council shall, in convention, by ballot, elect, from the two highest candidates voted for and returned, a Mayor for the ensuing year."

Not a word so far, about a vacancy—but that follows in the next paragraph, and is not, when a failure takes place to elect, but when it is made by death, resignation, or otherwise—which word otherwise does not refer to any such case as was already provided for in the preceding paragraph just quoted.

This repealed section does not allude to a new Council, and certainly does not require any delay.

But this section is repealed,—and in its stead we have section 4 of the Amendments, which is as follows:

SECT. 4. In case the citizens of Portsmouth shall fail at the annual meeting on the second Tuesday of March to elect a mayor, the city council in convention by joint ballot shall choose a mayor from the two highest candidates voted for at that election. Whenever the office of mayor shall become vacant by death, resignation, or otherwise, the aldermen and common council shall respectively by vote declare the same and the cause thereof, and the city council shall then, in convention and by joint ballot, elect a mayor to fill the vacancy so long as said cause shall continue or until a new election.

The reader here sees two sentences contained in one section and paragraph. The first relates to a failure of election: and is in point in the present case. The second relates to another kind of vacancy—and is not to our present purpose.

What our law-makers intended to do in Charter-making, we know not; but the letter of the law itself calls for a choice by the existing City Council, one of whose boards has officially received and counted the votes.

If a different course is desired, the Charter ought to be amended—but this is the way it stands now.

For the Chronicle.

THE ELECTION OF MAYOR.

Messrs. Editors:—In the Chronicle of yesterday morning, we observed that your correspondent *, charges us with misapprehension of him, and "the true enactments of the charter." In replication to the same we wish simply to say that the misapprehension is on his part entirely; we not only understood him, but the charter itself (so far as the record appears.) We distinctly declare that the Mayor is a member of the City Council de facto and de jure, and that he is "the principal officer" thereof. In proof of this we quoted extracts from the charter to show the fact conclusively.

In relation to our declaration that the City Council are in possession of the fact of a failure to elect a Mayor by the people, your correspondent says, "I would inform 'A citizen' that I have carefully read the Book, but do not know that the City Council are legally informed that the people have failed to elect a Mayor." How is this? We have read the Book, too. The city records show, in the recapitulation of the returns from the respective wards in this city, of the votes for Mayor, that "Richard Jenness had 572; Horton D. Walker 493; Brackett Hutchings 80; scattering 13; total 1158; necessary for a choice 580." Now neither candidate has the necessary number, and therefore there is a failure as apparent as "a church by daylight."

The city clerk is the officer chosen by the City Council, by virtue of his office, to make the said record, and as their clerk to keep the same for them in their official capacity, by the provisions of the charter. The city records are legally in the care and possession of the City Council for the charter in ipsissimis verbis provides "the City Council shall have the care and superintendence of the city buildings and all city property." Now as the records are in possession of the City Council, and as the records show the fact of a failure of an election of Mayor by the people, what further has your correspondent to say in the premises?—What presumption, what ignorance for him to say "the present City Council have nothing to do with the record; they are to know nothing of it!" He should read the Book more carefully, and not speak without it.

Now one word in relation to the legal and imperative duty of the City Council. There is a failure. They know it. In addition to the record, his Honor the Mayor has officially announced it. Is it not so? What is the next step? The charter says, in the clearest language, that even a simple school boy cannot fail to undeastand, "In case the citizens of Portsmouth shall fail at their annual meeting on the second Tuesday of March, to elect a Mayor, the City Council in convention, by joint ballot, shall (!) choose a Mayor from the two highest candidates voted for at that election." Can there be any doubt? Assuredly not. "The Mayor thus chosen and qualified, shall be the chief executive officer of the city," &c.; id est, the Mayor thus chosen by the people, or the City Council, before 10 of the clock on the 4th Tuesday of March. "The Mayor elect" then is the only Mayor who can be legally qualified, unless Mayor Toppan, holding over, resigns, and a Mayor is elected as per sec. 4th of the amendments.

It is the City Council in office at the time of the contingency—the failure to elect is officially made known: it is the City Council in power, before a branch of which the copies of returns from the several wards are laid and examined. No other City Council can legally act in the premises. It will be remembered in the election of President, in case of a failure by the people to elect, it is the House then in office at the time the failure is officially made known, "and if the House of Representatives shall not choose a President, whenever the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the Vice President shall act as President, by virtue of the Constitution.

In our State it is also the Senate and House of Representatives in office at the time the returns from the several towns are laid before them and examined, and it is officially made known there is no election by the people of Governor—who are alone required to elect a Governor; and now why not the City Council here existing at the time of the failure, before a branch of which the returns have been laid, examined and officially made known,—elect a Mayor?

It may be argued there is a precedent. In answer we say, any precedent not based upon authority given by the charter and sound law, should not establish multiplied illegalities or peril the rights of citizens. Unless the City Council is legally organized in conformity to law, every act of theirs is very properly set at defiance. In this matter every good citizen has a much larger interest at stake than he at first conceives—particularly the owners of real estate and the heavier tax-payers.

A CITIZEN.

☞ A correspondent in whose accuteness of mind and legal skill we place much confidence, suggests, that it would be in stricter accordance with the genius of our republican institutions, for the new City Council to elect the Mayor, than for the old one to do it—because the former are fresh from the people.

We admit the force of this reasoning, if we were about to make or amend the City Charter. But the present question is not—what the Charter ought to be, but what it is. Its requirements seem to us so plain as to be almost unmistakable by any person who will give them a careful and dispassionate reading.

Almost every citizen has, or ought to have, the Directory, which contains the city Charter in good, readable style; and can easily make himself familiar with its language. The publisher did a public service in annexing the Charter to the Directory, thus supplying the people with the document in a shape that will be preserved. Probably there are not fifty copies of the Charter to be found in the City as printed in pamphlet form.

POLICE COURT.—Charles Robinson, Esq., was arraigned before Justice Parker, on Tuesday, for maliciously breaking down the fence in the Court House yard—the property of the city of Portsmouth. The case was postponed to Wednesday forenoon. Mr. Robinson was found guilty and fined $5 and costs, from which decision he has appealed.

We are informed that Mr. Robinson has commenced two civil suits against the city for cutting down his trees, posts, breaking hinges, &c., at different times, laying the damage at several hundred dollars.

LIBERALITY.—A lad in this city yesterday found a purse containing about $40. On returning it to the owner he was rewarded with the sum of ten cents for his honesty,

☞ The Catholic Church in Newburyport is to be dedicated this day.

LONG SKIRTS.—The Richmond Republican has the following in its local department:

"Since the developments of yesterday we shall make no more complaints against ladies wearing long skirts, for we are fully satisfied of their utility. We became a convert to long skirts while crossing Capitol street, directly in the rear of a beautiful young lady, handsomely dressed in fine silk, who, to avoid sweeping a mud hole, slightly hoisted her skirts, and displayed not only a handsome pair of tiny feet and well turned ancles, but—would you believe it—the most awful hole in the heel of her hose that our eyes ever beheld! But no matter—the mud being passed, the curtain was lowered; and those who knew no better, would never have dreamed that that was the gal with the hole in her stocking.—After this we shall always suspect something, when we see a flowing skirt sweeping the side walk."

NOMINATIONS, &c.

Washington, March 15.—The President sent in a large number of nominations—Chas. Gordon Greene, Naval Officer, Boston; Chas. H. Peaslee, Collector of Boston; Henry W. Bishop, Sub-Treasurer of Boston, which were confirmed. Also, nominated Rufus Parks, Collector of Cleveland; Gen. Lane, Governor of Oregon, and territorial officers of Oregon generally.

The President also nominated, and the Senate confirmed, Thompson Campbell of Illinois, Geo. W. Thompson of Va., Alpheus Phelps, ex-Senator of Mich. Commissioners to settle land titles in California.

Edwin C. Bailey, was nominated as Postmaster of Boston.

About 30 clerks were removed to-day.

Washington, March 16.—The following nominations were sent into the Senate yesterday:

Henry Crocker, Appraiser at Boston.

Theodore S. Fay, Minister Resident at Switzerland.

John Randolph Clay, Minister to Peru.

Dr. Heaniss, Consul at Tunis.

Jacob Carter, Postmaster at Concord, N. H.

A long Cabinet meeting followed. It resulted, it said, in directing the Secretary of State to demand an explanation from the Government of Great Britain, on the subject of the recent intelligence from Honduras.

The Secretary of the Navy was also instructed to report forthwith to the Executive the force at his disposal for active operations.

The nomination of S. J Bridge of Boston, as appraiser at large, was confirmed yesterday. Salary $6000.

SANDWICH ISLANDS.—We have dates from the Sandwich Islands to the 8th of January.

The influenza had again appeared at Honolulu, afflicting the community, both natives and foreigners, very severely.

Sugar of a very fine quality is being manufactured in the Sandwich Islands.

The government organ has officially repudiated any intention of transferring the sovereignty of the Islands to the United States.

STRANGE DEATH.—Two young men of the village of Brandes, in France, lately perished in a very singular manner. They went out to shoot wild ducks, and in order to arrive at the marshy ground which the birds frequented, they determined to proceed down the canal in a boat, and then crossing over to the other side, to walk the rest of the way. The water being unusually high in consequence of the rains, the young men found that they could scarcely pass under the arch in their boat. They thought, it is supposed, that by lying down in the boat they could pass. It so happened that the water was higher than they thought, and was rising every moment, so that when the boat had got under the arch, it stuck fast, thus enclosing the young men completely, without their having any means of extricating themselves. They were found two days after, dead in the boat, and clasped in each other's arms.

BUTTER.—Speculators in Butter have got the blues and no mistake. Those who have been holding on to it in the expectation that they would be able to obtain advanced rates, have been badly bitten. We know of recent sales made at prices varying from seven to nine cents less than could have been obtained two months ago. A sale of a pretty large quantity was made in this city this week at 17 a 18c, for which the owner refused in December 25c per pound, and is now considered well sold.—Albany Journal.

OLD FASHIONED.—A letter written from Temple, N. H., in the Manchester Democrat, thus libels some people in that town:—

In the back part of the town neighbors are somewhat remote from each other, and many, living on the old homestead, use the same kind of implements, sit in the same chairs, and have the same habits of their fathers half a century ago. They are not 'fast' men, but cling to what they think the good old way in everything. They are strong believers in the largest liberty for themselves, but don't care much what becomes of all who happen to differ from them. As to the Maine Law, they believe it to have been conceived of, and written by some fanatic who was instigated by the devil, and should it ever be adopted, the country would be ruined. I ought, in justice to truth, to say, that in this 'rural district,' the most successful candidate on election day is the man who furnishes the largest bottle.

The form of cravats for gentlemen has undergone a change in Paris. The stiff, high cravat is no longer worn. Those worn are not more than an inch and a half wide; some of the very young gentlemen turn down the shirt collar over the cravat.

The friends of Missions in England are holding public thanksgivings in view of the brightening of prospects of religion in Madagascar. The governing powers have become Christians, the ports are all open to foreigners, and the missionaries are welcomed.

The Worcester Spy commends to notice a story of the sale of a wife by a white man of Toledo, Ohio, as an offset to the practice of selling wives in England.

A Baltimore mechanic has applied for space in the Crystal Palace to erect a steam engine, which he says, will carry a steamship across the Atlantic in 36 hours.

[A friend at our elbow waggishly suggests that the friction of such a fast machine would set the ocean on fire.]—Portland Advertiser.

In Australia, if one of the diggers enters a baker's shop to purchase a wedding cake which costs forty dollars, he throws down a fifty dollar bill, and takes a handful of doughnuts in change.

On the occasion of the recent visit of the Virginia Legislature to his ship, Capt. Ericson stated that he could now build locomotive engines fast enough for freighting purposes, but that one year hence he could construct one to run with the fastest.

From Dickens' Household Words.

THE BUSH WITH THE BLEEDING BREAST.

[In Cornwall, as in the East, the names "Uncle" and "Aunt" are not only titles of kindred, but words of endearment and respect. So it was with an impulse of love and honor, that the ancient Cornish were wont to call the Virgin Mother, "Aunt Mary."]

Now, of all the trees by the King's highway,
Which do you love the best?
O! the one that is green upon Christmas Day,
The bush with the bleeding breast!
The holly, with her drops of blood for me,
For that is our dear Aunt Mary's tree.

Its leaves are sweet with our Saviour's name,
'Tis a plant that loves the poor;
Summer and Winter it shines the same
Beside the cottage door.
O! the holly, with her drops of blood for me,
For that is our kind Aunt Mary's Tree.

'Tis a bush that the birds are loth to leave;
They sing it all day long;
But sweetest of all upon Christmas Eve,
Is to hear the robin's song.
'Tis the merriest sound upon earth and sea,
For is comes from our own Aunt Mary's Tree.

So, of all the growth by the King's Highway
I love that plant the best;
'Tis a bower for the birds upon Christmas Day,
That bush with the bleeding breast:
O! the holly with her drops of blood for me,
For that is our own sweet Aunt Mary's Tree.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 243 State Street, Boston.
IN 1840 the subscriber was appointed Agent of the United States Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th section of the Act of 1837.
Having relinquished the agency for the transmission of models, and adopting a more expeditious method of forwarding them to the Patent Office, whereby a Patent can be procured several weeks earlier, he continues to forward them, as before, free of expense, and to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe.
The subscriber aims to present to inventors superior facilities for obtaining patents; and is now prepared to draw Specifications at rates cheaper by ten to twenty per cent. than those of other agencies. They can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.
R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.
"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

Thermometers.
IT is known to most scientific men in this country, that the late Thomas Kendall discovered a process, by which the graduation of the Thermometer scales may be made accurately to correspond with variations, which unavoidably exist in the calibre of the tube; thus overcoming what has been considered the insurmountable obstacle to the attainment of a perfect Thermometer.
Profs. Silliman and Fisher, Sale College, (see Journal of Science and Arts, vol. 4, p 398,) and other scientific gentlemen, having examined this process, concur in saying that it is correct on mathematical and philosophical principles, and the only known way by which the difficulty referred to can be obviated.
This method has not been disclosed to other manufacturers of Thermometers, neither is it known to be in their possession. These Thermometers, therefore, are the only ones which can be relied upon for entire accuracy.
The subscriber has just received a lot of these thermometers direct from the manufacturer and made expressly for his order, of various sizes and mountings, for the inside or out of door use.
Also, a few Papier Mache Mantle Thermometers

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.
PORTSMOUTH:
FRIDAY, MARCH 18, 1853.

Correspondence of the Chronicle.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 15, 1853.

Messrs. Editors:—I write in some haste to inform you—what report may have declared before—that the city is in a state of intense excitement. There is probably a leetle more patriotism here at present, than has been for the last four years—Fourth of July not excepted. It manifests itself too, in a different, and, as all will agree, a more practical way. There is indeed less powder burned; but the clamorous uproar is such an one as powder never attempted to create; and in the place of fine words on the manifest destiny of this great country, the orators enlarge on the claims they have upon the 'dear people,' for providing them with so excellent a Chief Magistrate as now directs affairs—now and then indulging in some melancholy eloquence on the "ingratitude of republics," as they consider the chances of defeat. Our patriotic citizens, to judge by their countenances, seem to be in one or other of the following states of mind—either in blank despair, (and I have seen several so, a sight moving to behold;) or in exulting hope, (it would do you good to look at these;) or in a state painfully balanced between utter despair and trembling hope, so as to give the sympathising beholder the idea that they were almost ready to give up, but could'nt bear to. In short, the great city of Providence, and the little State of Rhode Island, are in a ferment; every able bodied man seems anxious to serve his country; vociferously, from all parts of this extensive Commonwealth, the people are shouting, with the departed orator, as they think of the fat things perchance in store for them: "Thank God, I am an American." I know not but that some of the most devoted would be willing, like Gen. Peaslee, even to serve their country out of the State, if there should be nothing for them to do in it. For my part, I was very anxious that Gov. Dorr should have a place in the Cabinet; it seemed due to his high abilities, and to his past eminent services. Let not his enemies tell me he never won any battles; he would, as all military men admit, have done so at Chepachet, if his army had'nt run away. How could you expect the greatest general to win a battle under such circumstances? We folks here think he would have made a considerably better Secretary of War than Jefferson Davis, and we shall tell Gen. Pierce so, the next time he comes through Rhode Island.

Now that you have heard a little about Politics, it seems proper that you should have a little about Rum; one suggests the other, for they frequently go together. There is great reason, indeed, to fear that if this unrighteous Maine Law should be very extensively adopted, our political affairs would be thrown into inextricable confusion—the great stimulus to patriotism would be taken away. We fired ever so many guns here, the day Judge Curtis decided that the Liquor Law wasn't constitutional. In fact, what propriety is there in restricting and prohibiting the sale of such a luxury as good liquor? What harm has drinking ever done? Besides, isn't this a free country? Haven't I, as one of the sovereign people, a perfect right to get drunk, abuse every body in general, and be boarded at the public expense, in the county jail, or almshouse, as I, or the public may prefer. We have very fully discussed the matter in our groggery, and have come to the conclusion that while it is all very proper to say that the dealers in fish or meat shall not throw offal within low-water mark, or that housekeepers shall not fill the street with ashes, or that gunpowder shall be stored only in limited quantity, and on fixed conditions—while we agree to all this, we maintain that it is a tyrannical usurpation of our rights to say that we shall not, if we choose, make maniacs of ourselves, load our friends with distress, and disturb society to its ruin. But we are considerably troubled at the prospect before us; now that the ministers and the women are against us, how can we stand? and the dim faces of the ghosts of those whom we have murdered by slow poison—not very slow, either—we are afraid to look at them. We could not get along at all, if some gentlemen of the white cravat—kind souls—did not anxiously dissuade us from feeling any uneasiness on so delicate a subject, and convince us that we might at any time remove from our hands the stain of our brother's blood. It was for benevolent purposes like these, that Matthew Hale Smith, that devoted man of God, threw aside so hastily his sacerdotal robes to comfort and defend us.

I must say something about the great Temperance Convention now assembled here.—This evening, Rev. Messrs. Wolcott and Thompson of Massachusetts, and Rev. Dr. Cleaveland of this city, made some very fanatical addresses to the assembly. It was perfectly shocking to hear these divines say that rum sellers deserved so well of the community that they ought to be boarded in State prison, at least ten years, at the public expense.

I don't know, but it looks as if the temperance folks were waking up in Rhode Island; and I'm afraid they'll sustain this awful law, that they got up down there in Maine, and retrench our liberties so much that we can't get drunk, nor indulge in delirium tremens, nor in any such recreation. I will send you word what they do about this at the next election; meanwhile, I must watch the varying aspect of affairs. Yours, truly,

SPECTATOR.

LOCAL.

City Council—March 17.

MAYOR AND ALDERMEN.—The returns of votes were sent to the Common Council.

A report was received from the Street Commissioner. The expenses of his department for the past year are $1175.67. Report accepted.

A report was received from the City Marshal. Number of arrests during the year 134; (nearly every crime traced to liquor,) of which 17 were by Watchmen while on duty. In addition, three fugitives from justice were arrested here. He recommended an increased number of policemen. Report accepted.

A petition, numerously signed, was presented, for remodeling the interior of the Brick Market; which was referred to the next city government.

A communication was received from Chas. Robinson, Esq. in relation to gates, fences and lawsuits, which was referred to the next city government.

A partial report was received from the Collector of Taxes. Accepted.

Ald. Spalding presented the following resolution, which was agreed to:

Resolved, That the rules and regulations for lighting the streets of the city with gas, be amended as follows: In section 3 strike out the word eleven after the word at, and insert the word twelve; in section 5 to strike out the location of the lights numbered 1, 6 and 7, and insert after the figure 1, corner of State and Atkinson streets; insert after the figure 6, corner of Market and Deer streets; insert after the figure 7, corner of Market and Green streets.

Ald. Knowlton presented the following resolution, which passed unanimously:

Resolved, That the thanks of this Board be presented to His Honor, the Mayor, for the prompt and energetic manner with which he has discharged the duties of his office during the past year.

Mayor Toppan made an appropriate reply, thanking the Aldermen and City Clerk for the assistance they had rendered him, and said he had endeavored to fulfil his official duties in a constitutional and impartial manner.

COMMON COUNCIL—A message was received from the board of Aldermen, stating that there was no choice of Mayor by the citizens—accepted and placed on file.

The report of the City Marshal was received from the board of Aldermen—accepted and placed on file.

The following resolution was offered and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the thanks of this Board be presented to the President of the Common Council, Marcellus Bufford, Esq., for his constant attendance and for the able, prompt and impartial manner in which he has presided over the deliberations of the Board the past year.

President Bufford responded in a brief acknowledgment of the aid and support which he had uniformly received from the members, and which had rendered his duties light and pleasant.

A resolution was offered, that the Board of Aldermen be informed that that this Council are ready to meet them in Convention for the election of Mayor for the ensuing year.

On this, a protracted debate ensued—pending which, information was received from one of the Aldermen that that body had adjourned without date. Whereupon it was moved that the subject be indefinitely postponed, which motion prevailed—10 to 6.

THE TWO CHRONICLES.

Several years ago, there lived in Portsmouth an old negro truckman, named Cesar Whidden. Cesar had seen a great variety of fortunes and misfortunes, and in his latter days lived very comfortably in the alms house.—His life had been as checkered as his fortunes, but he died a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in whose communion he had lived for several years.

At a certain time Cesar was sick, very sick, and the report came down in town that he was dead; whereupon Thomas B. Laighton, Esq., who was at that time editor of the New Hampshire Gazette, and who held the pen of a ready writer, published Cesar's death, and appended to it a most extraordinary and excellent character of the deceased blackamoor, as a man and christian.

All this fine character Cesar had the pleasure of reading, as he sat comfortably bolstered up in the Alms House Hospital—but as the keeper informed us, it hurt Cesar a great deal. Saint as he was, it puffed up the vanity of a poor mortal just about to die.

We have now an opportunity to read, as Cesar did, a sort of obituary puff—hypothetically blown off:—if we were dead, then here's our character, drawn by our namesake, the Boston Morning Chronicle.

We hope it won't hurt us, as Cesar's did him.

"Where is the Portsmouth Chronicle? We have not received it for several days. We miss its pleasant, smiling face, and have quite an affection for its editor, although we consider him a little ricketty upon the subject of the Maine law. But he is no fanatic, and honestly expresses what, we doubt not, he honestly believes. The Chronicle surely cannot have died out. If it has, the Portsmouth folks ought to be ashamed of themselves, for permitting the decease of so well conducted a daily."

Died out? by no means. Our advertising columns don't look like it. Our editorials don't look like it—nor our subscription list. We missed the Boston Chronicle for several successive days, and presuming that for some reason of their own, the conductors of it did not wish to exchange with us, we very quietly passed our pen across the name in the Boston list, resolved to do as well we could without it. We are glad to renew the exchange, however; as the Chronicle is remarkably well posted up on several subjects of public interest, especially on the liquor laws.

For the Morning Chronicle.

THE ROCKINGHAM FAIR.

A society for "the improvement of agriculture, horticulture and the mechanical arts in this County," was organized last Autumn, under the above title. An article of its Constitution provides, that "any member paying five dollars at one time, to the treasurer, shall be a life member, and shall not be liable to assessment for five years." It was proposed to raise $5000, by the admission of life members, to be reserved, at interest, as a permanent fund, that the society might have at least one of the essential elements of stability. About $2000 of this fund has been already subscribed.

By some mistake, the collector appointed for Portsmouth failed to make any effort to procure members, so that the town, best able, of all in the county, to aid in the enterprise, has as yet, done nothing.

Portsmouth alone, can make an exhibition of fruit, which it would trouble the state to beat, and we call on her to join in the exhibition next Fall, and show the country what the city can do. The horticultural exhibitions at Portsmouth, have been of the highest order. Let them be united, for once at least, with the county exhibition, and let us make the best show ever yet made in New Hampshire. The mechanics of Portsmouth may compare favorably with those of other cities. Let them join us, and show to the country purchasers, specimens of their handiwork.

The ladies are invited to aid us, by inducing their husbands, friends and lovers to join us, and by gracing with their presence, our halls of exhibition.

Mr. R. H. Parker, treasurer of the society, is expected to be in Portsmouth very soon, to invite its citizens to become members.

We call upon all, then, who cultivate the earth, or eat of its fruits, who manufacture materials for clothing, or wear them when made, who themselves, in any sense, adorn the earth, or approve the efforts of those who strive to make it more beautiful, to come up and help us in a good work.

ONE OF THE OFFICERS.

For the Chronicle.

CONCERT BY THE BOSTON QUINTETTE CLUB.—This favorite band of musicians, assisted by Mrs. Emma A. Wentworth, a distinguished vocalist, have, during the past winter, been giving musical entertainments to crowded and delighted audiences in Boston, Lowell, Providence, Salem, Newburyport and other large cities. They propose to commence a short series in Portsmouth, provided a sufficient number can be obtained to defray their expenses. To conform to the suggestion of their friends here, they have put their tickets at 25 cents, although they have invariably charged charged twice that sum. A subscription paper is left at Wm. R. Preston's Apothecary Store, where all who wish to encourage this popular Club, are requested to call immediately and leave their names; as it is necessary to ascertain this week in relation to the matter. A rare opportunity is offered for the citizens to listen to instrumental and vocal music of superior excellence. P.

To the above we add, that Mrs. Wentworth, (formerly Miss Ham) has a special claim upon us in this city, as a native of our soil, who has won a high musical reputation in larger cities, and who is now to visit us, that we may judge for ourselves the improvement made by cultivation, on a voice naturally sweet and clear.

VOTES FOR GOVERNOR.—We are indebted to the Messenger for the almost complete returns of Governor's vote we publish on our outside to-day.

☞ An Iron Spindle Beacon, has lately been erected in this harbor, on Willey's Ledge. This ledge is about 200 feet from the shore of Badger's Island; is small in extent: and the top of the ledge is just uncovered at ordinary low water.

The spindle is furnished with the points of the compass and with a vane five feet long.

It was erected by contract at the cost of $545.

The caulkers in the ship yard at East Boston have struck for an advance in wages from $2 25 to $2 50 a day. Mr. Paul Curtis at once agreed to the request and set his men to work again, but those in the other yards had not gone to work at last accounts.

Opinions of Post—Traveller—Transcript.

This is a fine collection of extracts from American speeches and orations. This book is worth buying for its fac-similies alone.—Boston Post.

It combines an excellent and well printed selection from the speeches and occasional addresses of many of those who have given a tone and character to our public oratory. The Fac-Similes embrace the autographs of more than four hundred persons.—Boston Traveller.

The author has been enabled to give very ample spicimens of the prose eloquence of our principle orators and speakers. The selections are made with much good taste.—Boston Transcript.

NOMINATIONS & CONFIRMATIONS.

Washington, March 17.—Dr. George B. Loring, recently of Chelsea, Mass., is to receive the nomination for the Collectorship of Salem.

All the nominations before the Senate were confirmed yesterday, excepting those of General Lane and the Marshal of Massachusetts, both of which were returned to the President to have the spelling of the names corrected.

Bishop Hughes, it is reported, is using his influence in favor of William B. Maclay to the Collectorship of New York.

Cincinnati, March 16.—The boilers of a steamer exploded to-day, on the Ohio river, at West Franklin, below Evansville, killing Mr. Smith, one of the pilots, and Mr. Byran, the steward; Mr. Stark, the first clerk, Mr. Reeder, the other pilot, and four of the deck hands were dangerously scalded.

New York, March 17.—STEAMER DEVASTATION.—The British steamer Devastation arrived at Port Royal March 4th, reporting herself from the Bahamas four days. She makes no mention of Truxillo or Honduras.

Philadelphia, March 15.—The hearing in the recent murder case took place this afternoon, in which Spring's son, a youth of 17, was the principal evidence, almost conclusively proving that the murders must have been committed by the father.

GOLD DISCOVERIES.—Louisville, March 11. Advices from Tahlequah, Cherokee Nation, of 23d ult., state that great excitement exists there in consequence of a report of the discovery of Gold in large quantities on Horse Shoe Creek, in the southern part of the nation. The yield is said to be from $10 to $12 per day per man. Large numbers are leaving Marysville for the diggings.

New Orleans, March 16.—EX-GOV. Johnson died suddenly on Tuesday night, at the Verandah Hotel.

CALIFORNIA.—The steamer Cherokee from Aspinwall, arrived at New York on Thursday, with 250 passengers.

NEW MILLS AT LAWRENCE.—The Bay State Co. have under contemplation the erection of a new mill this season. The Pacific Mills Co. intend to make an addition of 300 feet to their new mill, besides the erection of the Print Works this season. They will commence putting the machinery into the new mill next week. Rev. J. S. Young, the Agent and Treasurer of the Pacific Mills, leaves for England next week, on business connected with the Print Works.

LEGACY FOR A CONVICT.—Judge Harris, of Albany, was some time since robbed by the notorious pickpocket, Bob Sutton. Sutton, after a variety of adventures, arrests, and escapes, finally was sentenced to Auburn for five years. He is over sixty years of age, and unable to work. A few days since, the agent of the prison received a letter directed to Sutton, informing him that by the death of a brother he becomes heir to $90,000. It is doubtful if he lives to enjoy his fortune. The property will place his family, who are respectable, beyond the reach of want, and, perhaps, above the contumely of the world.

A MODEL SPEECH.—Here is a model speech, made by the president of the Northamptonshire (England) Farming and Grazing Society, on presenting a prize cup to a young man: "Now, young man, take that cup, and remember also to plough deep and drink shallow."

Rev. Samuel Griffith, who has been on trial before the Methodist conference, sitting at Hagerstown, Md., charged with a breach of promise of marriage, has been expelled from the conference and excommunicated from the church.

Within a radius of fifteen miles from London, there are two hundred thousand acres of land held by the market gardeners for the purpose of raising vegetables for the supply of the two million and a half of population of which that city consists. The amount of vegetables raised is enormous.

A SINGULAR DISEASE.

In the animal, as in the vegetable world, there are new diseases springing up every day to snap the brittle thread of life, and produce premature decay. The following item we clip from the Boston Mail. The physician under whose practice the case occurred, is Dr. H. Root, who is to be at the Franklin House to morrow.

We were shown, yesterday, by Dr. Root, at the Tremont House, twelve grubs which came from the head of one of his patients since she has been under his care. In shape and size they very much resembled a common snail, and were decidedly the most loathsome looking insects we ever beheld. The lad, who is now convalescing, said that the symptoms attending her disease were accurately given in the PEOPLE'S MEDICAL LIGHTHOUSE, and that every pain or unpleasant sensation she had experienced during her illness were most minutely described in the article on page 94. Physicians who have doubted the existence of such creatures in the brain, can be convinced of the fact by calling upon the doctor, who has retained them in his possession. Many of the medical profession have scouted the idea, but facts such as here stated, are stubborn, and cannot but change their erroneous opinions.—If any of our readers are troubled with neuralgic pains in the head, we would advise them to consult Dr. R., who can detect the presence of grubs, if there be any, and and administer a medicine which is sure to expel them.

This is decidedly a new disease, and must have been intended as an offset to the potato rot.

H. K. ROOT, A.M., M.D.

WILL ARRIVE AT THE FRANKLIN HOUSE
ON SATURDAY, MARCH 19th,

WHERE he will remain until FRIDAY morning, the 25th.

Consumption not Fatal if properly treated.

DR. H. K. ROOT, the celebrated Lung and Consumption Physician, author of the 'People's Medical Lighthouse,' inventor of the Infallible Lung Barometer, from 512 Broadway, N. Y., invites the attention of the sick and afflicted, laboring under any of the various forms of disease, such as Coughs, Ulcerated or Tuberculous Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Pain in the Chest, Shoulders, Sides or Back, Bleeding Lungs, Chronic Catarrh, Night Sweats, Nervous Complaints, Palpitation, Ossification or Dropsy of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Chronic Diarrhœa, Incidental Weakness peculiar to Females, Cancers, Tumors, Scrofulous Affections, Deafness, Insanity, Fits, Paralysis, Spinal Deformity, Gravel, Fistula, Costiveness, and all Cutaneous Eruptions, and poisonous Inoculations and Humors of the Blood. He does not make sick to make well, nor tear down to build up; but persons under his care can pursue their regular business, while the work of cleansing and purifying the system is going on. His theory is, that all diseases arises directly or indirectly from an impure state of the blood. The language of scripture is—

"The life of the flesh is the blood thereof."—Gen. lx: 4.

"For the BLOOD is the LIFE."—Deut. xii: 21.

"For the LIFE of the flesh is the BLOOD."—Levit. xvii: 11.

And he also believes that the remedies furnished by nature are the only ones which can produce a speedy and permanent cure. There never was a disease but had its VEGETABLE antidote. And in this opinion he is sustained by scripture—

David said—"Purge me with hyssop and I shall be made clean."—Psalms LI: 7.

Paul said—"The weak eateth herbs."—Rom. xiv: 2.

St. John said—"The leaves of the tree were for healing of the nations."—Rev. xxii: 2.

DR. ROOT is not a believer in the "one cure alls." As well might a locksmith make a key to fit all varieties of locks, or the druggist compound all his medicines in one, and use it for all complaints.

The sick wishing to avail themselves of skill and experience in the healing art, are invited to call at the Franklin House.

Thermometers.

IT is known to most scientific men in this country, that the late Thomas Kendall discovered a process, by which the graduation of the Thermometer scales may be made accurately to correspond with variations, which unavoidably exist in the calibre of the tube; thus overcoming what has been considered the insurmountable obstacle to the construction of a perfect Thermometer.

Prof. Silliman of Yale College, (see Journal of Science and Arts, vol. 4, p 398,) and other scientific gentlemen, having examined this process, concur in saying that it is correct on mathematical and philosophical principles, and the only known way by which the difficulty referred to can be obviated.

This method has not been disclosed to other manufacturers of Thermometers, neither is it known to be in their possession. These Thermometers, therefore, are the only ones which can be relied upon for entire accuracy.

The subscriber has just received a lot of these Thermometers direct from the manufacturer and made expressly for his order, of various sizes and mountings, for the parlor or out of door use.

Also, a few Papier Mache Portable Thermometers

JENNY LIND.

The following piece of slanderous gossip about Jenny Lind and her husband, is an extract of a letter which recently appeared in the New Orleans Picayune. We hope she may visit this country again—but do not mean to believe a word of her unhappiness—if we can help it.

The success of Madame Sontag in concert and opera has induced Jenny Lind to determine upon again visiting the United States. The unhappiness of her domestic relations may have had some influence upon her in coming to this decision; but that she will again visit our shores, should her life be spared, is a fact beyond dispute.

I alluded above to the domestic difficulties of Jenny Lind. These, I am informed upon the most reliable authority, exist, and are still becoming of the most serious nature. Shortly after the honeymoon, some trifling misunderstanding occurred between her and Mr. Goldschmidt, (her husband) which has been daily increasing until her sufferings are now too intolerable to be endured. His petty acts of selfishness, and his determination to rule her with a rod of iron, have caused her the greatest unhappiness, and a separation has, I am informed, been agreed upon.

The well known generosity of Jenny is one of the main causes of the difficulty, her husband being opposed to the giving away of anything. But then, it may be that the high temper which Jenny displays at times, has also the effect of rendering her home unhappy. Certain it is, such a state of things exists, and what I have written above, you will find corroborated to the very letter.

GEN. JACKSON'S REMINISCENCES OF THE BATTLE OF NEW ORLEANS.—Philo Jackson writes to the Savannah Journal an interesting account of a visit to Gen. Jackson at the Hermitage in 1839, from which we extract the following:

"I longed to hear him speak of his great battle, and one of the greatest battles too of modern history, the crowning exploit of his military life, the battle of the 8th of January, before New Orleans. He had just returned from his last visit to that city, and lamented the decease of most of his old compatriots since that battle. All the officers except Col. Tiebault, he observed, were dead. He then graphically described the field, the fortifications, as he laughingly called them, and the victory, in a manner I shall never forget.—'Mr. Eaton (said Gen. Jackson) has greatly erred in his description of the American works. He says I had a strong breastwork of cotton bags. There was not a bag of cotton on the field, Sir! I had some store-boxes and sand-bags, or bags filled with sand, and these were extended along the lines; but they were so low, that at the close of the action, when the British surviving General, in command, came riding up on an elegant horse, to surrender his sword, when he got near me, I heard him exclaim, with mortified surprise, 'Barricades! by ——, I could leap them with my horse!'

I laughed heartily at his astonishment, for so he could, and besides on one wing the works were not completed; I had nothing there but a cornfield fence, if the British had only known, to turn it. But by keeping my men constantly throwing over facines and ladders on the works, the British were effectually deceived. But (continued Gen. J.) I never had so grand and awful an idea of the Resurrection as on that day. After the smoke of the battle had cleared off somewhat, (our men were in hot pursuit of the flying enemy,) then I saw, in the distance, more than five hundred Britons emerging from heaps of their dead comrades, all over the plain!—rising up, and more distinctly visible, as the field became clearer, coming forward and surrendering as prisoners of war to our soldiers. They had fallen at our first fire on them, without having received a scratch, and lay prostrate, as if dead, till the close of the action." Gen. Jackson regarded this action, justly, as the most glorious achievement of his life. That victory was as glorious to his country as to the hero of New Orleans—yet the strategy of the General in this masterly battle has never been duly appreciated in any history of it I have read."

The above is quite an interesting little chapter in the Contradictions of History. We always thought that the cotton bags were a fixed fact in the Battle of New Orleans, as really as that Gen. Jackson was the commander of the American Army on that memorable occasion.

The veritable writer quoted above, however, sweeps off the cotton bags with one dash of his pen. We don't believe him, however.—We hold on by the old accounts, written at the time and on the spot, which are indelibly fastened on our memory.

Beauty and Booty—General Packenham and General Jackson—the Cotton Bags—and the Victory itself,—with Gen. Jackson's trial and fine of a thousand dollars, for contempt of court and stretch of power,—all these old stories are welded together in our minds, as old truths.

But almost all these things have been contradicted, denied, or explained away, until we shall by and by be called upon to believe an old doggerel verse, which runs thus:—

"The battle of New Orleans
Was won by brave Adair;
For British bulletins
Prove Jackson was not there."

Or rather, some one will doubt whether there ever was a battle of New Orleans at all.

PORTSMOUTH:
SATURDAY, MARCH 19, 1853.

COMMON SCHOOLS.

Cincinnati, March 17.—The approaching municipal election occasions considerable excitement. The Catholics are taking active steps to secure the division of the school funds, and politics promise, in a great measure, to be lost sight of.

The same movement will take place every where throughout the country, where Catholic managers, commonly priests, have any chance of getting a vote to break down the common school system, and substitute for it a set of sectarian schools,—so that while the school tax, as now, comes from the whole body of the people, the school-money shall be divided between sects, each of which will keep its own school—if it can.

We have had some opportunity to watch the operation of our common schools on the children of immigrant Catholics. We never found any difficulty with children or parents, until some priest came among them, and opened their eyes to the great danger to which their souls were exposed by attending the common school. Then the conscience of the ignorant and honest became awakened, their fears excited—and in many cases their children are withdrawn and left to grow up in ignorance. That the common people are sincere and honest in their action on the subject, we have little doubt; but we cannot speak so favorably of their more enlightened and crafty leaders and teachers, who dupe them with the idea that attendance on what they call a Protestant school, or some times a "godless" school or seminary, will put their souls in peril of being kept out of Heaven, and doomed to utter darkness and misery without end and without hope.

We would impress the public mind, if we could, with the importance of preserving the common school system, free and general in its operation on all the families in our community; and of doing every thing that can properly be done, to prevent its being destroyed or frittered away.

We deem it also important to avoid, as far as possible, any thing about the schools, needlessly offensive to Catholic prejudices. But our citizens ought to know, that it is impossible to make our common schools acceptable to a Catholic priest, unlsss we teach his catechism, or the doctrines of his church therein. He will not be satisfied with our excluding every thing that contravenes his views: but we must include his doctrines, or else he will say we teach Atheism.

Against such obstacles, our New England free school system has to contend, whenever it comes in contact, as it now does in Cincinnati, with a large mass of Catholic voters, acting in a body, under the influence of their "ghostly advisers," who send them to the polls to do their bidding.

RETURNED TO SLAVERY.—The Wheeling Times states that Lewis, a colored man, belonging to H. M. Jamieson, Esq., of that city, who had run away a short time ago, voluntarily returned, recently, perfectly disgusted with the condition of the "free niggers" in Pittsburg, Pa., where he had been stopping.

The St. Louis Republican states that a slave of Mr. G. McCann, of that city, recently rescued from drowing his master, at the imminent peril of his own life. Facts for Mrs. Stowe.

Yes, indeed! Facts for every body. Facts are friends to truth, but foes to falschood. No honest man ought to be afraid of them—and no man really crafty will appear to be so afraid. Perhaps the rescued master may find his heart enlarged so much as to give liberty to the slave to whom he owes his life.

And as to those slaves who run back into slavery, let them run: we would not hinder them from running that way, any more than the other. By the way, voluntary servitude can hardly be deemed slavery:—and if this poor fellow ran away from starvation into well-fed servitude with a good master, we should not find fault with him:—though we cannot help thinking of the Wolf and the Watch Dog, in one of Esop's old fables.

They have got a new conundrum afloat, but we have not seen it in print yet. It is pretty good. 'Gumbo, what was Uncle Tom's Cabin writ with?' "Why, it was with a pen, I spose." "What a foolish nigger—no, it wasn't writ with a pen, too." "It was writ with a steel goose quill." "No you ignorant darkey, it was writ with Harriet Beecher'S towe. —Republican Journal.

TURN OUT.—The draymen of Louisville, Ky., struck for higher rates on the 10th instant, and formed a procession with their two horse drays, three miles long. One hundred and twenty-nine white drivers, and one hundred and thirty colored drivers joined in the turn out; the leader of the latter being "Old Buckner," who has been seventeen years in the line. Some drays had odd wheels attached to them, which were taken from others, the owners of which refused to join in the parade.

It is said that Gen. Scott has determined to transfer the Head Quarters of the Army from Washington to New York.

INCREASED ALIMONY.—In the Massachusetts Supreme Court, for Suffolk Co. a case of some interest has lately been decided, viz. Mary M. Atkins vs. Thomas G. Atkins.—Petition for enlargement of alimony.—In this case the petitioner, July 12th, 1849, obtained a decree of divorce from the bed and board of the respondent, her husband, for the cause of extreme cruelty, at which time the court ordered the payment by the husband of alimony at the rate of $600 per annum until further order of the court, payable in equal quarterly instalments. The present petition was filed October 19th, 1849, stating the birth of a child since said decree, and that the respondent was possessed of a large property, and prayed for an enlargement of alimony for these reasons, for support of herself and child.

The respondent plead encumbrances,—but the Court sent out an assessor, who reported that the respondent was possessed of property to the value of about $130,000, exclusive of all incumbrances and trusts so alleged by respondent, which incumbrances and trusts, however, the assessor disallowed.

A hearing was had before Mr. Justice Cushing, who decreed that the alimony be doubled, making the amount $1200 per annum payable as before, and that respondent must file a bond to comply with this order. The custody of the child was given to the mother.

A HARDENED CRIMINAL.—In the Boston Police Court, on Wednesday, in the case of Michael O'Brien, William Clark, and Jane Harper, convicted of a conspiracy to extort money from Samuel Bigelow, the County Attorney moved for the severest penalty of the law,—three years in the House of Correction. They were sentenced as follows:—O'Brien three years, Clark two years eleven months, and Harper thirty months. The woman persisted in asserting her innocence. O'Brien, after sentence, accused Mr. Bigelow of perjury, upon which, the County Attorney remarked that he wished the Court had the power to add one year to his sentence. O'Brien repeated the accusation, and was removed from the court room.

There is no question that all three are old, successful swindlers, who feel almost as if they had a right to continue their business, and that they are really injured by being exposed and punished.

PENOBSCOT RAILROAD.—A correspondent at Bangor informs us that the contractors are pushing the work of the Penobscot Railroad with energy, and the line will be completed at an early day. It is to connect with the Bangor & Kennebec road at Bangor, and with the European & North American road at Milford—forming a link of the great route to Halifax. The work was taken by H. C. Seymour, Esq., the well-known contractor, of New York—which is an assurance that it will be carried through with despatch.

THE PEOPLE'S MEDICAL LIGHT-HOUSE.—This is a valuable medical work, from the pen of Dr. H. K. Root, who is well known in this city and vicinity, as a thorough and scientific physician. The theory advanced by Dr. Root in this book, has many original points, but the uniform success which has attended his practice of the same, shows it to be the correct one. It is a work that should be found in every family, as it contains sound advice and instruction for the acquirement and preservation of good health.—New England Directory.

We understand that a canvassing agent for this work will be in Portsmouth next week, and call upon our citizens. We have not yet seen a copy of the People's Medical Lighthouse, but the press everywhere speak highly in its praise.

THE GRANITE FARMER, printed weekly at Manchester, is a first-rate family newspaper for the farmer. It should be well patronized by New Hampshire farmers. There is no need of going abroad for a farming journal, when one so good as this can be had for $1.50 per year at home. It would be to the advantage of our farmers, would they pay more attention to farming interests—papers, fairs and shows, &c.,—within their own State.

THE OPIUM TRADE.—A pamphlet of 80 pages, giving a sketch of The Opium Trade, its history, extent and effect, in India and China, has been laid on our table by Mr. Joseph H. Foster, from the publisher, Mr. J. P. Walker of Lowell. The author is Nathan Allen, M. D.—and the pamphlet before us is the second edition.

Many of the facts are startling. Opium is the grand demoralizing drug of China;—and was also the cause of the English war with that country. The iniquity of the traffic, and the outrage of the war, are exposed in the pamphlet, which is interesting throughout.

ARRIVAL OF THE ERICSSON.—The caloric ship Ericsson, Capt. Lowber, arrived yesterday morning from Alexandria. Her engine worked throughout the passage with perfect regularity, and the vessel proved herself, in every respect, sea worthy. She left Alexandria on Friday night, and carried at no time more than 7 1-2 pounds pressure to the square inch, which is about 3 1-2 less than she is capable of carrying.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

Messrs. Editors:—Seeing an article in your paper, noticing the Young Men's Christian Association, and knowing many of your numerous readers were not aware of the existence of such an Association in their midst, I thought a short history of the Association and its objects would not prove uninteresting to them.

The society was organized about ten months since, by the young men connected with the Pleasant Street Church, for the purpose of mutual improvement, by meeting together one evening in each week, and by declamation, essays, debates, &c., imparting and gaining useful knowledge, thus preparing them for the active duties of life, and making them better and more useful men, citizens and christians. It was at first intended to confine the society to the few with whom it originated, but as many young men connected with other churches wished to join such an Association, they have lately amended their Constitution, so as to admit any person of respectable character, who may wish to connect himself with the Association.

The object they propose to attain, is, the promotion of the principles of religion and morality among the young men of this city; and the means by which they propose to accomplish that object, is by admitting young men to their society and furnishing them with good books from their library, to interest them with the exercises of the Association; and by exerting a religious influence over them, obtain their attendance on some place of worship on the Sabbath, instead of breaking it by excursions of pleasure as is too frequently the case. There are no sectarian principles or politics introduced into the Association—the members numbering at present about sixty, (and fast increasing) representing all the different churches in the city, both professors of religion and those who are not.

We thank those kind friends who have already interested themselves in our welfare, by furnishing us with a good Library, and with God's help will try to accomplish the object for which we have associated together.

A MEMBER.

A KNOWING COW.—Cows do not generally receive the credit of possessing much sagacity, but there is an animal of the species bovus, in this city, which appears, during her life to have practised reasoning on a small scale. When carrying food for her use, her keeper has usually called her attention to the fact by whistling. To his peculiar note has she become so accustomed that she will follow him in any direction, while he whistles. When she hears the well known sound, but cannot see the keeper, she answers it with a gentle lowing.

The other day, to try his power, the keeper, by using his whistle, induced her to follow him through the streets, the cow testifying her joy at this unusual liberty, by frisking about with the playfulness of a colt, much to the annoyance and fear of the ladies in the neighborhood. The cow and boy arrived near the Post Office about mail time, and she would have followed him into the office, had he been willing; but her sagacity had been proved sufficiently: so he took her by the horns, turned her head towards home, and told her to travel.

She started off immediately in the proper direction, and went quietly home. Do cows reason? Have they intelligence? Affection they certainly do possess and exercise.

INTERESTING LECTURES.

By our advertising columns it will be seen that Mr. Pike of Newburyport is to favor our citizens with a Course of Lectures next week, on subjects vitally interesting to all.

Mr. Pike is very favorably known in his own city, coming highly recommended as a gentleman and a lecturer—and we have no doubt will interest and entertain, instruct and amuse his audiences.

☞ Dr. H. K. Root, the author of the "People's Medical Lighthouse," and inventor of the Lung Barometer, will arrive this morning, as our readers will notice by an advertisement in another place. His rooms, we understand, are usually much crowded near the close of a visit, consequently we would advise those who wish to consult him, to call early, or they may not have an opportunity to be waited upon.

ICE TRADE.—The Journal notices an advertisement of ships wanted in New Orleans, for the transport of Ice from this port. This fact, with others of a like kind, afford a strong argument in favor of a railroad to Winnepisseogee Pond. And the shipping of ice from this port, will tend to the shipping of cotton into it.

☞ We understand upon good authority, that the nomination of Kittredge Sheldon, Esq. for Surveyor of the Port of Portsmouth, was sent into the U. S. Senate on Tuesday last.

Fatal Accident at East Cambridge.—On Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Julia A. Bossecret, one of the matrons having charge of the female prisoners at the House of Correction in East Cambridge, was almost instantaneously killed by falling from a flight of stairs, in the newly erected prison in that institution. She was hastily passing up the stairs, when she fell upon the second flight, and from thence was precipitated about ten feet, fracturing her skull in a bad manner, and causing almost instantaneous death. She probably tripped against one of the steps or was taken with sudden diziness, as she had been complaining for some days. She was 42 years of age, and was much esteemed at the institution and by the inhabitants of East Cambridge.

In Havana no gentleman, unless he is a priest, goes to church. But the ladies go, and the gentlemen cluster around the door, and hand the ladies to their volantes when the mass is over.

Oregon.—The Oregonian says—"It is supposed that not less than five thousand head of cattle died during and in consequence of the late storm and cold weather, East of Cascade mountains. Many persons lost every animal they possessed. This loss will be seriously felt by the whole country."

It commenced snowing at the Dalles on the 8th of December, and continued twenty-two days and nights—the weather very cold. As far back as the De Shules river the snow had disappeared.

New and rich discoveries of placers continue to be made in the mineral sections of this state, especially in Jacksonville, said to be the richest of the Oregon mines.

There is at this moment an odd theatrical revival in Silesia, which deserves a word of record among the social facts of this very extraordinary year. It would appear that the Jesuit mission, lately established in that part of Prussia, have given great offence to the Protestant inhabitants,—and, in the absence of any other means of making a popular demonstration against an institution suffered by the government of Berlin, they are flocking in thousands to Breslau to attend the theatre, where the manager has produced a drama with the magic title of "Luther." Peasants come in from leagues around to applaud the actors. "Sometimes," says our informant, the Daily News, "they drive up in a procession of upwards of a hundred carts, and take the whole pit to themselves. On a late occasion they filled the whole tier of dress boxes, in their frieze coats and broad brimmed hats." How would the old Reformer stare could he return to earth and find how singularly his sturdy and industrious followers of Silesia are now maintaining the good old cause! Luther himself fought the Devil with his inkstand—a knock down weapon, whether the old story read as fact or as allegory,—but it probably never occurred to him that the quarrel would one day come to an issue at the foot lights.—London Athenæum.

What an Invading Army Might Destroy in London.—We rejoice in the pacific assurances of Louis Napoleon. We trust that the foot of an invader will never profane these shores—Puddle Dock and the contiguous embankments more particularly to wit. Yet, if ever the French do come to London, there are several bits of mischief which they might do for our great advantage in the end.

They might, perhaps, blow up Temple Bar. They might certainly demolish the iron railings around St. Paul's.

It would be a good job if they were to raze the Court of Chancery to its foundations, and annihilate the whole of Doctors' Commons.

If they were to burn the National Gallery—saving the pictures—it would be no very great harm; and, considering the present state of the river, they certainly would abate a very nasty nuisance if they could manage to set the Thames on fire.—Punch.

H. K. ROOT, A.M., M. D.

WILL ARRIVE AT THE FRANKLIN HOUSE

TO-DAY, SATURDAY, MARCH 19th,

Where he will remain until FRIDAY morning, the 25th.

Consumption not Fatal if properly treated.

DR. H. K. ROOT, the celebrated Lung and Consumption Physician, author of the 'People's Medical Lighthouse,' inventor of the Infallible Lung Barometer, from 512 Broadway, N. Y., invites the attention of the sick and afflicted, laboring under any of the various forms of disease, such as Coughs, Ulcerated or Tuberculous Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Pain in the Chest, Shoulders, Sides or Back, Bleeding Lungs, Chronic Catarrh, Night Sweats, Nervous Complaints, Palpitation, Oscillation or Dropsy of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Chronic Diarrhœa, Incidental Weakness peculiar to Females, Cancers, Tumors, Scrofulous Affections, Deafness, Insanity, Fits, Paralysis, Spinal Deformity, Gravel, Fistula, Costiveness, and all Cutaneous Eruptions, and poisonous Innoculations and Humors of the Blood. He does not make sick to make well, nor tear down to build up; but persons under his care can pursue their regular business, while the work of cleansing and purifying the system is going on. His theory is, that all diseases arises directly or indirectly from an impure state of the blood. The language of scripture is—

"The life of the flesh is the blood thereof."—Genesis: 4.

"For the blood is the life."—Deut. xii: 21.

"For the life of the flesh is the blood."—Levitt. xvii: 11.

And he also believes that the remedies furnished by nature are the only ones which can produce a speedy and permanent cure. There never was a disease but had its vegetable antidote. And in this opinion he is sustained by scripture—

David said—"Purge me with hyssop and I shall be made clean."—Psalms li: 7.

Paul said—"The weak eateth herbs."—Rom. xiv 2.

St. John said—"The leaves of the tree were for healing of the nations."—Rev. xxii: 2.

Dr. Root is not a believer in the "one cure alls." As well might a locksmith make a key to fit all varieties of locks, or the druggist compound all his medicines in one, and use it for all complaints.

The sick wishing to avail themselves of skill and experience in the healing art, are invited to call at the Franklin House.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IN 1840 the subscriber was appointed Agent of the United States Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th section of the Act of 1837.

Having relinquished the agency for the transmission of models, and adopting a more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, whereby a Patent can be procured several weeks earlier, he continues to forward them, as before, free of expense, and to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe.

The subscriber aims to present to inventors superior facilities for obtaining patents; and is now prepared to make Specifications at rates cheaper by ten to twenty per cent. than those of other agencies. They can here avail themselves of the experience of 26 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by transmitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.
"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agent I am very respectfully,

Thermometers.

IT is known to most scientific men in this country, that the late Thomas Kendall discovered a process, by which the graduation of the Thermometer scales may be made accurately to correspond with variations, which unavoidably exist in the calibre of the tube; thus overcoming what has been considered the insurmountable obstacle to the construction of a perfect Thermometer.

Profs. Silliman and Fisher, Yale College, (see Journal of Science and Arts, vol. 4, p. 398,) and other scientific gentlemen, having examined this process, concur in saying that it is correct on mathematical and philosophical principles, and the only known way by which the difficulty referred to can be obviated.

This method has not been disclosed to other manufacturers of Thermometers, neither is it known to be in their possession. These Thermometers, therefore, are the only ones which can be relied upon for entire accuracy.

The subscriber has just received a lot of these thermometers direct from the manufacturer and made expressly for his order, of various sizes and mountings, for the parlor or out of door use.

Also, a few Papier Mache Mantle Thermometers

AMERICAN CUSTOMS.

An English traveller in this country thus describes in his 'book' some of the 'queer things' he met with in his wanderings:

"Now, to tell you of some of the queer things one sees and hears in this queer country. One of the most foreign-looking sights to a stranger is the appearance which the churches present during service, especially if the day be hot. Every lady has her fan, which she brings with her, or more generally keeps lying in her pew. What a funny sight. There they sit, young girls and young ladies, newly married and old married ladies, black ladies and white ladies, fanning away as if their lives depended on their never ceasing. In front of the minister, on this side and on that, up in the front of the galleries, and back in the galleries, there they go, fan, fan, fan, fan. There are fans of paper, fans of grass, fans of ivory, fans of feathers, fans of everything.—There they go, those who have no fans using their prayer books or Bibles, fan, fan, fan.—Arms moving and heads keeping time, flutter, flutter, flutter—one fan, two fans, three fans—fans innumerable. Oh! dear! it surely is hot.

Another peculiarity connected with their churches, is that of the gentlemen always rising up and leaving the pew to let a lady enter. A lady, indeed, when she reaches her pew, never thinks of going in till all the gentlemen first step out. In she goes, and in go the obsequious gentlemen after, only to repeat the performance in three minutes, when another lady comes in. I have often seen five gentlemen have to get up and go out. I was myself a victim to this practice.

Last Sabbath I went over to New York to hear Dr. Spring preach. I could not find the doorkeeper to show me to a seat, so I entered a vacant pew on chance, and sat at the head of it, as we do in Scotland. Presently the church door opened and in walked a lady marshaled by my friend the door keeper. Up they marched till they came to my pew, when he, opening the door, beckoned to me with his finger to come out. Unfortunately for me I was reading a hymn at the time, and was so engaged that I did not at first see the telegraphic signal; so there sat I composedly reading, and there stood my friend, the doorkeeper, impatiently beckoning; beside him stood the minister's wife, (for it was no less a personage whom I was keeping standing there,) while round about sat the congregation, curiously looking. At last I caught his eye, or rather his finger—had to get up, and to the right-about march, to let this free-born lady enter her pew—possession, in this case, not proving nine points of the law. I got well punished for my lack of politeness, or, as I will call it, for my ignorance, by feeling the tell-tale blood mount up to the crown of my head. One thing I felt strongly inclined to do, was to give the fellow a word in season."

CONVERSION OF THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES.

PRAYER ASSOCIATION.—By a Rescript, dated 5th September, 1852, our Holy Father Pius IX., at the instance of the National Council of Baltimore, sanctions, by the indulgences, the institution of a society whose members shall especially pray for the conversion of all who are out of the communion of the Church in the United States.

1 A plenary Indulgence on receiving the Easter communion to all the members, who shall daily recite, in any language, the following prayer:

"Almighty and Eternal God, who savest all, and wilt have none to perish, have regard to these souls who are led astray by the deceits of the devil, that rejecting all errors, the hearts of those who err may be converted, and may return to the unity of Thy truth.—Through Christ our Lord. Amen."

2 A plenary Indulgence in the hour of death, on condition of receiving the Holy Eucharist, after confessing their sins with true sorrow; or, if they cannot receive it, at least in their heart.

3 An Indulgence of a hundred days every time the members recite the above prayer.

4 Those who cannot recite the above prayer may obtain the same Indulgences by saying daily in its stead the Our Father, Hail Mary and Glory be to the Father, with the same intention."—Pilot.

A SOUL OUT OF PURGATORY.

The following spicy anecdote we find in a letter from "Kirwan" to the N. Y. Observer.

An Englishman in Ireland was introduced to a Popish chapel there, when souls were to be delivered from purgatory. The place was brilliantly lighted. The priest sat at a table on which the relatives of the departed whose souls were to be released, laid money as they passed. Having collected his wages, the priest commenced his operations; and soon announced that the souls were liberated, and would speedily make their appearance. Immediately a part of the floor opened, and there issued from it small living creatures of red color, to the amazement of all present. One of these creatures jumped near to the Englishman, who seized it and putting it in his pocket, rushed out. Breathless, he soon entered the parlor of his friend, exclaiming as he flung the living creature upon the table, "There is a soul just delivered from purgatory." It was found to be a frog dressed in red flannel! He was told, as he valued his life, not to reveal the deception, at least until he had crossed the channel.

The above may possibly be true, coming as it does from a religious paper—but to us it sounds rather fishy.

Why has a shoemaker more reason to be proud of his occupation than any other mortal? Because he has Bishop Berkley's authority for saying "Time's noblest offspring is the last."—Post.

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH:
MONDAY, MARCH 21, 1853.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS.

A petition is in circulation in Massachusetts, intended to be presented to the Constitutional Convention, praying that an amendment to the Constitution may be adopted, striking out the word "male" wherever it occurs in that instrument. The petition is signed by Samuel E. Sewall, Wendell Phillips, John Pierpont, Lucy Stone, Eliza Barney, Abby Kelly Foster and others.

If the word male is stricken out of the Constitution, we suppose it must go out of the laws also—and then the ranks of the militia may be swelled by an influx of Amazons, riding furious war chargers, and brandishing glittering faulchions after the fashion of the olden time. A new esprit du corps would spring up thus, in the volunteer cavalry:—Some dashing young Boadicea from Beacon or Park street, would readily get a Captain's commission—and then the nice young men! would'nt they delight to ride in her troop, even at the hazard of breaking their necks!

In the artillery, taper fingers would clutch the dragropes, and lily white hands besmutch themselves and their faces in the sulphureous smoke of the great guns. But most and best of all, in the infantry service, the ladies would find themselves perfectly at home, handling a musket exactly as they tend a baby, and charging bayonet as skilfully as they pin a diaper.

We go, decidedly, for woman's rights—and think our constitutions, laws and usages, should all be so arranged, as to make her, what God designed her to be, man's counterpart, companion, and, if you please, equal.—But she is not to be, and cannot be, himself—she cannot be a man, she must remain a woman—and her sex will remain marked, not only on her person, but on her mind, her thought, her heart.

The true distinction could not be abolished if we would—it ought not to be abolished, if we could.

Correspondence of the Chronicle.

A LETTER FROM NEW YORK.

The World's Fair—Humbug—Gaiety of the City—Franconi's Hippodrome—Theatricals, etc.—John P. Hale—War of the Newspapers.

NEW YORK, March 18, 1853.

The opening of the World's Fair, which is to take place the coming season, has even now attracted crowds of strangers to the city.—Visitants throng Broadway, admiring its noble palaces and gorgeous stores. This metropolis never perhaps presented to the eye of the stranger a more brilliant appearance than at the present time, and certainly no previous season has been more gay.

By the by, the so styled "World's Fair" does not merit the dignity of the appellation. With the same propriety the North Mill Pond might be called an ocean. The structure is nearly the size of the old Brick Market, and being built of glass and putty, closely resembles a hot-house on a large scale. It is, in short, a parody on the English affair, and has nothing purely American or national about it but humbug. Its managers are avaricious speculators, and the building itself is worthy the petty meanness of those who supervise its construction. The position the Wall Street Journal (a smart little commercial sheet) has taken against the whole affair, is commendable.

"Madison Square has become a point of great public curiosity since the commencement of the building of the Hippodrome there. Thousands visit the spot daily to examine the enclosure and buildings. The rapidity with which the walls, surrounding nearly two acres of ground, are run up, is amazing, having been under way only ten days. Upwards of one hundred workmen are constantly engaged in its construction, and it is contracted to be finished on or before the arrival of Franconi with his troop, early in April. The interior will seat ten thousand spectators, besides leaving room for a chariot course thirty feet wide and one hundred feet around, together with a hundred feet in the centre cultivated as a garden, with fountains, flower beds, arbors, &c. There are to be five large and separate places of egress for the convenience of the masses who attend. Upwards of two hundred performers, male and female, and nearly the same number of horses, ostriches and reindeers, will be necessary to give effect to the various representations of the Hippodrome. This is the most costly enterprise in the way of public shows ever undertaken in America. It will succeed."

All the popular resorts of amusement are literally reaping "a golden harvest." Sontag continues to fill Niblo's saloons night after night. She appears this evening in Donizetti's opera of Lucia Di Lammermoor. She is charming in whatever character she attempts. On Monday next she will make her last appearance in La Sonambula.

The Broadway Theatre has lately produced two very original dramas, both of which proved failures. One, an attempted reply to Uncle Tom's Cabin, was called "The White Slave of England"; it was strangled in its infancy as all such trash deserves to be. No reply is needed to Mrs. Stowe's novel, (especially such a one as that) for its over-drawn pictures are its own reproofs. Though containing much truth and intensely exciting, yet no candid reader can lay it down saying it is a fair book. Edwin Forrest is playing at this establishment with his usual and merited success. Burton has placed on his boards Shakspere's "Merry Wives of Windsor" in a masterly style; the cast is excellent, and as may be supposed that jewel of a theatre is crammed from gallery to pit.

Pauline at Wallack's has a decidedly good run.

Barnum's Museum, the ancient Bowery, Wood's Minstrels and some twenty more places to while away an evening, are in the height of prosperity.

John P. Hale delivered a lecture on abolition at the Tabernacle last Wednesday eve; the very seats groaned beneath the weight of the eager listeners. It would be useless to comment on the lecture for it was of course such as only a talented man like Mr. Hale could produce. At the close of the lecture his friends and admirers took possession of the rostrum and fairly embraced him.

There is no little excitement displayed in Wall st., concerning a charge brought against Mr. George B. Butler one of the editors of the Journal of Commerce, by the Courier & Enquirer. It is alleged by the latter print that Mr. Butler attempted to bribe an alderman and publishes an affidavit to that effect over the signature of ex-alderman Barr. Mr. Butler is absent from the city but intends returning, or has, to repel the gross impeachment. What renders the matter more interesting, is that the J. of C. has been for weeks lashing through its powerful columns the veto actions of the Common Council, and now that its editor is accused of doing what that paper so justly condemns, it gives quite a zest to the whole affair; and is taken advantage of by a hive of worthless papers who envy the high toned morality of the Journal. It is ever so, the bad despise all that wear the garb of truth and virtue. Those who know Mr. Butler repudiate the accusation as preposterous.

Before closing this article I wish to say that a friend of mine, whose signature will be "Metropolitan," in conjunction with myself, propose to occasionally send an epistle to the Chronicle containing such items as may fall under our eye and other matter of general interest. If this be acceptable I have only to add that Metropolitan is a Portsmouth boy, and I am ST. NICHOLAS.

HOW TO "DO" THE BEGGARS.

We were quite pleased, not long since, to see, that, by building some new County Almshouses, and by new rules, Massachusetts is about to adopt a new system with her paupers. Each applicant at the alms-house is furnished with a new suit of clothes, and told to go to work. If he pleads sickness, he is despatched to the hospital, where, if he is shamming, hospital diet soon brings him to his strength. If he runs off with his new clothes, a description of the fugitive is despatched to the other alms-houses, and if he applies for relief to them he is compelled to work till he has paid for his outfit. This plan seems to be well devised to keep persons out of the alms-house.

This statement puts the Portland Advertiser in mind of a plan similar to the above, which was many years ago adopted by the grand Duke to rid Florence of beggars. It was proclaimed that every beggar who would appear in the grand plaza at a certain mentioned time would be provided by the Duke with a new suit of clothes, free of cost. At the appointed time, the beggars of the city all assembled, and the grand Duke, causing all the avenues to the square to be closed, compelled the beggars to strip off their old clothes, and gave each one according to promise, a new suit. In the old clothes thus collected, enough money was found concealed to build a beautiful bridge over the Arno, called "the beggars' bridge," and the city, for the time being, was relieved of the beggars by which it had been previously overrun, as none would give to the well dressed individuals who implored charity, not believing their tale of distress.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—The London correspondent of the Philadelphia North American states that Col. Hughes of Maryland, the representative of the American Association for the management of the Crystal Palace at New York, is now in London. He had a long interview with Prince Albert, who in conjunction with Her Majesty the Queen, takes great interest in the American World's Fair. Her Majesty and Prince Albert will send over a variety of choice and valuable articles, including a bust of the Queen, to be exhibited. The Emperor of the French, the Pope of Rome and the Sultan of Turkey, are among the contributors. England sends 524 objects, France 326, the Zollverein 500, Holland 142, and Italy 100 (statutes.) Col. Hughes will shortly leave London for Paris, and proceed to the several European Courts upon his important mission.

LOCAL.

For the Chronicle.

TENURE OF OFFICE OF THE CITY COUNCIL.—There is an impression existing, we believe, very generally, in this city, that the term of office of the old City Council will expire at ten o'clock in the morning of the fourth Tuesday of March, (to-morrow) when the new City Council have been properly qualified by taking the oath of office. Now this is a mistake.* The City Council will not only be "double-headed," but double-bodied and double-legged, after the new Council is qualified.—What a strange creature this city government will be!—a wonderment indeed!—single, and yet double at the same time! O tempora! O mores!

Be careful, ye new Councilmen, not to usurp authority! else lengthen your legs, for the old ones will be after you with "a sharp stick," if ye dare invade their domain. We charge you, beware! O. P. Q.

Vide* sec. 6 of Charter The respective offices begin from the 4th Tuesday of March, for one year.

☞ Mr. T. S. Williams, from Lowell, commences a term of Writing Lessons this evening, over Mr. Harvey's bookstore.

☞ Mr. Pike's first Lecture on Woman, at the Temple this evening. See adv.

We understand that Dr. FOLSOM is about removing, or has already taken up his residence in Portsmouth, for the purpose of practicing his profession in that place. Mr Folsom is a man of unexceptionable character, a good citizen, and a well-read physician. We commend him to the patronage of the citizens of Portsmouth.—Dover Gazette.

ACCIDENT.—William Rogers, while engaged a few days since, near a large gearing in the Cocheco Print works, was caught by his right side, in the machinery, about six inches below his arm. In extricating himself, he tore and mutilated the flesh in such a manner, as to leave the muscles of his side exposed to view. The wound was dressed by Dr. N. L. Folsom, and we understand the patient is now in a comfortable condition and doing well.—Dover Gazette.

MEDICAL MORALS, illustrated with plates and extracts from Medical works; designed to show the pernicious, social, and moral influence of the present system of medical practice, and the importance of establishing Female Medical Colleges, and educating and employing female physicians for their own sex. By Geo. Gregory. New York: 1853.

The above title is that of a new pamphlet, whose object and purpose are readily understood. There is a difference of opinion on the subject; and this pamphlet warmly urges the education and employment of female midwives and physicians. It is a 25 cent pamphlet, of 48 pages.

☞ The New York Musical World and Times comes to us this week loaded with a choice variety of musical matter, and the usual quantity of music. It is one of the best musical papers in the country, and should be in the hands of every person who desires to be kept posted up in musical affairs. The music published in this paper during the year, aside from other matter, is worth double the subscription price.

SAVED THEIR BACON TOO LONG.—A Baltimore telegram of the 18th, says,

The extensive provision store, firm of Lewis and George Capard, suspended payment yesterday, consequent upon heavy speculations in lard and bacon. Their liabilities are nearly a million of dollars.

The Baltimore bacon dealers have lost heavily by the decline of provisions. Mr. J. H. Cook has failed for $60,000. Messrs. Jassards have suspended but are not considered a bad failure. It is thought they will be enabled to go on. The utmost extent of the failure, if it should prove so, would not be more than $250,000.

Dealers in meat and fat, as well as others, have a right to their profits, which are sometimes great, by reason of a rise in the market; and when great stocks, like those above mentioned, happen to rise, the owners grow rich rapidly. But when they fall, as in the present case, the owners are apt to fall with them.—The fortune of trade is almost as precarious as the fortune of war.

LIBEL.—In a Court in New York city, on Friday, the jury in the libel case of Edwin Forrest against Hiram Fuller, editor of the Evening Mirror, brought in a verdict of $250 in favor of the plaintiff.

Mr. Forrest must be very thankful for small favors, if he is satisfied with so small a recompense for a blasted reputation.

CALIFORNIA.—Steamer Ohio, arrived at New York from Aspinwall, brought nearly 500 passengers, and $244,700 in gold on freight.

During the week ending 12th the sales of cotton at New Orleans were 80,000 bales, valued at $3,000,000.

The Virginia House of Delegates have passed a resolution directing the Attorney General to prosecute an appeal in the Lemmon slave case, before the Supreme Court of New York.

Dr. S. O. Richardson's Sherry Wine Bitters;
Dr. Pierce's Indian Restorative Bitters;

This is a fine collection of extracts from American speeches and orations. This book is worth buying for its fac-similies alone.—Boston Post.

It combines an excellent and well printed selection from the speeches and occasional addresses of many of those who have given a tone and character to our public orators. The Fac-Similes embrace the autographs of more than four hundred persons.—Boston Traveller.

The author has been enabled to give very ample specimens of the prose eloquence of our principle orators and speakers. The selections are made with much good taste.—Boston Transcript.

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

IMPORTANT FROM MEXICO.

New York, March 18.—By the brig Brazillero, from Vera Cruz, we have Mexican dates to March 4th.

Alarming rumors were in circulation at Tucubya.—It was said that Senor Lombardini, the President ad interim, had been sent to prison, and General Blacarto murdered. Durango and Aguascliento had voted for Santa Anna, which made eleven states in his favor.—The sentiment of Vera Cruz was also in his favor. Other rumors state that there was a disagreement at the Capitol, between the President and his chiefs of division; that resistance was not from the troops who were in favor of the plan of Gilas and that Robles had tendered the surrender of his division; and that General Blancarte had left Mexico with 1500 men and six pieces of artillery, to bring to terms the State of Guanajuato, which had refused to adopt the resolutons.

Senor Villanul arr. at Tehuantepec to deliver up to the Sloo Company the privilege of the Isthmus.

LATEST FROM EUROPE.

BY STEAMER CANADA.

At Liverpool, March 5, the Cotton market was dull, with a declining tendency.

Quotations—Fair Orleans 6 3-4; mid 5 5-8; fair Uplands 6; mid 5 1-2d.

Flour dull and declining; prices 6d lower. Western Canal 24s 6d a 25s; Balt. and Phila. 25, 6 a 26; Ohio 26 6. Wheat declined 1d a 2d, with limited demand. Corn is dull; white has declined 1s a 3s, being quoted at 31s 6d a 32s. Yellow 31s 6d; Mixed 31s.

Provision Market poorly supplied with Pork, and dull; more sellers than buyers. Bacon—Eastern firm at 53 a 56s. Lard nominal at 52s, all qualities having considerably declined.

HORRIBLE MURDER.

The citizens of Holly Springs, Miss., we judge from their papers are greatly and rightfully excited at a horrible murder which occurred in a drinking saloon there on the 18th ult. A clever industrious man named Christopher Cothran, the father of a large family of children, was murdered in the most foul, cowardly and cold blooded manner, by a man named John M. Rossel.

Rossel, it appears, had given offence to many in the bar room by acts of petty bullying, and had been denounced for it by Cothran. Notwithstanding this, he invited Cothran to take a drink, which the latter refused, saying he could pay for his own liquor. Cothran then stepped up to the bar, with a friend, and while drinking was approached stealthily from behind Rossel, who reached across the friend's shoulder, and with a penknife cut Cothran's neck nearly across, seperating the jugular vein. Cothran lived only a few minutes. Rossel was immediately arrested, and commited to jail on charge of wilful murder. Bail was refused.

Meetings have been called in the town of Holly Springs to put down the grocery shops; and some fears have been expressed that possibly the order and quiet of the town might be infringed upon. There appears to be little doubt but that the horrible murder alluded to, will cause the passage or an ordinance entirely prohibiting the retailing of liquor within the corporation limits. Public sentiment appears to be very strongly bent that way.

Washington, March 18.—M. DeBow, editor of the Commercial Review, has been appointed Superintendent of the Census.

BREAD AND PROVISIONS.

In a review of markets for the past week, we find a small decline in both these kinds of merchandise.

In New York, Flour is lower and heavy; sales Western Canal 6100 bbls, at 4 56 a 4 68 for State, 4 75 a $5 for Michigan and Indiana, 4 75 a 5 06 for Ohio. Southern—Sales 2400 bbls at 4 87 for mixed Fredericksburg.

Corn less active; mixed white very dull and lower; yellow scarce and wanted at better prices; sales 13,000 bush at 61 a 62c for mixed, 62 a 63 1-2c for white and 66c for yellow Southern, and 58 a 61 1-2c for N. O.

Pork less firm; sales at 15 87 a $16 for new mess, 14 62 a 14 75 for do prime.

Beef heavy; sales at 9 25 a 10 75 for country mess, $13 Chicago, 5 25 a 6 75 for prime; prime mess quiet; 50 tcs good Ohio 20.

Lard firm; 800 bbls 9 1-4 a 9 1-2c. Butter rather lower; 12 a 16c for Ohio, 15 a 22c for Western. Cheese 8 a 9 1-2.

In Boston the Flour market is very quiet and sales limited. Ohio and Michigan common brands 4 87 1-2; fancy do $5 a 5 12-12; Genesee fancy 5 22; extra $6 a 6 50 per bbl, cash. Southern dull, and prices nominal.—Corn Meal 3 62 a 3 75, cash. Rye Flour scarce. Canada Flour is held at 5 12 1-2 per bbl, cash, in bond, and not much doing.

The demand for Pork is moderate and prices not quite so firm; sales of Clear at 19 50 a $20; Mess 17 50 a $18; Prime 16 a $16 50 Western Mess Beef 12 50 a $14 50, the latter for extra; Eastern do 12 a $13 per bbl. Lard is steady at 10 1-2 a 11c for barrels, and 12 a 12 1-2c for kegs; Hams are quick at 12 1-2 a 13c, sales of 300 casks for export, 4 ms. Butter and Cheese unchanged. The demand is fair.

EFFECTS OF WEALTH ON DISEASE.—Under this caption, the "People's Medical Lighthouse" (page 295) enters into quite a lengthy and argumentative dissertation upon the advantages of wealth for the promotion of the health and the longevity of the human family. The writer does not consider "poverty a blessing," and gives some pretty strong reasons for not thinking so. Every person who peruses the article cannot but admit that Dr. Root carries his point, notwitstanding that it is contrary to received opinions.—Boston Mail.

H. K. ROOT, A.M., M.D.

HAS ARRIVED

AT THE FRANKLIN HOUSE,

WHERE he will remain until FRIDAY morning, the 25th.

Consumption not Fatal if properly treated.

DR. H. K. ROOT, the celebrated Lung and Consumption Physician, author of the 'People's Medical Lighthouse,' inventor of the infallible Lung Barometer, from 512 Broadway, N. Y., invites the attention of the sick and afflicted, laboring under any of the various forms of disease, such as Coughs, Ulcerated or Tuberculous Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Pain in the Chest, Shoulders, Sides or Back, Bleeding Lungs, Chronic Catarrh, Night Sweats, Nervous Complaints, Palpitation, Ossification or Dropsy of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Chronic Diarrhœa, Incidental Weakness peculiar to Females, Cancers, Tumors, Scrofulous Affections, Deafness, Insanity, Fits, Paralysis, Spinal Deformity, Gravel, Fistula, Costiveness, and all Cutaneous Eruptions, and poisonous Innoculations and Humors of the Blood. He does not make sick to make well, nor tear down to build up; but persons under his care can pursue their regular business, while the work of cleansing and purifying the system is going on. His theory is, that all diseases arises directly or indirectly from an impure state of the blood. The language of scripture is—

"The life of the flesh is the blood thereof."—Gen. lx: 4.

"For the BLOOD is the LIFE."—Deut. xii: 21.

"For the LIFE of the flesh is the BLOOD."—Levit. xvii: 11.

And he also believes that the remedies furnished by nature are the only ones which can produce a speedy and permanent cure. There never was a disease but had its VEGETABLE antidote. And in this opinion he is sustained by scripture—

David said—"Purge me with hyssop and I shall be made clean."—Psalms li: 7.

Paul said—"The weak eateth herbs."—Rom. xiv: 2.

St. John said—"The leaves of the tree were for healing of the nations."—Rev. xxii: 2.

Dr. Root is not a believer in the "one cure alls." As well might a locksmith make a key to fit all varieties of locks, or the druggist compound all his medicines in one, and use it for all complaints.

The sick wishing to avail themselves of skill and experience in the healing art, are invited to call at the Franklin House.

LYON'S KATHAIRON,

For Preserving, Restoring & Beautifying the Hair,

CAUSING it to grow luxuriantly, and giving it a soft and curling appearance, of the most delightful character. The KATHAIRON neutralises the effects of disease, climate, and old age, in preserving and restoring the Human Hair, even after a Baldness of many years,—cleanses the scalp from Dandruff, and its natural impurities,—immediately relieves sympathetic attacks of Nervous Headache, and cures all cutaneous diseases of the skin, such as Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Itch, &c.

AS A TOILET ARTICLE,

For giving the Hair a rich, soft, glossy and curling appearance, nothing has been discovered to compare with its incontested—its incontestible virtues. It imparts the fragrance of the most delightful and exotic flowers, and is free from all mineral properties, or any substance which can color the skin, or stain a lady's hat.

FOR BALD OR GREY HEADS

It is pre-eminently beneficial. "The Kathairon restored my hair after a baldness of 12 years. A. J. COURTRIGHT, 76 Bond-st. N.Y." This admirable preparation can be had of all reputable dealers, throughout North and South America, and the Islands of the Ocean, in large bottles, for 25 cents.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IN 1846 the subscriber was appointed Agent of the United States Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th section of the Act of 1837.

Having relinquished the agency for the transmission of models, and adopting a more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, whereby a Patent can be obtained several weeks sooner, he continues to forward them, as before, free of expense, and to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe.

The subscriber aims to present to inventors superior facilities for obtaining patents; and is now prepared to make Specifications at rates cheaper by ten to twenty per cent. than those of other agencies. They can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

Thermometers.

IT is known to more scientific men in this country, that the late Thomas Kendall discovered a process, by which the graduation of the Thermometer scales may be made accurately to correspond with variations, which unavoidably exist in the calibre of the tube; thus overcoming what has been considered the insurmountable obstacle to the construction of a perfect Thermometer.

Profs. Silliman and Fisher, Yale College, (see Journal of Science and Arts, vol. 4, p 398,) and other scientific gentlemen, having examined this process, concur in saying that it is correct on mathematical and philosophical principles, and the only known way by which the difficulty referred to can be obviated.

This method has not been disclosed to other manufacturers of Thermometers, neither is it known to be in their possession. These Thermometers, therefore, are the only ones which can be relied upon for entire accuracy.

The subscriber has just received a lot of these Thermometers direct from the manufacturer and made expressly for his order, of various sizes and mountings, for the parlor or out of door use.

Also, a few Papier Mache Mantle Thermometers

RAILROADS AND TRADE.

A good editorial article, in the Biddeford Eastern Journal, aims to stir up the citizens of Biddeford and Saco, and impress upon them the idea that the Portsmouth, Great Falls and Conway Railroad, will render the Saco River Railroad of little consequence.—The Biddeford paper says:

The immense Mountain travel in the summer, and the great amount of freight that the Iron Mountain in Jackson and Bartlett would afford a road running in its neighborhood, the Portsmouth people are endeavoring to secure by stretching the Great Falls and Conway Road on to Conway, it now running to Milton, and partially graded to Wakefield, and building a connecting link from the Somersworth Junction to the Eastern Road somewhere in Eliot. Large meetings have been held, in aid of this enterprise. * * * *

The Ice trade, is growing into a very large and profitable business. A railroad by our river side, might take any quantity in the winter months, unloading it from our wharves directly into the vessels that would float it to the markets of the world—and every where, as the pure chrystal ice from the waters of the White Mountains, it would secure the first sale.

One or two facts on the subject of the ice trade here, may be worthy of mention in this place. While we have cold weather enough to freeze ice of a good quality and thickness in our ponds, we have a harbor which never closes, even in the severest weather.

Ice is not the only article of traffic or freight properly belonging to the road and its outlet. Timber, granite, and iron ore, abound on the route. We hope to see the Great Falls Railroad built and in operation shortly, persuaded as we are, that a great amount of business would be carried on by its means, for the benefit of this city and of the country through which it is to pass.

SHIP BURNT AT SEA.

The clipper ship Golden Light, Capt. Windsor, which sailed from Boston, Feb. 12, for San Francisco. She was struck by lightning on night of Feb. 22d, at nine o'clock, in latitude 22 23, longitude 47 49. After every exertion to save the ship through the night and the day of 23d, all were driven to the boats at 6 P. M., the crew and passengers leaving the ship completely in flames forward. At ten o'clock, the foremast burnt off and fell, and at half-past ten the main and mizen-masts went. The last seen of the ship was at half-past twelve, at which time she was nearly consumed.

The boats, five in number, with plenty of provisions and water, were directed to steer southwest, and to keep company, if possible. Three of the boats had compasses, and those without them were directed to follow the others. On the morning of the 24th, one boat was discovered to have parted company, and on the fourth night after leaving the ship, another boat also parted company.

After five days' exposure in open boats, the three boats which kept together were picked up by the British ship Shand, Capt. Christie, whose kindness and hospitality, with those of his wife, officers, and crew, will be gratefully remembered by those whom he had the good fortune to rescue. The Shand arrived at Boston on Sunday.

Much anxiety is felt for the persons (fifteen) in the missing boats—as they were not supplied with compasses. It is hoped, however, that they were picked up by some passing vessel.

The Golden Light had a valuable cargo on board, which, with her own value, reached $300,000. She was owned by James Huckins, Esq., of Boston, and fully insured there.

The Golden Light was among the most splendid of the clipper fleet, and was built by the Messrs. Briggs, South Boston, and launched last January. Her tonnage was 1140 50-95ths.

It is stated that the various expeditions that have been fitted out within the last five years, for the discovery of Sir John Franklin, have cost an aggregate of £758,466. Nearly eight years have elapsed without tidings from the missing voyager. No less than fifteen expeditions in all, consisting of thirty vessels, besides boats, have been engaged in the pursuit, and the effort is still continued.

Florida has a white population of less than fifty thousand—smaller than any other of the thirty-one States—yet St. Augustine is the oldest town in the United States, having been founded in 1564.

The population of Italy is three millions greater than that of the United States.

One of the most interesting relics in Philadelphia may be seen in North Second street, viz; the first lightning rod erected by Dr. Franklin, which still stretches its attenuated fingers towards the heavens.

John Dickey, U. S. marshal for western Pennsylvania, who died at Beaver, of apoplexy, on the 14th, had just settled all his official affairs in expectation of removal from his office.

FROM ENGLAND

The steamer Canada arrived at Boston, on Sunday, bringing her own news which refused to travel over the wires between Halifax and Boston.

The London Shipping Gazette of March 4 says:—

The firm of D. & C. Maciver, of Liverpool, have already provided the steamship accommodation to Boston and Portland for goods destined to be forwarded to Canada by Rail way. Our ship owners should be on the alert, and be prepared for the pending revolution in the Canadian transit trade. The last screw steamer took out 750 tons of fine goods for Canada, via. Boston; and from the report of the master of the American ship Cheshire, it appears this vessel is also loaded with fine goods for Canada.

ENGLAND.—In the English House of Lords, on the 4th, the following ensued:—

Lord Aberdeen stated that no communication had passed between this government and Austria, or any other European power, with respect to the asylum afforded to foreign refugees in England.

Lord John Russell took a view of the dangerous consequences which would result from the dismemberment of Turkey. He sees that such an event would produce a general war throughout Europe.

FRANCE.—It is generally believed in the best informed circles of Paris, that the Legislative Assembly will be abolished by the Emperor at no distant day. Already the much vaunted value of the services of the Council of State, especially in financial matters, are looked upon as the note preparatory to this step, by which the last remnant of a parliamentary government will disappear.

TURKEY.—The war in Montenegro is ended, Omar Pasha having received orders to suspend hostilities. The Montenegrins however have been very active, and had assembled quite a large army.

The duchess of Sutherland places Stafford House at the disposal of Mrs. Stowe to give receptions in land Earls Shaftesbury, Carlisle, &c., will meet her at Liverpool. An address, with 40,000 women of England's signatures, will arrive by next steamship.

The gale of the 26th Feb. had caused many shipwrecks and great loss of life on the English coast.

Mazzini had written a letter from his place of concealment, stating that Kossuth's proclamation was genuine, as he had the original manuscript in his possession, and that it was written at his (Mazzini's) request, for the express purpose of being published in case of an insurrectionary movement in Italy. Mazzini regrets the result of the outbreak, but does not disapprove of it. Kossuth publishes another letter in reply, in which he says the proclamation is not his, from the fact that seven paragraphs of the original are omitted in the one printed.

Australia accounts to the 6th of December have been received. Less gold arrived at Melbourne than during the previous week or two, the miners being out exploring. Provisions are lower, but still dear. Crews easier obtained. Immigration undiminished. The Great Britain steamer arrived out safely.

DAVID FRANCIS, of the firm Munroe & Francis, died in Boston on Sunday night, aged 73. He was an excellent printer and an estimable man: a member and secretary of the Mechanic Association; and a member and treasurer of Chauncy Place Church.

SPURIOUS DRUGS.—We notice in the "People's Medical Lighthouse" that the "Examiner," appointed under the act of Congress for the prevention of the importation of adulterated and spurious drugs and medicines, reported "that during ten months ending with April 1849, about 90,000 pounds of various kinds of drugs were rejected and refused admittance at that port alone." Now it is fair to presume that where five pounds of spurious drugs are detected, at least twice the quantity escapes the vigilance of the Examiner, and finds its way into the apothecary stores of this country; and if this hypothesis be correct, invalids who are making use of these articles, can see how surely they are working out their own destruction. Mineral medicines are deadly enough in their effects upon the system without being made still more deleterious by a wicked adulteration; and we know of no better way to escape imposition, than to let mineral medicines of whatever name, entirely alone. There are vegetable remedies enough already discovered, to heal all diseases which are susceptible of cure, and by applying to proper persons they can be procured. One great secret of Dr. Root's success lies in the fact that he never, in however aggravated a case, administers minerals, and the foreign herbs which he uses are of his own importation. The result of the practice of the most successful allopathist poorly compare with that of Dr. R.'s, and this is in our opinion, wholly attributable to the pure, unadulterated vegetable medicines which the latter takes pains to obtain and deal out to his patients. It is a humiliating reflection that there are druggists or medical men in the world so overcome with fiendish avarice as to allow themselves to practice a deception which perils the lives of thousands of their fellow beings. But such is the fact. The "People's Medical Lighthouse" contains many things which will be apt to open the eyes of the community. We would advise all to read it.—Boston Daily Mail.

A correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer says that when Talleyrand was in that city, at the close of the last century, he resided in an obscure court, and all his furniture consisted of one chair and a straw cot-bed. One cold morning in December he entered the store of a Frenchman, and wished to pawn his watch, as he was starving, and without fire. It was but a short time after this when Talleyrand became prime minister to Napoleon, and kings were glad to do him homage.

It appears that Spring, the Philadelphia murderer, is the same person who was convicted with Mrs. Snow of the murder of her husband in Newfoundland in 1833. She was hanged and Spring was reprieved.

A mistake; it was another man named Spring.

It is expected that the Court will sit four weeks.

"AN EAGLE, A POKER, AND A LAMP."—The liberty pole in Water street, has on the top of it an Eagle perched on the top of a cap, and the lightning rod is attached to them. As I was walking by this pole in company with my little girl, she said, "An Eagle, a Poker, and a Lamp." Thus her construction of the uses of two of the objects is different from the original design, and although it was erroneous, I reflected that it was not wholly inappropriate when we consider the circumstances that have attended the development of the idea embodied in the original design. Taking these into view, we may apply the child's construction thus, viz:—The eagle is emblematic of the success of the first effort to establish the principles of Independence, &c.; the poker* of the poking which befel those who opposed, &c.; the lamp of that light of wisdom, truth and justice by which alone our people have been directed into whatever ways of right they have thus far walked, and by following the guidance of which, alone, shall they in time to come, realize the great blessings of their inheritance.

*The use of the coal poker as an instrument of chastisement, was, I believe, unknown to the men of '76.

☞ Dr. H. K. Root, was unavoidably detained in Newburyport over the Sabbath, but arrived here on the first train yesterday. We would remind our readers that he will remain in Portsmouth only till Friday morning.

FREE LECTURE.—Dr. H. K. ROOT, the author of the "People's Medical Lighthouse," will give a free lecture on the uses and diseases of the lungs, heart, liver, &c., at the Cameneum this evening at 7 1-2 o'clock. The lecture will no doubt be exceedingly entertaining, and we would urge our readers to attend.

A BOOK WORTH HAVING.—B. P. Shillaber, Esq., the very popular editor of the "Carpet Bag," will soon publish a volume containing his poems, and other miscellaneous productions of his pen, which have appeared in different periodicals within a few years.

The women employed in the large tobacco manufactory at Marseilles, 1200 in number, all left their work a few days since, in consequence of an order having been given that they should in future use a knife instead of a pair of scissors in cutting the ends of the cigars. It was found necessary to call in the armed force to quell the riot, but the women have not since resumed their work.

JENNY LIND.—The New York Courier and Enquirer says:

"We learn directly, and from the very best authority, that the family difficulties which were recently said to have determined Mad. Goldschmidt to return to this country, do not exist in the least degree; and that there is no present prospect of our hearing her again from any cause whatever."

The Collector of New York, before he can be appointed, is obliged to give approved security for one million of dollars. The Mirror says some of the applicants could not get security for a tenth part of that amount.

Some patriotic Manufacturer has lately produced cards having Washington, Adams, Franklin and Lafayette for the four kings; Venus, Fortune, Ceres and Minerva, for the four queens, and four Indian chiefs for the four knaves—as curious a family party as one may meet in a long summer's day.

At a funeral of an aged and faithful slave, which recently took place at Lynchburg, Va., five hundred colored persons attended. Nearly all of those were slaves who had been released from labor by their masters in order that they might pay the last tribute of respect to fidelity, honesty, and duty well discharged. In the procession there were also some dozen private carriages of the citizens, sent by their owners as a token of their respect to fidelity, however humble may have been the occupation in which it was exhibited.

THE "WHITE SLAVES" OF ENGLAND.—The tenantry of the Duke of Devonshire lately begged his Grace to sit for his portrait, and after a modest demur, have obtained his consent. At their request his Grace has named the artist—the gentleman chosen being Sir Edward Landseer. An engraving is to be taken from the portrait, "so that," to use the words of the tenantry, "each one may possess a likeness of a nobleman who will ever live in the heart of his tenantry, and in the recollection of every well-wisher of his country."

Health and Strength.

SPRING is the proper time of the year to purify the Blood, by taking Medicinal Bitters. We are ever taking sweet food into the stomach, forgetting that the system demands a proper amount of Bitter to counteract the sweet. Among the many articles in the market, none have proved better or of more efficacy than the following:
Dr. S. O. Richardson's Sherry Wine Bitters;
Dr. Pierce's Indian Restorative Bitters;
Dr. Langley's Root & Herb Bitters;
Dr. Atwood's Vegetable Jaundice Bitters

These Bitters are purely medicinal; and are not made for any other object and any person purchasing of the subscriber who is not satisfied, shall have the money returned

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

FROM CARDENAS.—New York, March 21.—Advices from Cardenas, of March 10, state that matters there are quiet and orderly. The burnt district is being rebuilt with great rapidity, with massive buildings of stone and brick, the Governor having prohibited the erection of wooden structures. H. K. ROOT, A.M., M.D.

HAS ARRIVED

AT THE FRANKLIN HOUSE,

WHERE he will remain until FRIDAY morning, the 25th.

Consumption not Fatal if properly treated.

DR. H. K. ROOT, the celebrated Lung and Consumption Physician, author of the 'People's Medical Lighthouse,' inventor of the Infallible Lung Barometer, from 512 Broadway, N. Y., invites the attention of the sick and afflicted, laboring under any of the various forms of disease, such as Coughs, Ulcerated or Tuberculous Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Pain in the Chest, Shoulders, Sides or Back, Bleeding Lungs, Chronic Catarrh, Night Sweats, Nervous Complaints, Palpitation, Ossification or Dropsy of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Chronic Diarrhœa, Incidental Weakness peculiar to Females, Cancers, Tumors, Scrofulous Affections, Deafness, Insanity, Fits, Paralysis, Spinal Deformity, Gravel, Fistula, Costiveness, and all Cutaneous Eruptions, and poisonous Innoculations and Humors of the Blood. He does not make sick to make well, nor tear down to build up; but persons under his care can pursue their regular business, while the work of cleansing and purifying the system is going on. His theory is, that all diseases arises directly or indirectly from an impure state of the blood. The language of scripture is—

"The life of the flesh is the blood thereof."—Gen. ix: 4.

"For the BLOOD is the LIFE."—Deut. xii: 21.

"For the LIFE of the flesh is the BLOOD."—Levit. xvii: 11.

And he also believes that the remedies furnished by nature are the only ones which can produce a speedy and permanent cure. There never was a disease but had its VEGETABLE antidote. And in this opinion he is sustained by scripture—

David said—"Purge me with hyssop and I shall be made clean."—Psalms li: 7.

Paul said—"The weak eateth herbs."—Rom. xiv: 2.

St. John said—"The leaves of the tree were for healing of the nations."—Rev. xxii: 2.

DR. ROOT is not a believer in the "one cure alls." As well might a locksmith make a key to fit all varieties of locks, or the druggist compound all his medicines in one, and use it for all complaints.

The sick wishing to avail themselves of his skill and experience in the healing art, are invited to call at the Franklin House.

LYON'S KATHAIRON,

For Preserving, Restoring & Beautifying the Hair.

CAUSING it to grow luxuriantly, and giving it a soft and curling appearance, of the most delightful character. The KATHAIRON neutralises the effects of disease, climate, and old age, in preserving and restoring the Human Hair, even after a Baldness of many years,—cleanses the scalp from Dandruff, and its natural impurities,—immediately relieves sympathetic attacks of Nervous Headache, and cures all cutaneous diseases of the skin, such as Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Itch, &c.

AS A TOILET ARTICLE,

For giving the Hair a rich, soft, glossy and curling appearance, nothing has been discovered to compare with its incontested—its incontestible virtues. It imparts the fragrance of the most delightful and exotic flowers, and is free from all mineral properties, or any substance which can color the skin, or stain a lady's hat.

FOR BALD OR GREY HEADS

It is pre-eminently beneficial. "The Kathairon restored my hair after a baldness of 12 years.—A. J. COURTRIGHT, 76 Bond-st. N.Y." This admirable preparation can be had of all reputable dealers, throughout North and South America, and the Islands of the Ocean, in large bottles, for 25 cents.

With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.
IN 1840 the subscriber was appointed Agent of the United States Patent office, in accordance with the 10th section of the Act of 1837.
Having relinquished the agency for the transmission of models, and adopting a more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, whereby a Patent can be procured several weeks earlier, he continues to forward them, as before, free of expense, and to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe.
The subscriber aims to present to inventors superior facilities for obtaining patents; and is now prepared to make Specifications at rates cheaper by ten to twenty per cent than those of other agencies. They can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.
R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.
"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."
"PATENT OFFICE, ——
"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.
"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agent. I am very respectfully,
Yours, &c. THOMAS EWBANK,
Commissioner of Patents."

THE POOR STRANGER.

How these words arrest the eye and touch the heart. It is well known that a man fell from the Washington Monument on the day of Gen. Pierce's Inauguration as President, and was found dead.

The National Intelligencer of the 7th, says, "the poor stranger, whose dead body, dreadfully impaled by his fall from the height of the Washington Monument upon a projecting portion of the car used in hoisting stone within the Monument, lay exposed from Friday morning to Saturday afternoon for identification, was committed to the earth on the evening of the latter day. He could not be recognized. It is supposed that he entered the interior of the shaft of the Monument, from the western door, about dawn on Friday morning, and having clambered up the ladders to the top, missed his footing in his attempt to return, and fell to the bottom of the shaft. In his pockets were found a few cabbage leaves and some pokeberries, but no money. No letter, paper, or matter of any kind was found upon him, that could lead to his identification or place of residence. The coroner's jury gave a verdict in accordance with these facts."

This brief, but sad narrative suggests thoughts of loneliness, destitution, sudden death, and burial by strangers. And these in turn suggest others, of this kind: this lonely victim, this penniless stranger, was no less the creature and the care of Him who heeds the sparrow's fall, than was the hero of that day, who entered then upon his Presidential career and was apparently at the high noon of good fortune. The elevation of the one and the death of the other, are alike the effects of second causes, and both are also alike under the care and control of that all pervading Providence and Power, which made and sustains all things—and in whose sight no man is so great as not to need his care, or so small as to be unworthy of it.

MURDER BY A MAN ASLEEP.—The Cincinnati Gazette of the 10th of March, tells the following sad story of carelessness and death. The locomotive of a stock freight train going east, became so crippled near Huntington, that the conductor was unable to proceed. He sent signal men east and west to warn approaching trains. There were two passenger cars attached to his train, one of which was nearly filled, and the other empty. The messenger sent west, fell asleep in the watchhouse, and while he slept, the express train from the west passed down at a speed of forty miles an hour, and struck the freight train with fearful force. The locomotive run through the empty passenger car, breaking it up as if it were frostwork; and threw the next car, with passengers, some of them asleep, back over the stovepipe and boiler, breaking the car and bursting the flues of the locomotive, so that the steam rushed up and scalded the sufferers who were piled in the ruins above. A woman and her child and two men were killed—the men and child instantly. The woman expired upon being removed from the wreck, one of her hands being cut off and her person badly burnt.

CAUSES OF CRIME.—The legislature of Massachusetts, last week, by committee, gave a hearing to arguments against the liquor law, made by Rev. Mr. Lovejoy of Cambridge—and also to arguments in its favor, made by Rev. John Pierpont.

After they had spoken, Hon. John C. Park, District Attorney for Suffolk, asked leave to state in few words what he had found from his own experience was necessary to have, an effective liquor law. He said it was impossible for a man to observe the proceedings of the Court in which he practiced, and not be convinced that four-fifths of the crime there investigated originate in the tippling shops of our city. They are the worst nuisances to be found in the city—and the law as it now stands is ineffectual to shut them up. The great difficulty now is, to get evidence on which to convict the keepers. They are all kept in concealed places, and the watchmen or policemen have no right to enter by force. Give us a law similar to the gambling law, by which an officer on the oath of one citizen that he believes liquor is sold in one of these tippling shops, can be armed with a warrant authorized to force an entrance, if necessary, into these shops, and there seize the implements of the traffic, and bring them to court as proof of the guilt—give such a law, and it can be enforced in Boston; and the liquor shops can be closed. Bills would be found against them, and the juries would convict under such a law. And by breaking up the retail establishments the wholesalers would be deprived of a market for their liquors, and would soon ship them to some other place. Such a law as he had named—a law of two or three sentences, he thought would be effectual to rid the city of its greatest nuisance—the tippling shops.

THE SPOILS.

To contend with opponents for prizes in the shape of good fat offices, is very exciting; and to contend with rivals for the adjustment of these offices, is scarcely less so. Accordingly, at this moment the appointments and disappointments at Washington, are among the most interesting items of floating news.

The Collector of Boston has been appointed from Concord, N. H.: and this appointment has been made the theme of much comment, chiefly, as yet, from whig papers. One of these, the Boston Journal, says,

"The appointment of a New Hampshire lawyer to the Collectorship of Boston, is openly denounced by some of the Democracy, even of the national wing, as a nomination not fit to be made. The policy of filling an office of such importance by an appointment from another State may well be questioned."

On this item, the Concord Capital Reporter, an able Democratic paper, remarks:

It does not appear from the above that there is any objection to Gen. Peaslee on the score of capacity, integrity, or fitness to discharge the duties of the office to which he has been appointed, promptly and correctly—but simply that he is a New Hampshireman. The impropriety consists in the appointment of a New Hampshire man to the Boston Custom House—and the inference is, that all the U. S. offices, whose duties are discharged in Boston, belong exclusively to Boston men.

We dissent from this opinion entirely.—Boston is as much the port town of New Hampshire as it is of Massachusetts. The merchandize consumed here is all imported through the Boston Custom House, and the U. S. Custom House offices there belong as much to New Hampshire as to Massachusetts, and we trust that Gen. Peaslee will take care that of the subordinate places, New Hampshire shall receive her full proportion.

There is another reason that ought not to be lost sight of. New Hampshire has always given her vote to every democratic President; Massachusetts has never given an electoral vote to any democratic President for half a century. That may not be the fault of the Massachusetts democracy—but their misfortune—but it is such a misfortune, as the perseverance and intelligence of our democracy would overcome.

In New Hampshire there are no U. S. offices scarcely worth having—and it would be hardly fair to exclude them from places in other States. New Hampshire is certainly deserving of something on the score of patriotism and devotion to the country, and her steady and consistent support of democratic principles; and we do not believe President Pierce will be deterred from doing ample justice to her citizens, in consequence of any clamor which may be raised by the opposition press in any quarter.

We take no part in this controversy, pro or con: but deem Col. Barton, editor of the Reporter, to be about as good an exponent of Pres. Pierce's policy in distributing the spoils of victory, as any man that could be named. The two have acted together in such matters in New Hampshire; and may therefore be supposed to understand each other's views.

The policy brought to view in the article, is, that the democrats of New Hampshire are to be rewarded by offices, for their success in being a majority in the state, while those of Massachusetts, are to be—not punished exactly, but passed by, for their fault or misfortune, in never giving a democratic electoral vote from that state.

"The good time" has come in New Hampshire—and we shall find no fault whatever with political adventurers here, who have a turn that way, for endeavoring to make the most of it. It is obvious, however, that every body cannot be an officer. Some must continue to row the long-boat.

FRACTIONAL BILLS.—The Boston Daily Advertiser understands that "fractional bills are not received at the Suffolk Bank."

From this we infer that some of the Banks in New England, probably in Rhode Island, have begun to supply the want of change in this way. We hope our own legislature will give some of the Banks in New Hampshire an opportunity to do a similar favor for this community.

"THE PEOPLE'S MEDICAL LIGHTHOUSE, BY H. K. ROOT, A. M., M. D."—This is the title of an elegantly printed work of 496 pages, neatly illustrated with between sixty and seventy wood engravings. It is a faithful treatise on Pulmonic Diseases, and also claims much merit as a physiological work. It also treats with great minuteness upon the thousand other ills to which all are subject, and gives many important hints on the best method of treatment. The author speaks plainly and originally on the various subjects contained in the work, and makes many suggestions which, if regarded by the reader, would result in his or her benefit. Mr. Coggeshall, the canvassing agent, will call upon our citizens this week. Copies can also be procured of the doctor, who is now at the Franklin House. Price $2.

The telegraph brings a new batch of confirmations by the Senate of National officers. Among others is Thomas J. Parsons of Rye, Collector at Portsmouth, and Nathaniel J. Towle, Collector at Saco.—Newburyport Herald.

LOCAL.

ORGANIZATION OF THE CITY GOVERNMENT.

The members elect of the Common Council, met in the Court Room in this city, on Tuesday, March 22, at 10 o'clock A. M.; and the Aldermen elect assembled in the Jury Room of the Court House at the same hour.

COMMON COUNCIL.

The Common Council was temporarily organized by calling I. Bartlett Claggett, Esq., to the chair—Mr. J. W. Fernald acting as clerk.

All the members were present, viz.: Messrs.

Andrew D. Gerrish,	Samuel Rowe,
Jabez Dodge,	Joseph P. Trefethen,
Joseph G. Todd,	William Rand,
William Tucker,	Alfred W. Haven,
Charles W. Brewster,	I. Bartlett Claggett,
John Trundy,	Thomas Martin,
Wm. H. Y. Hackett,	John Knowlton, 2d,
John T. Dame,	Thos. J. Whittem,
Enoch Bartlett,	Littleton M. Laighton,
Stephen D. Scriggins,	Edward J. Laighton,
and Isaac F. Nelson.

Mr. Rowe moved that the members present proceed to take the oaths of office before some justice of the peace.

Mr. Hackett moved to amend, by inserting a provision to call on the Mayor for that purpose.

On these propositions a debate sprung up, which was closed by a vote to call in the Mayor to administer the oaths.

Mr. Rowe offered a motion allowing those who did not wish to be sworn by the Mayor to retire and go before a justice. This motion was not put, as Mr. Haven suggested that any member had that right, without a vote.

In Convention.

The Mayor and Aldermen here entered the Court Room.

The full board were present, viz.: Aldermen

James Ayers,	Augustus Jenkins,
John Knowlton,	Edmund M. Brown,
Charles J. Colcord,	John Dame, and Joshua Stackpole;

and Mayor Toppan presiding.

The Aldermen were then all sworn in by the Mayor, as their credentials had been previously presented in their own board.

All the Common Councillors presented their certificates of election, except Mr. Rowe, and all but he were then sworn in by the Mayor. Mr. Rowe left his seat. The Convention rose, and the Mayor and Aldermen left.

COMMON COUNCIL.—It was moved to ballot for a president; but Mr. Hackett objected, as Mr. Rowe was absent to be qualified elsewhere. On his return, having taken the oath, Mr. Hackett moved that his credentials be filed with the others; which was agreed to, and on motion the Council proceeded to ballot for a president.

Whole number of votes, 20, of which Samuel Rowe had 9, Charles W. Brewster 9, and there were 2 scattering.

On the second ballot, there were 19 votes, of which Mr. Brewster had 8, and Samuel Rowe 11, and was elected.

Mr. Rowe took the chair, and made a brief speech: and the Council proceeded to ballot for a clerk.

Ballotings.	1st	2d	3d	4th	5th	6th
Whole number of votes	20	20	21	21	21	21
Necessary to a choice	11	11	11	11	11	11
John W. Fernald	10	10	10	10	10	11
Charles E. Blake	9	8	10	8	9	5
Scattering	1	2	1	3	2	5

One vote was thrown, on two or three of the ballotings, which the president declared as John N. Fernald.

Mr. John W. Fernald was thus chosen clerk on the 6th ballot, and took his place, thanking the Council for his re-election

Resolutions were then passed, to adopt the old rules and joint rules, until new ones shall be made; to inform the Aldermen that the Council were organised; and to inform the same that the Council were ready to meet them in Convention to elect a City Clerk and Mayor.

An answer was received that the Mayor and Aldermen concur.

In Convention.

The Mayor and Aldermen entered, and President Rowe took his seat beside his honor the Mayor.

The Convention balloted for City Clerk; when 27 votes were cast, of which John Bennet received 19; and was re-elected, and immediately qualified.

The Mayor then called for ballots for Mayor, announcing that as there was no choice by the people, the choice of the Convention was limited to the two highest candidates, viz., Richard Jenness, and Horton D. Walker.

Alderman Jenkins called for the records, as he had no official knowledge that there was a vacancy; whereupon the records were read by the Mayor. The ballot was then taken for Mayor: whole number 28: Richard Jenness had 14, and Horton D. Walker 14; whereupon Mayor Toppan, (just at noon, while the Old South dinner bell was ringing) threw his casting vote for Horton D. Walker, and declared him to be elected Mayor for the ensuing year.

Alderman Jenkins protested against this action, and made an argumentative speech in favor of his views.

At the close of Alderman Jenkins' remarks, Mr. Hackett made enquiry whether he had any motion to offer, and being answered in the negative, moved that the Convention rise,—which was agreed to.

COMMON COUNCIL.—A joint resolution was passed, raising a committee to inform Mr. Walker of his election; and Messrs. Hackett and Nelson were appointed.

This resolution was concurred in by the Aldermen, and Aldermen Knowlton and Brown were appointed.

Both boards adjourned to meet on Thursday evening.

THE FAIR! WHAT SHALL PORTSMOUTH DO?

We were glad to see a notice in your columns last week respecting the Rockingham Fair, a society formed for the improvement of agriculture, horticulture and mechanical arts in the county. While other places are going ahead in these matters, assisting, stimulating and sympathising with each other, Rockingham has exhibited a "masterly inactivity." But the formation of this society shows that enterprising spirits are up and doing, and we hope a hearty interest in the subject will be aroused throughout the county, and that our own citizens will do their part in the good work.

Well—what shall we do? Pay a subscription. Money is needed. We can do that.

What next? Contribute from our farms, our gardens, our workshops, or our kitchen cabinets. Cannot our horticultural society transfer its exhibition of fruit, if not of flowers, to the Fair, and thus excite a healthy emulation among gardens and orchards? If the big cabbages which were seen around Mr. Clark's premises last Autumn could have been allowed to visit the Fair, we doubt not that they would have kindled a growing spirit among all their fellows.

Portsmouth too has not been lacking in inventive genius, even since the improvements in weaving stockings, made by Mr. Pepper. We hope the mechanic arts will not be backward on this occasion. Where is that new style of clothes-pins exhibited a few months ago at a store in Market street?

We understand that the co-operation of the wives and daughters of the county is particularly desired, and that prizes are to be offered for the best loaves of bread. Will not the ladies of Portsmouth come forward and try their skill in the bread-making business? There are, we know, some superior specimens of needle work in town in the way of quilts, screens, &c., which, added to something equally fine in darning and mending, will show no common excellence and industry in sewing-craft. Let our daughters exhibit a happy blending of the useful with the ornamental.

And how is it with the children—are they to "put in" at the Fair? Are the boys to exhibit models of their ingenuity—ships, carts, steam-engines?—are offerings from the little girls to be received? if so, there are stitches made by a little girl four years old in town, which it would delight all careful mothers to behold.

Let us all take a hearty and patriotic interest in the Rockingham Fair—those of us who remember the old "cattle show" held at Exeter twenty five years ago, will be very glad of an opportunity of renewing our youth and our interest with this improved edition of the same subject after so many years of neglect and abandonment. When is it to be held and where? K.

DR. H. K. ROOT's lecture was well attended last evening, at the Cameneum. He gives a lecture this evening expressly for married ladies as will be observed by adv. Tickets 12 1-2 cts.

IMPORTANT DECISION.—W. C. Clarke, Judge of Probate for this county, has recently decided that the investment of a ward's funds in a new railroad enterprise is not the exercise of a sound discretion, and that the guardian is liable for the money and interest.—Nashua Telegraph.

Rev. Mr. Waterston, of Boston, has accepted an invitation to the pastorate of the Unitarian Church, in Augusta, Me., for a limited time. His engagement is for three months, to commence on the 20th of April next.

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

OFFICIAL NOMINATIONS.

Washington, March 22.—The Hon. N. G. Upham, of Concord, late Judge of the Superior Court of New Hampshire, has been nominated as a member of the joint American and British Commission under the late treaty.—The Commission is to sit in London for one year from the commencement of its session, and will embrace within its powers all questions which have arisen since 1814.

A. Dudley Mann has been nominated as Assistant Secretary of State. George Sumner, brother of the Senator, was selected by the President and Secretary Marcy, to accept the office, but he peremptorily declined.

Wm. Tyler, brother of the ex-President, has been tendered the office of Naval Storekeeper at Washington.

Mr. Moneypenny, of Ohio, will be appointed First Assistant Postmaster General.

Mr Campbell, of Mobile, has been nominated for Justice of the Supreme Court.

Mr. Goodhue has been nominated for Postmaster of Lowell, in place of Hildreth, declined.

There is to be an entire re-organization of the Census office. The new Superintendent has disbanded the entire body of clerks, 140 in number, and retained 6.

Judge Mason, of Iowa, will undoubtedly receive the appointment of Commissioner of Patents.

Conrad Swackhamer will be nominated for Navy Agent of New York.

R. A. Hammond, formerly of Maryland, has been nominated for Collector of San Francisco, and Mr. Monroe of Kentucky, for Judge of the new territory of Washington.

LATER FROM MEXICO.

New York, March 22.—Additional news from Mexico states that 23 States have voted for Santa Anna.

General Arista remains on his farm. Permission to leave the country has been refused him.

The authorities of Vera Cruz have finally recognized General Lombardine as Provisional President.

It is rumored at Vera Cruz that in consequence of some disagreement with the President, Signor Ledo has been placed under arrest.

SUNDAY NIGHT MAILS.—Two instances have occurred within the last eight days, which show conclusively the great benefit of the new Sunday night mail between Boston and New York. Last week the Africa arrived at New York on Sunday afternoon, and her letters and papers for Boston were received here on Monday morning, for the purposes of business, a whole day in advance of the time which would have been made under the old system. Yesterday, the Canada reached her dock in East Boston at 7 o'clock in the evening, and Postmaster Gordon, by detaining the train for about twenty minutes, was enabled to forward the mails for New York and the South, as well as eleven large bags of papers and letters from Europe for California. These, if no accident happens, will arrive at New York in season for the California mail steamer which sails to-day, whereas, but for the Sunday night trains, they would have been detained on this side of the continent for fifteen days longer.—Courier, 21st.

THE SUNDAY MAIL.—A large meeting was held in the Common Council Chamber at New Haven, on Thursday evening, "to devise such measures as they may deem the most efficient for resisting the recent establishment of a Sunday mail train between Boston and New York, and to report on next Thursday evening, March 24th."

FIGHT ON SUNDAY.—Three young men in an intoxicated condition, got into a fight near the Roxbury line, on Sunday afternoon, when a bystander interfered and endeavored to pacify them. The three fellows then turned on the peacemaker, and beat him in a most shocking manner with a club and a large stone bottle, breaking his jaw in two places. The assailants then fled across Evans' Bridge to South Boston, and one of them, named Isaacs, was arrested by officer Sleeper and committed to the Watch House, where he remained until Tuesday morning, when he was taken to Roxbury for examination.—Boston Chronicle.

The Daily Advertiser says the injured man is not expected to recover. If he should not, the young men are liable for manslaughter, perhaps for murder in the second degree, and must go to prison for a long time, if caught, as they doubtless will be. And the man who sold or gave them the liquor, is, we suppose, out of the reach of the law: but there is crime here, and responsibility somewhere.

ANOTHER EXTRAORDINARY INVENTION.—We were yesterday shown one of the most remarkable inventions we ever beheld, and one that is of incalculable benefit to mankind. The article we refer to is "the Lung Barometer," invented by Dr. H. K. Root, the celebrated consumption and blood doctor. By it he can ascertain exactly how far the lungs of a patient may be diseased, which cannot be told by any other means. The doctor has had remarkable success in curing the worst cases of consumption. We know of a case being cured by him after being given up as incurable by three of the faculty. Dr. Root treats all diseases of the lungs and blood, and removes all deformities, such as "spinal curvature," &c., with astonishing success. The Barometer is a great curiosity, and merits the approbation of the most learned professors of Physiology in its philosophy and utility.—U. S. Military and Naval Argus.

We would advise any who may be laboring under Lung, Heart, or Liver complaints, to test the soundness of these organs by this Barometer, which Dr. Root has with him, at the Franklin House. It is a curious instrument, and admirably answers the purpose for which it was invented.

H. K. ROOT, A.M., M. D.

HAS ARRIVED

AT THE FRANKLIN HOUSE,

WHERE he will remain until FRIDAY morning, the 25th.

Consumption not Fatal if properly treated.

DR. H. K. ROOT, the celebrated Lung and Consumption Physician, author of the 'People's Medical Lighthouse,' inventor of the Infallible Lung Barometer, from 512 Broadway, N. Y., invites the attention of the sick and afflicted, laboring under any of the various forms of disease, such as Coughs, Ulcerated or Tuberculous Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Pain in the Chest, Shoulders, Sides or Back, Bleeding Lungs, Chronic Catarrh, Night Sweats, Nervous Complaints, Palpitation, Ossification or Dropsy of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Chronic Diarrhœa, Incidental Weakness peculiar to Females, Cancers, Tumors, Scrofulous Affections, Deafness, Insanity, Fits, Paralysis, Spinal Deformity, Gravel, Fistula, Costiveness, and all Cutaneous Eruptions, and poisonous Innoculations and Humors of the Blood. He does not make sick to make well, nor tear down to build up; but persons under his care can pursue their regular business, while the work of cleansing and purifying the system is going on. His theory is, that all diseases arises directly or indirectly from an impure state of the blood. The language of scripture is—

"The life of the flesh is the blood thereof."—Gen. ix: 4.

"For the BLOOD is the LIFE."—Deut. xii: 21.

"For the LIFE of the flesh is the BLOOD."—Levit. xvii: 11.

And he also believes that the remedies furnished by nature are the only ones which can produce a speedy and permanent cure. There never was a disease but had its VEGETABLE antidote. And in this opinion he is sustained by scripture—

David said—"Purge me with hyssop and I shall be made clean."—Psalms li: 7.

Paul said—"The weak eateth herbs."—Rom. xiv: 2.

St. John said—"The leaves of the tree were for healing of the nations."—Rev. xxii: 2.

DR. ROOT is not a believer in the "one cure alls." As well might a locksmith make a key to fit all varieties of locks, or the druggist compound all his medicines in one, and use it for all complaints.

The sick wishing to avail themselves of skill and experience in the healing art, are invited to call at the Franklin House.

A QUAKER'S REBUKE.—A young fop, of an infidel turn, while travelling in a stage coach, sought to display his smartness by attempting to pick flaws in the narratives of Scripture. After trying to show the inconsistency and improbability of several events described in the Bible, he referred to the life of Nebuchadnezzar, and argued that it was utterly absurd and impossible for a man to so forget his human instincts, and eat grass like a beast. Having stated his views, he asked the opinion of the passengers, and among the rest of a grave looking Quaker, who had hitherto taken no part in the conversation.

"Verily, friend," answered the Quaker, "I see no improbability in the story, if he was as great an ass as thou."

TIGHT SCREWING.—"Do you support Gen Taylor?" "No." "Do you support Gen. Cass?" "No sir." "What? do you support Van Buren?" "No, sir-ee, I support Betsey and the children, and it's mighty tight work to get along at that, with corn only 20 cents a bushel."—Western Paper, 1848.

It is stated that in the year 1706, when the Turks attacked Montenegro, they were utterly routed. The Montenegrins returned all the prisoners on condition of receiving a pig for each Turk liberated. The hog is regarded by the Turks, as well as the Jews, as the uncleanest of animals.

ANECDOTES OF DR. BEECHER.

From an interesting article in the American Phrenological Journal, for March, on Rev. Dr. Lyman Beecher, we select the following characteristic anecdotes:—

One night, Mr. Beecher was awakened by a sound at his window, as if some one were drawing cloth through a broken pane of glass; springing up, he dimly saw his clothes disappearing through a broken window—a thief having taken a fancy to them. Waiting for no ceremonies of toilet, he dashed out through the door after him. The rascal dropped the clothes at once, and put himself to his best speed. But Lyman was not the man to be easily out-run, especially when thus stripped to the race. After dodging a few times, and turning several corners, the caitiff was seized, and marched back by the eager student. He ushered him into his room, compelled him to lie down on the floor by the side of his bed, while he more comfortably ensconced in the bed, lay the night long watching him:—the silence being broken only by an occasional 'Lie still, sir.' In the morning the culprit was taken before a magistrate, who was evidently a lineal descendant of Justice Shallow. The magistrate, after hearing the particulars, asked Mr. Beecher, whether in turning the corners he lost of the man at all. He replied, that he was out of sight but a second, for he was close upon him. 'Ah, well, if you lost sight of him at all, you cannot swear to his identity,' and so the man was discharged. Mr. B. met the fellow several times afterward, but could never catch his eye.

In a trip along the coast of Connecticut in a small craft for his health, being detained by baffling winds, it was in the midst of church service, on a Sabbath morning, that he landed at a village where only the clergyman knew him. He was in full sea-rig. His entrance to the audience-room attracted no attention. But when, during the prayer, after sermon, he walked up the aisle, and began to ascend the pulpit steps, all eyes were on him. The young people tittered, and the tithing men began to look authoritative, as if business was on hand. The officiating clergyman, at the close of his prayer, cordially shook him by the hand, to the growing surprise of spectators—not lessened by the Dr.'s rising to make some 'additional remarks.'

"When I began," we once heard the Doctor say, "I could see all the good and sober people looking grave at such an appearance, while all the young people winked at each other as if they expected some sport. But it was not long before I saw the old folks begin to look up and smile, and the young folks to look sober." If any one has heard Dr. Beecher, in one of his best moods, in an extemporaneous outburst, they can well imagine with what power an application would come from him, and how the sudden transition of feeling, and the strange contrasts between his weather-beaten appearance and seaman's garb, and his impassioned eloquence, would heighten the effect. When he concluded, he turned to the pastor and said, "How could you have such a grand sermon without any application?" "I wrote out the body of the sermon, meaning to extemporize the application, but when you came in it scared it out of my head."

He once received from several ladies of his church, a sum of money for his wife, to be used in the purchase of a carpet. There was about this time an effort on foot to build an orthodox church in a neighboring village, in which the doctor took great interest. Meeting a gentleman engaged in the enterprise, the doctor expressed a wish to give something towards it himself. Ransacking his pockets, he discovered this carpet money, and expressed great surprise at its unexpected presence.—"Why—when did I get this? I am sure I do not remember this money! Well, it is plain Providence provided it for this cause." Accordingly it was given. Not many weeks after, the lady donors called, expecting to see a new carpet on the pastor's parlor. Nothing was known about it by the good wife. The doctor was summoned and the case stated.—"There that was it, I remember now. It must have been the money I gave for that church!"

When he was about sixty-eight or seventy years of age, he visited a son in the interior of Indiana. One of the young men in the village kindly volunteered to go out with the doctor to hunt. After some success, they took a little circuit each of his own. Hearing the doctor's gun, Mr. V. made toward him, and to his surprise, saw the doctor, boots and coat off, about twenty feet up a tree, and making his way nimbly. 'Doctor, doctor, what are you doing?' 'I shot a squirrel and he ran into that hole, and I am determined to have him out.' It was only on the promise of his young friend that he would go up and eject him, that he would give over his perilous climbing.

When about seventy-five years of age, he spent a fortnight in the eastern part of Maine. A party in Calais went with him on a little expedition into the Indian territories, spending several days there, hunting and fishing.—When about to embark upon a chain of lakes in the birch canoes, the Indian guide, Etienne, rather objected to so old a man attempting the adventure, fearing that he would give out.—He did not know his man. He rowed, with the best of the youngsters; caught more trout than all the party together; and returned each day from the various tramps, in the lead; eat his fish on a rock, with a sea-biscuit for a trencher, and fingers for knives and forks; slept on the ground upon hemlock branches under the tent, and, at length, the Indian guide went from the extreme of depreciation, to the highest expression of admiration in his power, saying,—"Ah, old man, all Indian!"

While residing on Long Island, in early life, he was returning home just at evening from a visit to old Dr. Woolwort. Seeing what he thought, in the dark, to be a rabbit by the road-side, a little ahead, he reasoned with himself—"They are rather tender animals—if the fellow sits till I come up, I think I could hit him with these books," a goodly bundle of which he had in his handkerchief. Hit him he surely did; only it proved to be not a rabbit, but a skunk. The logical sequences followed, and he returned to his family in anything but the odor of sanctity. In after life, being asked why he did not reply to a scurrilous attack which had been made upon him, the doctor answered, "I discharged a quarto, once, at a skunk; and I then made up my mind never to try it again."

DAILY

PORTSMOUTH:
THURSDAY, MARCH 24, 1853.

RHODE ISLAND.

The Whigs of Rhode Island have no ticket for state officers in nomination for the coming election. The Providence Journal publishes the nominations of Messrs. King and Harris as members of Congress, and adds :—"Unless some movement, of which we have no information or expectation, shall be started, there will be no Whig prox in the field. We need not say how much we regret to make this announcement, at a time when, it is our candid opinion, formed upon a deliberate view of the whole state, that the Whigs are stronger than they were last year, and that a vigorous effort, such as was made then, would be certain of success."

We copy the above paragraph as a political sign of the times. The adoption of two platforms so nearly alike, by the two great parties, at Baltimore, and the prominence given to the compromise in both of them, have left no great point at issue between them, unless we except the question of discriminating duties for protection of home interests. We believe we need not except this. The whigs as a party could not go into an election on this "one idea," with any prospect of success : and democrats, on the other hand, by thousands, will be ready to vote for modifications of the present tariff, when their favorite interests happen to be pinched by it. So it has come to pass that old party issues have passed away, one after another, till none are left. Some of them will return, in another form, but they will find other parties on the stage, formed, as no man yet knows how. Others, from their nature, can never return.

In Rhode Island members of congress are nominated, and will be voted for by whigs, because a seat in Congress is worth having, and therefore some men seek that office for themselves or their friends. But no state office in Rhode Island is worth a copper in a pecuniary view. A decent handcart man in Providence, or a tavern waiter in Newport, earns a better living than the Governor's salary will give him. The whigs therefore, do not think it will "pay" to organize. But the democratic party, already and thoroughly organized, nominated their candidates, and will walk over the course into the state offices, such as they are.

Now if such a state of things should continue a few years, it is certain that two new democratic parties would be found there, made by splitting the present party which bears that name; and that the scale would be turned between them, by the remnants of the scattered whig party, which had become absorbed in one or both the other parties.

Something like this will probably happen in the country at large. The old parties are now in a state of fusion—before long it will be perhaps of confusion. But out of this last, order will arise, and two new great parties will and must be formed, on new, and as yet perhaps unthought of questions.

The present third party will exist, and for the present will operate as it has done, viz. to hold the balance of power, and to elect some future Harrison, or Polk, or Taylor, but can have little prospect of electing its own President, while slavery holds its power. It will, however, have members of congress, and exert considerable influence—being hated, feared, and courted, by managers of the other parties.

But no party can rule, with one idea only, whether it be slavery or anti-slavery. Either of these is a make-weight, sometimes a heavy one—but two great parties we must always have, as long as we remain a republic; and they cannot be formed, generally, on the basis of a moral question—but on some points of policy.

The Captive in Patagonia; or, Life among the Giants. A personal narrative, by Benjamin F. Bourne. With Illustrations.—12mo. Price 85 cents.

This work, by Captain Bourne—who was taken captive, and retained three months by the Patagonians—gives an account of his capture and final escape; a description of this strange people, of which little or nothing has heretofore been known; their manners, customs, habits, pursuits; the country, its soil, productions, &c.

We have rarely read any thing more interesting in a book of travels, than some pages in this book by Captain Bourne; particularly his description of the Patagonian clothing, of the domestic life of the Chief; and of his own reasons for not making any effort to instruct the natives in religion. The work gives us an accurate knowledge of the actual home life of a poor ignorant savage tribe, and must be regarded as a valuable contribution to the stock of books communicating useful knowledge in a pleasant form.

It is published by Gould & Lincoln, Boston.

MOLASSES.—2032 hogsheads, 126 tierces, and 16 barrels of molasses, were imported into Portland, last Monday, in seven vessels, all from Cuba.

SUPPOSED SLAVER IN THE DISTRICT COURT AT NEW YORK.—An examination has been held before John F. Francis, Esq., Commissioner, in the case of William Hincle, captain of the schooner Rachel P. Brown, fitted out at New York in December last for the West Coast of Africa, who was arrested at Port Praya in January, by the officers of the U. S. sloop of war Germantown, and sent to the United States for trial, on a charge of being concerned in the slave trade. The witnesses in support of the charge were, 1st, Wm. Riley, mate of the schooner, who had shipped in her at New York, and although not having been informed of the objects of the voyage, testified to a variety of facts, which impressed him with the belief, that the vessel was bound on an unlawful voyage—such as four passengers, three Spaniards and one Portugese, whose conversation he did not understand, but who by their apparent influence with the captain, appeared to be the real owners of the vessel; and 2d, Lieut. Sinclair, and Midshipman Harrison, who testified to certain suspicious circumstances at Porto Praya, which led Capt. Nicholas of the Germantown to seize the schooner; and to a variety of effects found on board of her, on examination, which discovery tended strongly to confirm those suspicions.

The Commissioner held Capt. Hincle to bail, for his appearance before the U. S. District Court, in the sum of $3000, and in default thereof he was sent back to jail.—Boston Daily Advertiser.

It is not at all likely he will be convicted: but if he should be, and punished, we shall receive and deserve the lash of foreign criticism for our gross inconsistency.

The Springfield Republican thus compliments its quondam friend, the Postmaster of Boston:

The removal of Mr. Gordon, the present Postmaster of Boston, will give supreme satisfaction to all who despise men who will turn traitors to their party, for the sake of keeping themselves in snug places. He boasted of carrying over 1,500 Whig votes in Boston to President Pierce, and fondly hoped this would commend him to leniency. But his head is among the first to fall, and we say Amen!

DISCHARGED CONVICTS.—The annual report of the State agent for aiding discharged convicts was submitted to the legislature of Massachusetts on Monday. It states that the number of convicts discharged from the State prison last year was 154, of whom 134 were by expiration of sentences, 19 by remission of sentence and one by pardon. Of these 105 advised with the agent; 61 were assisted in obtaining employment; 19 were supplied with tools; 55 with board and 45 with clothing. The Agent was also able to attend to repeated calls for relief, from convicts discharged in former years, by the aid of the Boston Society. The modifications of the Statutes on the subject of discharged convicts last year, are stated to have been demanded by necessity and have been found to operate beneficially.

NEW YORK CRYSTAL PALACE.—In consequence of the unfavorable state of the weather during the past month, and a temporary delay occasioned by a want of building materials, the Crystal Palace will not, probably, be ready for the reception of articles before the first of June next. During the last few days, he inviting weather has attracted large numbers of visitors, and the ease with which the location is reached by the Sixth avenue cars, and the various omnibus lines from every part of the city, render it a pleasant excursion for those who live at a distance. In the meantime, speculation is busy in the neighborhood. Tall, unsubstantial houses, intended for the most part as temporary stores and boarding houses, are running up with great rapidity, and as the time for opening approaches, their number will doubtless very much increase.—It is said that as much as $200 per week has been demanded for the former, though this is perhaps an exaggerated statement.—N. Y. Jour. Com.

AN ITEM FOR THE LADIES.—The ladies will find on page 335 of "The People's Medical Lighthouse," a most valuable table, in which is given the per centage of calcareous matter contained in most articles of food.—This will prove invaluable to ladies about to undergo the labors and dangers of parturition, for it has been satisfactorily ascertained that the bulk of the bones of the fœtis, and the degree of their solidity or hardness greatly depends upon the amount of calcerous substance in the food of the mother during the period that she is enciente. By the use of proper food during gestation, it has been found, says Dr. Root, the author, that fœtal ossification will be retarded, thereby rendering the deliverance much less painful, without affecting the vigor and health of the offspring. The same work contains many hints upon subjects of a kindred character, which particularly commend it to the perusal of females. As a family medical guide, the "People's Medical Lighthouse" may be placed first upon the list of medical publications now extant. In short, it has no superior.—Herald.

TURKEY.—We have further accounts of the arrangement come to between Austria and Turkey. On the 15th ult. a divan was held at Constantinople, at which all the high dignitaries of the Court, both in and out of office, were assembled. After a long and stormy debate, the Austrian propositions were accepted.

Omar Pacha is immediately to withdraw his troops from Montenegro, which is to retain its former semi-independent position.—The Hungarian and Polish fugitives serving in the Turkish army are to be dismissed directly, and the Porte has consented to pay four million piastres as an indemnification of Austrian subjects on the Bosnia and Kleck, and the Sutorina will still belong to the Porte, though more in name than in reality, as it has relinquished the rights to erect fortifications on them and the approaches to them by sea. The claim of Austria to protect the Catholic Christians in the western provinces of Turkey was for the moment waived, as it was not one of the categorical demands.

O. W. Holmes, the poet and lecturer, has realized over $3000 from lecturing this winter.

LOCAL.

INAUGURATION OF MAYOR.

At eleven o'clock on Wednesday morning, at the City Rooms, in presence of the Aldermen, the oath of office was administered to Horton D. Walker, the Mayor elect, by Mayor Toppan, his predecessor, who thus retired from office.

The new Mayor, on entering on his new duties, made a brief and appropriate speech, in which he suggested his own course of duty, and requested the co-operation of the board over which he is to preside.

OBITUARY.

Died at his residence in this city, on Wednesday evening, after a short illness, Robert Rice, Esq., aged 73. Mr. Rice was one of our principal merchants and best men: in the relations of social life he was calm, gentle, affable and dignified; in those of the domestic circle, exemplary in all relations; honest and upright. As a bank director for many years, and a merchant for many more, he was influential and successful, without making an enemy or provoking a rival. His death will be an occasion of sincere mourning in this community, to which his life has been an honor and an ornament.

☞ Late last evening we received information from an attentive correspondent, that a Keeper of the Northern Lights had been appointed, and that only one office remained to be filled—that of Tide Turner.

☞ "Isadore's" notice will be inserted upon the receipt of fifty cents at this office.

THE LATE EXTENSIVE HOUSE ROBBERIES BY A BLACK WOMAN.—Aggregate number of years she could be sentenced to the State Prison. Several weeks ago we noticed the arrest of a black woman in the third ward, by Officer Kinner, named Elizabeth Wilson, charged with the commission of a number of dwelling-house robberies, during the past two years. Since then nearly $800 worth of plunder, consisting of every description of male and female wearing apparel, has been recovered from the various pawnbroker's shops, and identified by the rightful owners. Each one of these persons has preferred charges of larceny against the prisoner. The complaints taken by the magistrate up to yesterday number upwards of one hundred and ninety-one, which is sufficient to sentence her to the State Prison for nearly one thousand years! should she be convicted and sentenced upon each charge. There is yet a large lot of the stolen property remaining unclaimed at the Third Ward Station House. The accused was arraigned yesterday, in the Court of General Sessions, and pleaded guilty to three grand larceny indictments, and the Court sentenced her to imprisonment at Sing Sing for the term of five years on each, making fifteen years in all. At the expiration of Elizabeth's sentence, she will be sixty years of age.—New York Times.

Mr. Kennedy, who was yesterday removed from the office of Superintendent of the Census Bureau, announces that he will reside here, and attend to the duties of the office which he holds as Secretary of the National Agricultural Society. Mr. De Bow, who succeeds Mr. Kennedy in the Census Bureau, is known as the editor of a Commercial and Statistical Review that bears his name. The work of the Census office is nearly completed, and will be closed by the 30th of June certainly, by which time the Census Returns ought to be ready for publication. Mr. De Bow had been spoken of for the office of Commissioner of Patents, and that important post remains open. An appointment, for it must now be made, as it is a vacancy. No very prominent candidates for it are mentioned. It is not an office that could be well filled by any of the ordinary run of office seekers.—Washington Cor. N. Y. Jour. Com.

PORTUGAL.—The north of Portugal had been visited by an immense fall of snow.—several wine carriers and their mules had perished in the drifts. The wolves had descended from the mountains in search of prey, and in the country places many of the houses were snowed.

At Lisbon the weather was unusually cold for the season, and much sickness prevailed.

An investigation was held before Ex-Judge Vanderpool and two other Commissioners on Monday evening, in the City Hall, respecting the alleged lunacy of Mr. George Doughty, of L. I., who was victimed by "Spirit Mediums" to the amount of about $15,000. The Jury found a verdict of lunacy, and that the property, (valued at $30,000) should be devided between his wife and children.—New York Times.

Gen. Cass is the oldest "fogie" in the political ranks of our country; he is about 80.—Mrs. Cass, now very ill, is 65; they have no children.—Boston Mail.

This is a mistake; the charge d'affaires at Rome is a son of Mr. Cass; and he also has several daughters.—Portland Adv.

☞ Rev. Asa Cummings and Neal Dow, both of Portland, are having not a very edifying personal controversy in the Portland papers.

THE CARPET BAG.—Its form is to be changed so as to be published once a month, in a 12 mo. of 100 pages, bound and gilt, for 12 1-2 cts each, or $1.50 a year. It is to contain tales, sketches, poetry and anecdotes, of a high order.

The corruptions and rascalities of the New York Common Council are noted in a Cuban paper as results of "free government," which should make the Cubans more content with theirs, if they wish to be kept free from such rulers.

A colored woman, a dealer in lottery tickets and stolen clothes, was recently arrested in New York, and some $4,000 worth of plunder secured. Of this about $800 worth has been recognized, and all persons who have recovered their property, have preferred charges of larceny against the prisoner—numbering in all, of upwards of sixty complaints.

Health and Strength.
SPRING is the proper time of the year to purify the Blood, by taking Medicinal Bitters. We are ever taking sweet food into the stomach, forgetting that the system demands a proper amount of Bitter to counteract the sweet. Among the many articles in the market, none have proved better or of more efficacy than the following:
Dr. S. O. Richardson's Sherry Wine Bitters;
Dr. Pierce's Indian Restorative Bitters;
Dr. Langley's Root & Herb Bitters;
Dr. Atwood's Vegetable Jaundice Bitters
These Bitters are purely medicinal; and are not made for any other object and any person purchasing of the subscriber who is not satisfied, shall have the money returned

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Madame Sontag's opera is crowded to suffocation; 3000 persons are in the house. The gross receipts for the 30 operas here are $104,000. Madame S. opens at the National Theatre, Philadelphia, on Monday. A despatch from Macon, Ga., speaks of a freshet, a great flood in Alabama, but does not mention the rivers on which it occurred. Much damage had also been done to the telegraph wires.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The Census Office was the scene of considerable excitement to-day. In the first place upwards of 100 clerks were removed, which reduced the force of the office to seven or eight. It was proposed to dispense with the 8th and 7th offices altogether, one office and a few picked clerks being deemed sufficient to wind up the business.

In the next place, Mr. Kennedy, late the Superintendent of the Census, sued out a writ of replevin on Mr. De Bow, his successor, by virtue of which he entered the office with a deputy marshal and removed two or three cartloads of manuscripts and documents, claimed as private property, but embracing a large quantity of manuscripts prepared by clerks in the office; the records of the Census Board; numerous publications from public societies, &c. The documents were appraised at $480, and Mr. Kennedy had to give $4000 bonds for their safety. Mr. De Bow consulted the District Attorney, and no doubt the most prompt measures will be taken for the recovery of such papers as are of a public character.

It is understood that Mr. Kennedy had accumulated a large mass of manuscripts, preparatory to an extended work on the resources of this country, which he designed to publish on his own account, seeing that Congress declines to publish the Census returns on the extensive scale proposed.

FOUR DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE ATLANTIC.

New York, March 22.—The steamer Atlantic, Captain West, from Liverpool with dates of the 9th inst. arrived here this evening, bringing 42 passengers.

The news is dull, as are also the markets. Cotton at Liverpool is drooping, with a partial reduction to effect sales. Large arrivals of breadstuffs, with slackened demand.

The weather in England is seasonable. In North Britain, and parts of the Continent snow lies many feet deep.

Lombardy is utterly prostrate before its tyrants. The confiscation is begun.

ENGLAND.—In the House of Lords on Monday the 8th inst., the Earl of Aberdeen replied, in answer to a question by the Earl of Malmesbury, that the government had no information as to Mazzini having escaped on board the British frigate Retribution.

The Earl of Malmesbury maintained that if it were true it was an act of the most ill-judged humanity in the Captain of the ship to receive this political agitator on board.

The Board of Trade have issued returns for the month of February, showing an increase on the declared value of the exportations of $1,410,060 sterling, being nearly 30 per cent. over the corresponding month of the preceding year.

The departures for Australia are still as numerous as ever; considerable shipments continue to be made of manufactured goods and general merchandise; but freights for the moment have experienced a decline.

SHIP CANAL AT THE ISTHMUS.—Favorable notice has been taken of this scheme in the British Parliament, and hopes expressed that our government will concur. Mr. Hume said,

Latterly there had been another plan proposed, which is to make a ship Canal of 30 feet depth through the Isthmus of Darien, having a very sufficient port at each end, and so as to join the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans.

I do not of course pretend on the part of the government to give an opinion upon the Engineering questions and upon other questions, which is for others to consider; but so far as an outline of the plan is concerned I have to say that if that plan could be adopted it would tend very much to increase and favor the commerce of all nations.

ADVANCES TO PORK PACKERS.—We hear it stated that an extensive and wealthy provision house in New York, have over "a million" out in the shape of advances to pork-packers at Cincinnati and other points on the Ohio river. Their losses, perhaps, will amount to "hundreds of thousands," but it is said they are able to stand it.

Two hundred barrels of prime lard came to hand yesterday, by an Illinois river boat, which was sold in January at 10 1-2, delivered on the levee. The same article, if forced upon the market to-day, would not in all probability bring over 8 1-2c. The decline at two cents per pound is $1,200 upon the lot.—St. Louis Intelligencer.

A PROFITABLE WINDFALL.—The underwriters of bark Lincoln, picked up at sea on her voyage from New Orleans, by the crew of the schooner Bloomer of Gloucester, and towed into Boston, have agreed to pay the owners and crew of the schooner the sum of $20,000. This will give the crew $1250 each.

The King of Sweden, in consideration of the great scientific practical value of Lieut. Murray's labors, has ordered that the Swedish navy co-operate with this officer, by making observations according to the form prescribed for his "Wind and Current" chart.

The Aurora, of Matanzas, says the editor witnessed a horrible conflict in that port between a man and a shark. The man had a sharp knife, and after a half hour's combat the swimmer killed the shark.

The Atlas says that Judge Bishop declines the office of Sub-Treasurer for Boston. The pay is too small for the heavy bonds required. We think he is right—salary $2500 per annum—bonds required, $200,000.

H. K. ROOT, A.M., M. D.

AT THE FRANKLIN HOUSE,

WHERE he will remain until FRIDAY morning, the 25th.

Consumption not Fatal if properly treated.

DR. H. K. ROOT, the celebrated Lung and Consumption Physician, author of the 'People's Medical Lighthouse,' inventor of the Infallible Lung Barometer, from 512 Broadway, N. Y., invites the attention of the sick and afflicted, laboring under any of the various forms of disease, such as Coughs, Ulcerated or Tuberculous Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Pain in the Chest, Shoulders, Sides or Back, Bleeding Lungs, Chronic Catarrh, Night Sweats, Nervous Complaints, Palpitation, Ossification or Dropsy of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Chronic Diarrhœa, Incidental Weakness peculiar to Females, Cancers, Tumors, Scrofulous Affections, Deafness, Insanity, Fits, Paralysis, Spinal Deformity, Gravel, Fistula, Costiveness, and all Cutaneous Eruptions, and poisonous Innoculations and Humors of the Blood. He does not make sick to make well, nor tear down to build up; but persons under his care can pursue their regular business, while the work of cleansing and purifying the system is going on. His theory is, that all diseases arises directly or indirectly from an impure state of the blood. The language of scripture is—

"The life of the flesh is the blood thereof."—Gen. ix. 4.

"For the BLOOD is the LIFE."—Deut. xii: 21.

"For the LIFE of the flesh is the BLOOD."—Levit. xvii: 11.

And he also believes that the remedies furnished by nature are the only ones which can produce a speedy and permanent cure. There never was a disease but had its vegetable antidote. And in this opinion he is sustained by scripture—

David said—"Purge me with hyssop and I shall be made clean."—Psalms li: 7.

Paul said—"The weak eateth herbs."—Rom. xiv: 2.

St. John said—"The leaves of the tree were for healing of the nations."—Rev. xxii: 2.

DR. ROOT is not a believer in the "one cure alls." As well might a locksmith make a key to fit all varieties of locks, or the druggist compound all his medicines in one, and use it for all complaints.

The sick wishing to avail themselves of skill and experience in the healing art, are invited to call at the Franklin House.

LYON'S KATHAIRON.

For Preserving, Restoring & Beautifying the Hair,

CAUSING it to grow luxuriantly, and giving it a soft and curling appearance, of the most delightful character. The KATHAIRON neutralises the effects of disease, climate, and old age, in preserving and restoring the Human Hair, even after a Baldness of many years,—cleanses the scalp from Dandruff, and its natural impurities,—immediately relieves sympathetic attacks of Nervous Headache, and cures all cutaneous diseases of the skin, such as Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Itch, &c.

AS A TOILET ARTICLE,

For giving the Hair a rich, soft, glossy and curling appearance, nothing has been discovered to compare with its incontested—its incontestible virtues. It imparts the fragrance of the most delightful and exotic flowers, and is free from all mineral properties, or any substance which can color the skin, or stain a lady's hat.

SPRING CONCERT.

BY MRS. L. H. SIGOURNEY.

There's a concert, a concert of gladness and glee,
The programme is rich and the tickets are free,
In a grand, vaulted hall, where there's room and to spare,
With no gas-lights to eat up the oxygen there.
The musicians excel in their wonderful art,
They have compass of voice, and the gamut by heart;
They traveled abroad in the winter recess,
And sang to vast crowds with unbounded success,
And now 'tis a favor and privilege rare
Their arrival to hail, and their melodies share.

These exquisite minstrels a fashion have set,
Which they hope you'll comply with and may not regret.
They don't keep late hours, for they've always been told
'Twould injure their voices, and make them look old.
They invite you to come, if you have a fine ear,
To the garden or grove, their rehearsals to hear;
Their chorus is full, ere the sunbeam is born,
Their music the sweetest at breaking of morn.
It was learned at heaven's gate, with its rapturous lays,
And may teach you, perchance, its own spirit of praise. —N. Y. Illustrated News.

PATENTS.

American and Foreign Office.
AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The subscriber late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837, determined to prosecute business, in soliciting for Patents, superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agent. I am very respectfully, Yours, &c. THOMAS EWBANK, PATAGONIAN FASHIONS.

Capt. Browne, who was a captive in Patagonia, thus describes the Patagonian garments, in his lively book, just published:

An opportunity was afforded, while in camp, to see some specimens of their tailoring or mantua-making achievements;—either term is appropriate, as the male and female dress do not differ in form, and but slightly in the mode of adjustment. The mantle or blanket is worn around the shoulders; those of the women are fastened together by the corners under the chin with a stick for a pin; the men hold theirs around them with their hands, except that when hunting they tie a string around the waist.

The skins of young guanacos are selected for mantles, on account of the superior fineness and softness of the hair. Nearly a dozen skins are used for a single mantle, as a large part of each is esteemed unfit for use, and thrown away. The skins, while green, are stretched to their utmost tension on the ground to dry. When partially dried, they are scraped on the inside with a stone sharpened like a gun-flint, sprinkled the while with water, to facilitate the operation. When the surface is made tolerably smooth, and of a pretty uniform thickness, it is actively scoured with a coarse-grained stone, till it has a bright polish. The skin is again dried, then crumpled and twisted in the hands till it becomes perfectly soft and pliable. The thread, as has been stated, is made from the sinews of the ostrich. These are extracted by the exertion of great strength, and divided into strings about the size of ordinary shoe-thread. They are then twisted, the ends are scraped to a point, and when dry become stiff; they are now ready for use.

Two pieces of skin are cut to fit each other. The tailoress (for all the work, from the curing of the skins to the last results, is done by the squaws) holds the edges together with the left hand, and drills them for sewing, with a sharpened nail, held between the first two fingers of the right hand; the pointed thread, held between the finger and thumb, is inserted and drawn through, and so the work goes on. The stitches are tolerably fine, and a very neat seam is made. Other pieces are added, and when the whole is finished the seams are rubbed smooth with a bone. The fur being worn inside, there remains the work of outside decoration. With a due quantity of clay, blood, charcoal and grease, amalgamated for the purpose, the artist arms herself with a stick for a brush, and executes divers figures in black on a red ground; which, if intended to shadow forth men, require a vigorous imagination to detect the purpose. They might pass for unhappy ghosts (if a little more ethereal in composition), or for deformed trees. They bear a rude resemblance to a chair in profile, or a figure 4; and are thickly disposed over the whole surface, in the attitude sometimes vulgarly termed "spoon-fashion." The garment is now complete; the edges are carefully trimmed with a knife, and the fabric is thrown over the shoulders, with the infallible certainty of fitting as closely as the native taste requires. There is no trial of patience in smoothing obstinate wrinkles. A "genteel fit" is the easiest thing in the world; wherein Patagonian tailors have decidedly the advantage of their fellow-craftsmen in civilized lands.

Hon. Horace Mann, has delivered a lecture in the New York Tabernacle, on the institutions, crimes, &c., of Great Britain. In it he told some facts, which Lady Sutherland and My Lord Shaftsbury would do well to ponder. There are found the extremes of society, in a contrast seen no where else. Four thousand acres devoted to an elegant menagerie, and lord by 2000 human beings crowded into 400 yards square. Women obliged to make 10,000 strokes with an hammer, for the value of one shilling! A child, four years old, condemned in a black pit six days and two nights of the week, with scarcely liberty to sleep when necessary.

WASHINGTON AT HOME.

Dr. McWhirr, teacher of the academy at Alexandria, at which two of Gen. Washington's nephews attended, wrote an auto-biography which is shortly to be published. It contains an interesting description of the great man's habits and ways in the domestic circle at Mount Vernon:

At the dinner table, Mrs. Washington sat at the head, and Major Washington at the foot. The General sat next Mrs. Washington, on her left. He called upon me to ask a blessing before meat. When the cloth was about to be removed, he asked thanks himself. Mrs. Washington, with a smile, said, "My dear, you forgot that you had a clergyman dining with you to-day." With equal pleasantness he replied, "My dear, I wish clergymen, and all men, to know that I am not a graceless man." I was frequently at Alexandria; nor did I ever see any person, whatever might be his character or standing, who was not sensibly awed by his presence, and by the impressions of his greatness. The vivacity and grace of Mrs. Washington relieved visitors of some of that feeling of awe and restraint which possessed them.

He was uniformly grave, and smiled but seldom, but was always agreeable. His favorite subject of conversation was agriculture, and he scrupulously avoided, in general society, topics connected with politics, or the war, or his own personal actions. As all the world knows, he was most regular in his habits. He went into his study, it is said, about 4 o'clock in the morning. He continued there until breakfast, which he took with his family, and then visited his plantation. He returned at noon, and his dinner hour was 3 o'clock. He was then open to the calls of his friends, and to the society of visitors. No one acquainted with his habits, thought of calling upon Gen. Washington in the morning. He took the liveliest interest in our academy and in the cause of education generally, and uniformly attended our exhibitions.

PORTSMOUTH:
FRIDAY, MARCH 25, 1853

SCARCITY OF CHANGE.

Bank bills of the Providence banks, for $1.25, 1.50 and 1.75, have made their appearance, and are in circulation in New Bedford and other places.

The Newburyport Union says,

"We saw bills of one dollar and twenty-five cents, issued by a Providence bank on account of the scarcity of change, in circulation in this city yesterday. Just so fast as they come into use, so fast specie will disappear. It is a pity the Legislature would not prohibit them, and all other small bills with them."

We have some experience on this subject in New Hampshire, which goes directly against these theories. Two of our banks issued 50-cent and 75-cent bills between forty and fifty years ago; and these bills circulated here freely for a number of years, without driving off change at all. Change afterwards became plentiful, and the banks called in the little bills and destroyed them, of their own accord. The Portsmouth and New Hampshire Banks paid specie for their bills throughout the war of 1812–15, which years were included in the time when the change-bills circulated.

The Union's apprehensions that change will disappear before the change bills, is of no consequence in this city; for it has pretty well disappeared already. But if paper money, especially small bills, would drive away specie—how do we happen to keep any gold on hand now? when we have any quantity of one dollar bills in circulation. The legislature of Massachusetts are probably not disposed to prohibit small bills. That singular folly was enacted in several of the New England States, a dozen or fifteen years ago—but the laws in regard to the subject were little regarded, even by the men who passed them! Most of them were repealed, and the remainder lie dead on the statute book.

We hope our enlightened and democratic legislature in New Hampshire, will authorise and encourage some of our individual liability banks, to issue change bills, something on the plan of our old 50 and 75 cent. bills.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—The Patriot publishes returns of the vote for Governor from all but four small towns, and the result is:—For Martin, 31,013; for Bell, 17,731; for White and others, 8187—majority for Martin, 5095, which will be slightly increased.

In the 1st Congressional District, Dr. Kittredge has 11,365, Mr. Tuck 10,068, others 116. In the 3d Bistrict, Mr. Hibbard has about 2000 majority.

The Patriot reckons the Democratic majority in the House at 88. The Senate will stand 11 Democrats to 1 Whig.

With this large majority, we have reason to hope that all the abuses in legislation, which were complained of before election, will be remedied, and of course we shall find out what they are; which we have tried to do, so far, in vain. It would be pleasant to see a programme of the business, prepared by some one who knows. Will some of our democratic correspondents (or any other) inform us what reforms are to be undertaken?

The New York Tribune says that Rev. Miss Antoinette Brown has received two invitations to settle as pastor of religious societies in New York; but the Tribune don't state whether she has accepted both or either of them.

"Settle as pastor! She had better settle (coffee) as housekeeper," says the Boston Post.

Perhaps so: but a Pastoress would certainly be very appropriately employed in tending the lambs of the flock, and carrying them in her bosom. If the Reverend Miss could get equally yoked with some equally Reverend Mister, (no matter whether Brown or Green,) and then some cathedral church settle the wedded pair as Colleague Pastors, all parties might promote union, harmony and progress.

IMPORTANT ABSOLUTION.—The National Intelligencer says:

"We have already explicitly absolved the President from any participation in those principles of that doctrine which conflict with the precepts of christianity, the moral law, and the law of nations, and rebel against Providence itself."

The President doubtless will feel under eternal obligations for such condescension!—Isn't the National getting rather passé?—Boston Post.

The good time has come.—Ports. Chronicle.

MAYOR OF CONCORD.—The Concord Capital Reporter says, "The Mayor will receive a salary to be sure; but that salary need not exceed one hundred dollars per annum—the best man in town can be found who will cheerfully serve for that sum."

The salary of Mayor in this city is $300; in Newburyport, nothing. We think a Mayor ought to have reasonable pay; and do not deem $100 a competent salary for Concord, or $300 for Portsmouth. The small salary makes it necessary to select a Mayor who does not depend on his office for a living.

NEW NAME.—The Rev. R. W. Clark of East Boston, calls the new theatre and opera house 'the gilded gateway to hell.' The reverend gentleman is "prejudiced."—Times

THE GREAT HARMONIA, by Andrew Jackson Davis, 3 vols. 350 pages each. B. B. Mussey, Boston: Fowlers & Wells, New York.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF SPIRITUAL INTERCOURSE, by A. J. Davis, 176 pages pamphlet. Fowlers & Wells, New York.

These books, (for which we are indebted to Messrs. Partridge & Brittan, of New York,) are by the author of "Nature's Divine Revelations," which latter volume we read two or three years ago. They contain no "milk for babes," but strong meat for strong minds to digest if they can. The Great Harmonia contains physical, intellectual and moral science, purporting to be written under an inspiration of a celestial origin, by a writer who has not the requisite knowledge or power to write on such subjects without such inspiration. Considered as the works of an impostor or deceiver, as some deem him, they are very remarkable: as those of an honest fanatic, still more remarkable; and if we could give credit to his divine inspiration, most remarkable of all.

The weak, the wavering, and the superficial reader, better pass them by, not looking within the covers; but the sturdy thinker, who is afraid of no truth, but believes that truth is stronger than falsehood, may read, and understand, and grow wiser.

The same remarks, nearly, may be applied to the Philosophy of Spiritual Intercourse; excepting that this does not purport to be written by inspiration. It gives, we believe, as clear a view of the mysterious operations, as any book in the market—but after all, we understand the book better than we do the spirits.

☞ We have thorougly perused the Phrenological and Water-Cure Journals for March. It is pleasant to follow Dr. Trall's racy and logical pen, in the Water-Cure, as he fearlessly grapples with opponents of all sorts.—In the Phrenological we have among other good things, a very interesting and encouraging article on the "Morning and Evening of Life," worth a year's subscription; a sketch biographical and phrenological, of Rev. Lyman Beecher, and also of Mrs. Bloomer.

The Phrenological Bust sent us by Messrs. Fowlers & Wells, publishers of these valuable monthlies and other books without number—is the greatest aid in acquiring a knowledge of "the science of mind."

GOOD FRIDAY.—Good Friday, is a fast of the Christian church, in memory of the sufferings and death of Jesus Christ. It is observed on the Friday of Passion Week, and it is called, by way of eminence, good; because of the good effects of our Saviour's sufferings. Among the Saxons it was called Long Friday; but for what reason does not appear, except on account of the long fasting and long offices then used.

This day is strictly kept by the Catholic and English Churches.

A Freesoiler has petitioned the President for a novel appointment—an agency to sell Uncle Tom's Cabin! It was probably the only one that he could think of that was not run down with hungry applicants.

The name of that freesoiler is not mentioned.

RHODE ISLAND.—It now appears that a body of volunteer whigs have extemporised a nomination for governor, viz.: Wm. W. Hoppin, of whom the Boston Mail says, he "is a man of ability and character, and very much of a gentleman," but we suppose he stands no chance at all of being elected.

A contest has been going on for some time between Mr. Marting, editor of the Nashville Union, and Colonel Cheatham, a colonel of one of the Tennessee regiments in the Mexican war, for the Post Office in Nashville.—Both gentlemen were strongly backed. The President put an end to the difficulty by nominating for the office a new man, who was not even an applicant, viz:—General Anderson, Lieutenant Colonel of the Tennessee regiment which fought so gallantly at Monterey. The action of the President is significant, as showing what his course will be whenever there is a strong contest. He seems to have acted upon the same policy in making some of the appointments in Massachusetts.

DR. ROOT.—This eminent physician continues to receive innumerable calls at the Marlboro' Hotel. His system of treating diseases, following the great teachings and philosophy of nature, is most gratifyingly sucful. It is no wonder he has so many patients. The Doctor is neither haltered nor straightjacketed to any school, but, like Bacon, goes to the recesses of philosophy and nature, and from them makes his own doctrine and practice. He is none of your second hand sort of men, who take opinions that ought long ago to have exploded and vanished into the air.—He looks at diseases with his own eyes, and not through old and gone to seed books, however sounding their titles, or venerated their authors.

Dr. Root's skill in the cure of Consumption and Cancer are more than proof of all that we have asserted above. He is doing, not only what other doctors, in the shell and out, are not doing, but what they freely, and with open eyes, confess they cannot do, to save their bacon and calomel. We need only remind all who are troubled with the above complaints, or their friends, to call as above. They will find the doctor a gentleman as well as a physician; and also see one of the "men of the time."—Boston Bee.

Dr. Root is now in this city at the Franklin House, where he will remain for this day and evening, as he leaves positively on Saturday morning. See advertisement.

A remonstrance was presented, from a portion of the voters of Ward 2, against the right of the nine Common Councillors from that ward, to hold their seats, on account of alleged informalities and errors in the proceedings of the town-meetings in that ward. Referred to the Committee on Elections.

The President announced the Standing Committees, as follows:

Both Boards adjourned to meet Friday evening, April 1st.

Court of Common Pleas—Adj. Term.

EXETER, March 24.

In Case No. 112, Cochran vs. Brickett and Bradley, which has been on trial since Tuesday, the Jury rendered a verdict this morning for the Pliff. in $10 damages:

Case 6, James F. Kendall vs. Benj. Fitts, jr. is now on trial. This is an action of replevin for a wagon, the property of the Pliff., which he alleges was wrongfully taken and detained by Deft. a Deputy Sheriff, on a writ of attachment against a third person. This case will not probably occupy more than this day.

C. H. Bell & Marston for Pliff.; Pillsbury & Christie for Deft.

Cases 54 and 55 are next in order.

Amos L. Jenness of Deerfield, was appointed foreman of the second jury; Thomas J. Melvin, (not Meloon,) foreman of the first jury.

ACCIDENT.—On Thursday afternoon, Mr. Albion Dunning of Brunswick, Me., a shipcarpenter, while at work upon the new ship at Fernald & Petigrew's ship-yard, fell from a stage, and broke his thigh.

FIRE AT RYE.—About 10 o'clock on Wednesday evening, a fire broke out in the barn of Mr. James Thomas of Rye, which utterly destroyed the building and its contents, consisting of a cow, one and a half tons of hay, and six cords of wood. The loss is quite severe to an elderly man in moderate circumstances. The fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

ADVENT MEETINGS.—A series of these meetings, lasting two or three days, have just closed at the Advent Chapel in this city.

THE CAMENEUM.—This building has been still further improved, by a new arrangement of the stage, enlarging the floor, and improving the appearance of the house.

CHANCES IN THE MATRIMONIAL LOTTERY.—Abner Curtis, a great shoe manufacturer in East Abington, proposes to some twenty or thirty young men in his employ, that if they will, by prudence and economy, respectively, save one hundred dollars the current year, and commit matrimony before the first day of January next, he will make them each a new year's present of a house lot, and $100 in cash to aid in the erection of a cottage upon the same.

AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY, N. Y.—The receipts for the last month were $35,139, and for eleven months to March 1, $316,294.—Grants of publications since April 1, have amounted to more than forty-five million pages. The indebtedness of the society has been largely reduced since the last meeting.

WASHINGTON MATTERS.

Washington, 24th.—The Union of this morning contains an official list of confirmations; among them, Wm. H. Vesey, Consul at Havre; Henry B. Dewey, Consul at Para; Amos S. York, Consul at Zante; John C. Campbell of Alabama, Justice of the Supreme Court; Edward Lander, Ind., Chief Justice of the Territory of Washington; J. K. Marller of Ohio, and Victor Monroe, of Kentucky, Associate Justices of do.; Watson Freeman, Marshal of Mass.; Selah R. Hobbie, 1st Ass. P. M. Gen. Dudley Mann, under Sec. of State.; N. G. Upham, N. H., Joint Committee under the British treaty.

Washington, March 23.—The Senate to-day confirmed the Hon. Hugh Anderson, of Maine, Commissioner of Customs; Richard P. Hammond, Collector, and Philip A. Roach, Appraiser, at San Francisco; and Henry Wilton, Marshal of Illinois.

The President has nominated Nathaniel Hawthorne as U. S. Consul at Liverpool.

Thomas P. Pierce, a distant relative of the President, Postmaster at Hillsborough, N. H.; and Benj. Jackaway, Indian Agent, Choctaw Agency.

The Senate will propably adjourn finally on Monday.

The Census Bureau is about being reorganized. Its clerical force is to be increased to about 40, by re-instatements and perhaps new appointments.

FROM CUBA.

The Diario, of Havana, denies outright the alleged insults of the Governor General against the Vice President, Mr. King, and says, the Spanish authorities have a great deal more of respect for him, than those who put afloat such falsehoods about him. There is a general complaint in Havana against the falsehoods set afloat by some correspondent there.

The Diario, expresses the opinion that Mr. Pierce has excluded from his Cabinet (Todos los comedore de Fuego) all the Fire Eaters, such as Soule and Douglass. Mr. Marcy is quoted as an "Old Fogy," but the editor confesses he can give his readers but little information about him—but thinks the new Ministry will faithfully follow the traditions of the Cabinet of Washington. Mr. Cushing is set down as a honorem, lawyer, writer, diplomat —and reported to be the only progressive man in the Cabinet.

An Havana letter of March 16th, to the N.Y. Tribune, says:—The President's address has not been received; it is said that it will not be allowed to come through the post office. Neither the Tribune nor any paper giving news are allowed to be circulated; they are all stopped in the post office.

SEA TIGER.—A correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce announces the capture inside the beach, a quarter of a mile from the light house, of a live Sea Tiger, weighing 145 pounds, and measuring 5 feet 2 inches in length. When discovered he howled most piteously, and made battle with a dog, which he severely wounded. Nothing of this species was ever seen before on this end of Long Island Sound.

AIR LINE.—Mr. Alsop, President of the New York and Boston Railroad Company, has given notice that "the Woonsocket Union Railroad Company, in the state of Rhode Island, has been merged in that of the New York and Boston Railroad Company, and that the whole road is under contract, to be graded for a double track. The contract has been taken by A. C. Morton and his associates, and the road will be completed in the earliest possible time." The work will be commenced on several parts of the road in about two weeks, and the whole is to be completed, according to the contract, by the first of January, 1856.

DECLINE IN PROVISIONS.—Yesterday and the day previous, mess pork sold in this market at $14 and 14.25, and No. 1 Lard in barrels at 8 1-2 a 8 5-8 cents. These prices shew a falling off from the highest rates of the season, of $3.25 and 3.50 per barrel on pork, and of 2 cents per pound on lard. The highest sale of bulk meats, hog round, we believe was 7 1-4 cents, and the last about equal to 6 and 6 1-4 cents. The decline of barrel pork and lard has been greater in proportion than that of bulk meats.

We believe it is generally conceded that New York has to make the market this season. New Orleans and the South will do but little towards consuming 2,000,000 of hogs.—The next thirty days will therefore tell with some degree of certainty how far New York and the balance of the world will "dip in," at present or advanced rates. Of one thing there is very little doubt—the East has to provide for the consumption and the pay, or the Western "fat is in the fire."—St. Louis News, March 12.

FAIR WEATHER DEMOCRATS.—A correspondent asks:—"Who is Mr. N. S. Dodge, to whom the consulship of Glasgow is assigned by the papers?" All we know of the gentleman is derived from a passage in the Washington correspondence of the N. Y. Tribune, by which it appears that Mr. Dodge was a whig two years ago, but has repented of his errors of opinion, and is willing to prove his sincerity by accepting a good office from a democratic administration. We would contract to furnish such democrats by the legion. They are numerous as rats in a granary. Perhaps, however, the Tribune is not just to Mr. Dodge, and he may be among the worthiest of men.—Boston Times.

SLANDER CASE.—In the New York Supreme Court, a case has been tried of Richard G. Towles vs. Henry C. Bowen. The plaintiff was formerly a clerk in the employ of the defendant's firm—Bowen & McNamee. The alleged slander was in relation to the plaintiff's conduct while a clerk in the house of the defendant. The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff, damages $6000.

LAST DAY IN THIS CITY.

H. K. ROOT, A.M., M. D.

Will remain

AT THE FRANKLIN HOUSE,

THIS DAY and Evening only, as he will leave the City on Saturday morning, positively

Consumption not Fatal if properly treated.

DR. H. K. ROOT, the celebrated Lung and Consumption Physician, author of the 'People's Medical Lighthouse,' inventor of the Infallible Lung Barometer, from 512 Broadway, N. Y., invites the attention of the sick and afflicted, laboring under any of the various forms of disease, such as Coughs, Ulcerated or Tuberculous Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Pain in the Chest, Shoulders, Sides or Back, Bleeding Lungs, Chronic Catarrh, Night Sweats, Nervous Complaints, Palpitation, Ossification or Dropsy of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Chronic Diarrhœa, Incidental Weakness peculiar to Females, Cancers, Tumors, Scrofulous Affections, Deafness, Insanity, Fits, Paralysis, Spinal Deformity, Gravel, Fistula, Costiveness, and all Cutaneous Eruptions, and poisonous Inoculations and Humors of the Blood. He does not make sick to make well, nor tear down to build up; but persons under his care can pursue their regular business, while the work of cleansing and purifying the system is going on. His theory is, that all diseases arise directly or indirectly from an impure state of the blood. The language of scripture is—

"The life of the flesh is the blood thereof."—Gen. ix: 4.

"For the BLOOD is the LIFE."—Deut. xii: 21.

And he also believes that the remedies furnished by nature are the only ones which can produce a speedy and permanent cure. There never was a disease but had its VEGETABLE antidote. And in this opinion he is sustained by scripture—

David said—"Purge me with hyssop and I shall be made clean."—Psalms LI: 7.

Paul said—"The weak eat the herbs."—Rom. xiv: 2.

St. John said—"The leaves of the tree were for healing of the nations."—Rev. xxii: 2.

DR. ROOT is not a believer in the "one cure alls." As well might a locksmith make a key to fit all varieties of locks, or the druggist compound all his medicines in one, and use it for all complaints.

The sick wishing to avail themselves of skill and experience in the healing art, are invited to call at the Franklin House.

LYON'S KATHAIRON FOR THE HAIR

LYON'S KATHAIRON,

For Preserving, Restoring & Beautifying the Hair,

CAUSING it to grow luxuriantly, and giving it a soft and curling appearance, of the most delightful character. The KATHAIRON neutralises the effects of disease, climate, and old age, in preserving and restoring the Human Hair, even after a Baldness of many years,—cleanses the scalp from Dandruff, and its natural impurities,—immediately relieves sympathetic attacks of Nervous Headache, and cures all cutaneous diseases of the skin, such as Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Itch, &c.

AS A TOILET ARTICLE,

For giving the Hair a rich, soft, glossy and curling appearance, nothing has been discovered to compare with its incontested—its incontestible virtues. It imparts the fragrance of the most delightful and exotic flowers, and is free from all mineral properties, or any substance which can color the skin, or stain a lady's hat.

FOR BALD OR GREY HEADS

It is pre-eminently beneficial. "The Kathairon restored my hair after a baldness of 12 years. A. J. COCHRANE, 76 Bond-st. N.Y." This admirable preparation can be had of all reputable dealers, throughout North and South America, and the Islands of the Ocean, in large bottles, for 25 cents.

JUDGE SHEPLEY AND THE MAINE LAW.—The following opinion of Chief Justice Shepley was concurred in by a full bench of the Supreme Court of Maine. It covers the whole ground of the law. Seizure, forfeiture, and destruction. Read it.

"The State, by its legislative enactments, operating prospectively, may determine that articles injurious to the public health or to morals, shall not constitute property within its jurisdiction. It may come to the conclusion that spirituous liquors, when used as a beverage, are productive of a great variety of ills to the people, both in their individual and in their social relations. That the least use of them for such a purpose is injurious, and suited to produce, by a greater use, serious injury to the comfort, morals and health; and common use of them for such a purpose, operates to diminish the productiveness of labor; to injure the health; to impose upon the people addition and unnecessary burdens; to produce waste of time and property; to introduce disorder, and disobedience to law; and to disturb the peace, and to multiply crimes of every grade. Such conclusions would be justified by the experience and history of man. If a Legislature declare that no person shall acquire any property in them, for such a purpose, there would be no occasion for any complaint that it had violated any provision of the Constitution.

When a man is called "a successful humbug," the general feeling is not so much indignation because he is a humbug, as envy because he is successful.

Coal Burners

OF a new and elegant pattern, designed for the parlor, hall, or office, may be found at CHAPMAN'S TIN WARE FACTORY.

In simplicity of construction, beauty of outline, and style of finish, it is unsurpassed by any Coal Stove in the market. It is so constructed that the entire contents of the grate can be instantly discharged into the ash-pan while the stove is closed air-tight, so that no dust can escape into the room to the annoyance of persons or damage of furniture. Its exterior model is of the most chaste and faultless character, rendering it by for the most attractive stove that can be introduced into the parlor or sitting room. THE FAT MAN AND BLAKE THE ACTOR.

Who does not know William Rufus Blake, formerly acting manager of the Walnut street theatre, Philadelphia, now of Wallack's Lyceum, New York, the greatest Sir Harcourt Courtly off the stage, with a tinge of Dazzle's peculiarities? Mr. Blake is apt to plume himself upon his good looks and irresistible exterior, treating the fairer portion of creation to a view of his fascinations, weather and asthma permitting. Touching this peculiarity of Mr. Blake, we have a story to relate of him, which is an apt illustration, and at the same time rather funny.

A lady living in one of the streets of New York, not far from the Broadway theatre, had in her employ an Irish servant girl, who was not a particularly remarkable specimen of feminine acumen at any time, and who was especially dumb as to the idiomatical phrases peculiar to the latitude of Gotham. Thus a soap fat scavenger is, in New York, "for short" called a "fat man." And it is not to be wondered at that when on the occasion of which we purpose speaking, Biddy, when told by her mistress to go forth and bring a "fat man" to the house, should have slightly mistaken the meaning intended to be conveyed.

But off Biddy walked down Broadway in search of the "fat man," as she had been commanded. Now, it so happened that Mr. Blake, who is exceedingly rotund in person, chanced to be standing in company with several others belonging to the theatrical profession, on the steps of the Broadway theatre, to which he was at the time professionally attached. Biddy came down near the theatre, and seeing Mr. Blake, at once concluded him to be the very man she was in search of; so she approached him with a countenance full of joy, and touched his elbow in order to attract his attention.

"Av ye plaze, sur," began she, with a courtesy, "av ye plaze, sur, me mistress tould me to come and get ye."

"What?" demanded Blake, not exactly understanding the business.

"Sure, sir," said Biddy, "me mistress, who lives around the corner beyant there, jist, tould me to come and bring ye to her immedjetly."

"Who is she? What does she want with me?" asked Blake, pulling up his collar and setting his chin in his cravat.

"Faith sur," returned the girl, "divil a wan o' me knows what she wants, at all, but she tould me to bring ye, an' ye must go."

"Is she a lady, and young?"

"To be sur she is."

"Pretty?"

"Faix ye may say that," answered Biddy.

Blake turned round to his companion with an air of deprecation, or as much as to say, "You see what a killing fellow I am among the ladies. They don't give me a moment's peace." After which he turned to the girl and signified his readiness to follow her.

Arrived at the house, Mr. Blake was forthwith ushered into the presence of Biddy's mistress, who looked at him, wondering who the mischief he was, and what the mischief he wanted.

Mr. Blake bowed in the politest manuer, and thought the lady who had evinced such a flattering predilection for his society, was very charming.

"You see I've brought him, ma'am," said Biddy, seeing that some explanation appeared necessary.

"Who?" asked the mistress.

"The fat man, ma'am, as you told me."

The lady burst into a laugh, and then, fearing an unpleasant termination, turned to the astonished Blake and said, "I see, sir, you have been the victim of an error on the part of the servant. I desired her to bring me a fat man—meaning some one to remove the waste of the kitchen—and she, thinking my words implied what they literally expressed, has brought you! I regret—"

But Blake waited to hear no more. He was off with an agility which, considering his weight and years, was really wonderful.—Peabody's Chronicle.

APPOINTMENT OF MILITARY MEN.—The Washington correspondent of the New York Commercial, says:

"It has been a matter of remark that a large number of the appointments are either of military men, who served in the Mexican war, or of men whose influence was derived from military services.

Thus, Major Isaac T. Stevens, of Massachusetts, a Lieutenant in the Topographical Engineers, but who, for his services, was complimented with two brevets, one of Captain and one of Major, was appointed Governor of the new Territory of Washington. Major Stevens took some part, at one time, in the Presidential contest, in favor of his friend Mr. Pierce, and was censured for it by Mr. Conrad, the Secretary of War. Major Stevens, it appears, contemplated a resignation of his commission on that account. Civil appointments have rarely been made, heretofore, from the army, but it will be no rare matter hereafter. There is an increasing disposition to call military men into civil service Major Stevens is an able man, as well as a strong political partizan.

General Jackson, himself a prominent instance of the civil advancement of a military man, appointed brevet Brigadier General McNeil, the brother-in-law of President Pierce, the Surveyor of the Port of Boston, which was a matter of some surprise at the time.—But hereatter, this will be a matter of fixed policy, and the road to civil distinction will be through the military drill. The office assigned to Major Stevens was eagerly sought for by the most eminent of the Western politicians."

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.
PORTSMOUTH:
SATURDAY, MARCH 26, 1853.

DR. DANA, & THEODORE PARKER.

We find the following scrap in the Portland Transcript:

"SAVAGE.—Theodore Parker said in a recent sermon on the "Power of the Human Will"—"To this day, the dead hand of John Calvin holds New England Orthodoxy by the throat!" We havn't heard anything more expressive in a long time."

It is truly expressive, and indeed almost savage; but, (begging Mr. Parker's pardon,) if correctly reported, it shows that Mr. P. is not exactly "posted up," in his knowledge of what New England Orthodoxy actually is, at the present time.

To show that we are not "talking without book," we will introduce the venerable and reverend Doctor Dana of Newburyport, who has just published a pamphlet entitled, "A Remonstrance addressed to the Trustees of Phillips Academy, on the state of the Theological Seminary under their care, September, 1849. By Daniel Dana, D. D." It is a startling production; and coming as it does from a venerable father in Israel, who, in 1849, had been forty-five years a member of the Board.

The remonstrance was presented (without publication) by the author to the Trustees, at the time of its date; and he admits that it was not treated with entire neglect. It was (so we understand the case) referred to a committee, whose report, made and accepted after a period of two years, was, in his view, entirely unsatisfactory; and since his suggestions have been followed by no correspondent action on their part, he has felt himself justified in this form of appeal to the Christian community. He therefore now publishes the "Remonstrance," with appropriate additions.

Dr. D. quotes the provisions of the Constitution of the Seminary, which require "that every Professor in it shall be a man of sound and orthodox principles, according to the system of doctrines denominated the Westminster Assembly's Shorter Catechism. Every Professor must, on the day of his inauguration, publicly make and subscribe a solemn declaration of his faith in divine Revelation, and in the doctrines of the Assembly's Catechism. He must solemnly promise to defend and inculcate the Christian faith as thus expressed, in opposition to all contrary doctrines and heresies. He must repeat the declaration and promise at the close of every five years; and should he refuse this, or should he teach or embrace any of the proscribed heresies or errors, he shall be forthwith removed from office."

He then inquires whether these views have been carried out—whether the orthodox character which the Seminary bore for many of its first years, is still maintained; whether the preachers whom in recent years it has sent forth have presented distinct and lucid exhibitions of human depravity, of regeneration, of the atonement, of justification by faith, of the nature of experimental and saving religion. He readily concedes that numbers have thus preached; "but they are in the minority—a minority still decreasing from year to year."

Nothing that we can say, would add any force to this. Dr. Dana well knows what the state of things was, fifty years ago—and no one knows better than he, how much it has changed. According to his account, the view of Mr. Parker is not an accurate picture of the present time.

EASTER SUNDAY.

To-morrow will be Easter, the day on which the Christian church commemorates our Savior's resurrection. It is called by the Greeks Pasga; and by the Latins Pascha, a Hebrew word, signifying passage, applied to the Jewish feast of the Passover. It is called Easter in English, from the Saxon goddess Eostre, whose festival was held in April. The Asiatic churches kept their Easter upon the very same day that the Jews observed their passover, and others on the first Sunday after the first full moon in the new year. This controversy was determined in the council of Nice, when it was ordained that Easter should be kept upon one and the same day, which should always be Sunday, in all Christian churches in the world.

"Easter Day," says an Episcopal writer, "is accounted one of the greatest and highest festivals of the year—and is observed to commemorate the Resurrection of our blessed Savior from the dead, which we ought to conform ourselves to, by rising from the death of sin to the life of righteousness. The resurrection of Christ is indeed commemorated every Sunday, which is therefore by St. John in the Revelation called the Lord's Day."

LOOSE GUESSING.—Gen. Lewis Cass, in a communication, is represented to be about 80 years old—but he is scarcely 71.

SPRING, the murderer of the two women at Philadelphia, has been found "guilty of murder in the first degree," by the jury.

THE DESMOND FAMILY.

We have been greatly interested in studying some characters depicted by M'Gee, in his Reformation on Ireland. Among them are the Desmond Family. Queen Elizabeth, as is well known to readers who are versed in English History, procured acts of parliament, prescribing oaths of supremacy, and insisting upon strict conformity in church matters.

Among the most strenuous opponents of these protestant edicts in Ireland, were the Desmond family.

Desmond was guilty of three offences against the queen's majesty—his immense estate, his marriage of a daughter of O'Brien, and his hospitality to Leverus, the "recusant" Bishop of Kildare. To complete his guilt, he refused to take the oaths. The Eart of Ormond and Sir William Drury were, in turn, commanders of the southern army sent to chastise him.

He had, however, sufficient influence to get a special bull from Rome, granting indulgence to all who would take up arms under him.—Under this bull eight hundred Spanish and Italians landed in Ireland, and with the Irish entrenched themselves in the fort del Oro, which by some treachery and misunderstanding, was surrendered to the English, by whom, (says O'Daly,) the entire garrison were put to the sword, excepting only the Spanish commander.

Sir Walter Raleigh, then in his thirty-fifth year, and already favored by his queen, won his first laurels and several thousands of Desmond's acres, by superintending the details of the massacre after the surrender of the fort Del Oro. This date is November 9, 1587.

In the same year, John of Desmond was surprised and slain near Imokilly, and soon after Elizabeth published an amnesty to all who were in arms, except the brotherless earl and two of his allies. The outlawed Desmond, defeated in his attempts to raise another insurrection, was assassinated in a forest in Kerry, in the month of December. He was the last of his line who exercised sovereignty over South Munster, from the Blackwater to the Shannon.

The fate of this illustrious family is worth summing up. We have seen the earl and his two brothers die by the sword. A fourth, Thomas, had previously died on his bed.—They all had children; but one only apostatized—the earl's son, from his childhood a hostage in London. The sons of James and John being abroad, and the son of the earl a hostage, the son of Thomas was elected chief. Elizabeth, thereupon, released the young earl, who, on entering Kilmallock, his father's town, was received with acclamations, the people showering wheat and salt on him from the housetops, emblematic of the safety and plenty they wished him. The Sunday following, they were surprised to see him turn his steps towards the heretical church, from which they strove to dehort him. He persisted, however; but on coming out, they hooted and spat upon him. From that day he never was followed or spoken of by name in Desmond.

Thomas, taken captive, after a confinement of seven years in the Tower of London, died in his chains.

The two sons of James, educated at Alcala, perished in the Armada of 1588, upon the Galway coast.

Another James, shipwrecked in Scotland, escaped to Spain. He was created count there, at the instance of the grand inquisitor, O'Daly, a clansman of his ancestors. Charged with the defence of a Spanish town, he refused to surrender it to the French, and was starved to death. His descendants, so late as the middle of the last century, were historical men in Spain.

So perished this illustrious Catholic family, whose once fertile principality, in contending for the faith, was "reduced to a heap of carcasses and ashes."

NEW HAMPSHIRE MEN.—We gave the best evidence possible, that we did not intend to misrepresent the Capital Reporter, by publishing the whole article, on New Hampshire men's being appointed to office in Massachusetts. On this we merely put a construction, in a few plain words. We could not make any thing else of it, except that New Hampshire Democrats, being always victorious, deserved some of the best spoils—while those in Massachusetts, (poor fellows,) who were always beaten, had no better right to offices in their own State than we have, and on the whole, not quite so good.

THE BIRDS.—"This little fellow," said Martin Luther, of a bird going to roost, "has chosen his shelter, and is quietly rocking himself to sleep without a care for to-morrow's lodging, calmly holding by his little twig, and leaving God alone to think for him."

The Savior, in the gospel, teaches the disciples to do the same; and he was, doubtless, much more wise than any, who in this day, teach the contrary.

A coroner's jury in Boston, on the body of Michael Noble, have found the following verdict, viz:—

That Michael Noble came to his death on the 17th day of March, A. D. 1853, about one o'clock A. M., at the North watch-house, on Hanover street, in the city of Boston, in consequence of a mortal wound inflicted upon him at about half-past ten o'clock P. M., the same night, with a knife or some sharp instrument in the hand of one Josiah York, which knife or other sharp instrument penetrated the heart; and the jurors farther say that said Noble received said wound while he was upon the stairs of a cellar situated on the corner of Richmond and North streets, kept by one Michael Riley.

York was arraigned on Thursday, and committed for trial on a full charge of murder; and Riley and four others, being unable to give bail for their future appearance, were also committed so jail.

Court of Common Pleas—Adj. Term.

EXETER, March 25.

Case 6, Kendall vs. Fitts, was arrested last evening by a motion of Mr. Christie for a non suit, on the ground that Piff. had not shown a change of possession of the property attached, as against the creditors of the vendor. The motion was argued this morning by Mr. Christie in affirmation, and Mr. Marston in opposition—motion overruled. The case occupied the remainder of the forenoon, when it was continued in order to obtain the testimony of the Deft. now absent. It will probably be taken up to-morrow morning.

Case 54. J. Lamprey vs. Nudd is now on trial. This action is founded on a writ of entry.

THE MENDELSSOHN QUINTETTE CLUB, with Mrs. Emma A. Wentworth, are to give a Chamber Concert, Vocal and Instrumental, at the Cameneum, on Monday evening next.

The performances of the Quintette Club are said to be among the best; and there will be a particular desire, on this occasion, among our citizens, to hear Mrs. Wentworth, whose musical reputation has come back to make us glad of her success, and sorry that we have lost her. [See advertisement.]

The Boston Times says that if the boring power of office seekers could only be applied to the Hoosac Mountain, there would be daylight seen through the rock in six weeks.—They are the embodiment of the immoral sublime.

NORTH CAROLINIANS IN THE NAVY DEPARTMENT.—Four North Carolinians have been called to the Navy Department since 1829: John Branch appointed by Gen. Jackson; Mr. Badger, by Gen. Harrison; Mr. Graham, by Mr. Fillmore, and Mr. Dobbin, by Gen. Pierce.

Father Gavazzi, the Roman patriot, was received at the Tabernacle in New York on Wednesday evening with much enthusiasm, and addressed the audience in English. He said he was not a converted priest, but a seceder priest, and no protestant, and he asked only for republican sympathy in behalf of oppressed Italy. Rev. Drs. Cox and Cheever spoke on the occasion.

The Catholics of Boston are about to erect several new churches. Bishop Fitzpatrick is contemplating the erection of a grand cathedral in the centre of the city. The German Catholics have purchased a lot of land on the Neck, near Blackstone square, upon which they purpose building a chapel. Rev. Mr. McIlroy, of the Endicott street Catholic church, has purchased a portion of the old jail estate, on Leverett street, at a cost of $59,291 40, and he intends to build a church on the site, for the accommodation of the West End Catholics. Another church is to be erected on the South Cove, for the convenience of the Catholics of that region. We understand that Bishop Fitzpatrick's house, on Federal street, is for sale.

CAUSES OF INSANITY.—The report of the superintendent of the Maine Asylum for the Insane, gives the following as the causes of the insanity of the present inmates: "Five to epilepsy, eight to intemperance, one to death of a son, two to a blow on the head, thirteen to ill-health, three to embarrassment in business, one to deafness and sepuala of scarlatina, 2 to change of puberty, 1 to sickness of daughter, one to perplexity of business, two to religious excitement, one to fright, one to change of life, two to disappointed affection, one to disappointment in business, one to masturbation, one to general paralysis, two to metastasis of rheumatism to the brain, and in thirty-three cases nothing tangible or satisfactory could be learned which seemed to produce the disease.

Of all the above cases, forty-two possessed the germs of insanity by inheritance.

FEARFUL EXPLOSION.—The locomotive Orford, connected with the freight train for the Androscoggin and Kennebec Railroad, which left here yesterday morning, between 8 and 8 o'clock, when within about a mile of the Danville junction, burst her boiler, shivering the machine to atoms. She was on an up-grade, on a curve, attached to a long and very heavy train, and at the time had on the full steam which which she is intended to carry, viz: 120 pounds to the square inch.—Messrs. S. Stowe, conductor, Francis Frank, engineer, and George Hilborn, fireman, were on the engine, but fortunately, they were warned of their danger by the steam and water rushing out from around the throttle, and sprang back upon the tender. The engineer, however, probably thinking to get at the escape valve, and save the engine and his companions, nobly sprang back in the midst of the cloud of steam which was issuing from around the throttle, just as the explosion took place. He was whirled into the air several yards, and fell into a ditch near by. He was taken up for dead, but on being bathed with cold water, revived; his face is severely cut, and his eyes are blackened with cinders and ashes, so as nearly deprive him of sight, but otherwise to appearance he is not very seriously injured. The fireman was also blown into the air, but fell upon one of the box cars, from which he rolled off upon the miry ground. A piece of iron was driven by the explosion into the back of his hand. This he extracted himself, and, although the wound is pretty severe, he received no other injury. The conductor escaped without a bruise.

The explosion was louder than that of a cannon, and the fragments of the engine are scattered over a space many hundred yards in extent. The Oxford was one of the oldest machines on the road.

The engineer was left at the house of a neighboring farmer, but the others came to the city in the passenger train.—Portland Advertiser.

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

Washington, March 25.—The President yesterday nominated John Slidel, of Louisiana Minister to Central America; Joseph Laire, Collector of Pensacola; Mr. Humphries, of Tennessee, Judge of that State.

The Senate confirmed Mr. Moneypenny, of Ohio, Commissioner of Indian Affairs; Judge Mason of Iowa, Commissioner of Patents. Also a considerable number of Postmasters, Registers, and Receivers of Land Offices.—They also debated an Indian treaty

The five examiuers appointed to investigate the affairs of the Census office, have reparted work enough yet to employ fifty clerks, until next session of Congress at least.

We hear of several removals of clerks in the different departments.

Charleston, March 23.—The severe storm of the 17th inst. proved very disastrous to roads and bridges and plantations in Alabama.

The brggage car attached to the passenger trains on the Columbia Railroad took fire on Wednesday, when three miles from Columbia, by which nearly all the baggage was destroyed.

A collision occurred on the railroad yesterday. Charles D. Schoonmaker, engineer, and Newton Gilmore, fireman, were instantly killed.

At Brooklyn, N. Y., on Tuesday evening, a fire broke out in an old stable, and spread to a row of frame buildings; fifteen houses were burnt, with about all their furniture; loss variously estimated. Three persons had bad falls from roofs and ladders, and one is not expected to survive.

FIRES.—On Wednesday night, fire broke out in the iron foundry of Messrs. Ranstead, Dearborn & Co., at Commercial Point, Dorchester, and the flames spreading rapidly, the whole establishment, together with much valuable stock and the tools, was speedily destroyed. The loss is estimated at about $45,000, on which there is $15,000 insurance at the Ætna Office, Hartford, Conn.

SUICIDE.—Abner Drake, Esq., of Stoughton, Mass., hung himself in his barn, Wednesday morning, at about three o'clock. It is said that insanity was the cause of the act, as Mr. Drake had been in a very depressed state of mind for several years, and had often expressed fears that such might be his end. He was a much respected citizen.

WILD DUCKS.—Col. Jaques, who resides at the Ten Hill Farm in Medford, has a novel way of obtaining wild ducks. Yesterday he had an accession of ten to his flock. Last fall almost thirty wild ducks were ensnared in Maine and captured alive; their wings were clipped to prevent their escape, and thus they gradually became domesticated. Col. Jaques, who is a naturalist as well as an excellent farmer, purchased them and carried them to his farm, where they were at liberty to roam over acres of marsh and upland; they became accustomed to his call, and do not now manifest the least disposition to emigrate. If a stranger enters the yard, they manifest the utmost alarm and make an attempt to fly. By their peculiar call, and the freedom which they enjoy to traverse the margin of the Mystic river and the marshes, they attract other wild ducks, which make a shy descent and remain for a time, and then take to flight, but not being alarmed, repeat their visits; then they lay their eggs, and finally become accustomed to the call of the Colonel, who will not suffer them to be molested, and remain upon the premises. Yesterday ten ducks came from ponds in Medford, and are now on his premises.—Boston Chronicle 24th.

DESPERATE LEAP.—A fire occurred at Richmond, on Sunday night, which destroyed the factory of Grant & Bennett and two other buildings. A slave, who had volunteered to assist in putting out the flames, ascended to the fourth story of the factory, and finding himself nearly suffocated, attempted to get out, but found that the staircase was in a blaze. All chance of descent was cut off, and he leaped from the window to the ground, a distance of over fifty feet. He came down feet foremost, struck upon his feet, and fell upon his face. No bones were broken, and he only suffered from the jar of the fall.

Sir Horsley Palmer, formerly Governor of the Bank of England, in a letter to a house in New York, gives his opinion that the amount of gold dust to be received from Australia during this year, will not be less than twenty million pounds sterling. He expects to see money as abundant, and at as low rates of interest as it has yet been known in England, various causes co-operating to induce him to come to this conclusion.

COL. BENTON AND THE CABINET.—The Missouri Democrat contradicts most peremptorily the report that Mr. Benton had expressed any hostility towards any of the members of the new Cabinet.

EDWARD THOMPSON, for many years one of the most extensive and successful East India merchants of Philadelphia, died on Sunday. His age was 82.

Mr. Wm. W. Bouck, says the Schoharie Republican, on his 68th birth day, which occurred last month, shot a turkey at the first fire, at a distance of 65 rods.

The city of Mexico, with a population of 60,000, supports but one apothecary's shop. Persons are rarely ill there.

Corporal White made an unsuccessful attempt to shoot Major Pemberton at Fort Hamilton on Tuesday.

By the burning of Vanhorn's shop at Feeding Hills, Mass., 70,000 cigars were all smoked at once; insured $600.

NAVAL.—U. S. ship Saratoga, W. S. Walker commander, was at Hong Kong Jan. 10.

☞ Jeremiah Humphrey, of East Boston, was put in jail on Friday, charged with assaulting Thomas Hussey, who will probably die of the injury. The men were fellow workmen in the Glendon Rolling Mills.

LYON'S KATHAIRON,
For Preserving, Restoring & Beautifying the Hair,

CAUSING it to grow luxuriantly, and giving it a soft and curling appearance, of the most delightful character. The KATHAIRON neutralises the effects of disease, climate, and old age, in preserving and restoring the Human Hair, even after a Baldness of many years,—cleanses the scalp from Dandruff, and its natural impurities,—immediately relieves sympathetic attacks of Nervous Headache, and cures all cutaneous diseases of the skin, such as Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Itch, &c.

AS A TOILET ARTICLE,

For giving the Hair a rich, soft, glossy and curling appearance, nothing has been discovered to compare with its incontested—its incontestible virtues. It imparts the fragrance of the most delightful and exotic flowers, and is free from all mineral properties, or any substance which can color the skin, or stain a lady's hat.

FOR BALD OR GREY HEADS

It is pre-eminently beneficial. "The Kathairon restored my hair after a baldness of 12 years. A. J. COURTMUN, 76 Bond-st. N.Y." This admirable preparation can be had of all reputable dealers throughout North and South America, and the Islands of the Ocean, in large bottles, for 25 cents.

ORIGIN OF FOOLSCAP.—Every school boy knows what foolscap paper is, but we doubt whether one in a hundred, that daily use it, can tell why it was so called.

When Oliver Cromwell became Protector after the execution of Charles I., he caused the stamp of the cap of liberty to be placed upon the paper used by the government.—Soon after the restoration, Charles II., having occasion to use some paper for despatches, some of this Government paper was brought to him. On looking at it and discovering the stamp he inquired the meaning of it, and on being told, he said, "Take it away, I'll have nothing to do with a fool's cap."

The EXPULSION OF REFUGEES FROM BRITAIN.—Foreign papers report, that the Prussian and Austrian governments had resolved to demand the expulsion of Kossuth and Mazzini from London, and in this they would be joined by France, under a threat that all three of the powers would withdraw their ministers if the request was refused.—They say that the life of no sovereign in Europe is safe, while England harbors such men. The London Times declares in reply, that England is the asylum for all nations; that it will defend that asylum to the last ounce of its treasure, and the last drop of its blood; that Louis Napoleon, the Prince of Prussia, Prince Metternich of Austria, and other royal and princely fugitives, have been glad to find shelter there before this, and gently hints that the day may not be far distant when those who now wish to abolish this santuary of Europe, may themselves be among the proscribed and persecuted glad to find the same protection they would deny to Kossuth and Mazzini

STORY OF A HUMORIST.

Well, I have seen your friend, and find him to be exactly what you described him as being—a humorist. He seems to have imparted much of that character to every thing around him, His servants are all admirably disciplined to second his whims, and his very furniture is for the most part, adapted to the same purpose. This put me on my guard; and there was hardly anything in the room that I did not touch with apprehension. No trick however was practised upon me; and as I found subsequently, I was indebted for such indulgence to one which was reserved for me at night, and which was such as perhaps all my English phlegm would not have enabled me to bear with patience. I escaped however being put to the proof, by the merest accident—the arrival of a poor Scotch surveyor, who was thought a fitter subject for the often repeated experiment.

The Scotchman was treated with extreme hospitality; he was helped to everything to excess; his glass was never allowed to stand full or empty for one minute. The potations were suspended not until, and only while the cloth was laying for supper, during and after which they were resumed with renovated energy. Our entertainer was like the landlord described by Addison; the liquor seemed to have no other effect upon him than upon any other vessel in the house. It was not so with this Scotch guest, who was by this time much farther advanced upon the cruise of intoxication than half seas over.

In this state he was conducted to his chamber—a fine lofty Gothic apartment with a bedstead that seemed coeval with the building, I say seemed; for that was by no means the case, it being in reality a modern piece of structure. It was of dark mahogany, with its four posts extending completely to the ceiling of the chamber. The bed, however, was not more than two feet from the floor, the better to enable the party to get into it. The Scotchman with a good deal of assistance, was soon undressed and had his body deposited in this place of repose. All the party then retired, wishing him a good night, and removing the candle for fear of accidents.

When the door was closed, I was, for the first time, made acquainted with the structure of the bedstead, which our host considered as his masterpiece. Upon the touching of a spring, outside the door, the bed was so acted upon by a pulley, that it ascended slowly and smoothly through the four posts, until it came within two or three feet of the ceiling. The snoring of the Scotchman was the signal for touching the spring, and he was soon at the proper altitude.

The servants required no instructions how to act. In one moment the house was in an uproar; cries of "fire! fire!" were heard in different directions. A pile of shavings was set in a blaze opposite the window where poor Sawney slept. The landlord's voice was continually heard, exclaiming, "Good heavens! save the poor Scotch gentleman, if possible; the flames have got into the room just under him!"

At this moment, we heard him fall, and bellow out. A sudden silence took place; every light was extinguished, and the whole house seemed to be buried in the most profound repose. The Scotchman's voice could alone be heard, roaring out, in the high dialect of his country, for assistance.

At length two of the men servants, in their shirts, entered the room, with a candle just lit, and yawning, as if just aroused from their first sleep. They found him sprawling on the floor.

"Oh dear, sir, what is the matter with you?"

"Matter!" says he; "why, isn't the house on fire?"

"Not at all, sir."

"What was the reason of the cries of fire, then?"

"Bless you, sir, you must have been dreaming; why, there's not so much as a mouse stirring, and his honor and the whole family have been asleep these three hours."

The Scotchman now gave up all credit in the testimony of his own senses.

"I must ha' been dreaming, indeed, and ha' hurt myself by falling out of the bed."

"Hurt yourself, sir!—not much I hope, the bed is so low;" and by this time it had been made to descend to its first level.

The poor Scott was quite confused; quite ashamed at disturbing the family; begged a thousand pardons, accompanied the servants to the door, closed it after them, and was once more left in the dark.

But the last act of the pantomime was not performed. The spring had been immediately touched upon closing the door; and the bed was soon beyond the reach of our guest. We could hear him groping about, and uttering frequent ejaculations of astonishment. He easily found the bed-posts, but it was in vain he could endeavor to get in. He moved his hands up and down. His leg was often lifted by way of stepping in, but always encountered the floor in its descent. He uttered exclamations of surprise not loud, but deep, for fear of again disturbing the family. He concluded himself to be in the possession of some evil spirit.

In short, when it was found, by his silence, that he had given up the task as hopeless, and had disposed of himself upon one of the chairs, the bed was allowed to slide down again, and in the morning Sawney could not but express his astonishment at not being able to find it in the dark.—Extract of a letter written in 1792.

Morning Chronicle.
PORTSMOUTH:
MONDAY, MARCH 28, 1853.

CHANGE BILLS.

The Rhode Island Fractional Bills have got as far east as Portland. We have seen none of them here, as yet.

The State Capital Reporter trusts the legislature of New Hampshire will not authorize the issue of change bills, giving the following reasons :—

"Such a resort we believe would only make the matter worse, by driving from circulation what little specie remains. We believe the new coinage act which takes effect on the first of April will remedy the evil and save us from a flood of 'shin plasters' in the shape of twenty-five cent bills."

Old citizens of Concord will tell the Reporter, that our former 50 and 75-cent bills were no shin plasters, and had no such effect as driving off other change.

Other change became so plentiful that the bills were useless, and the banks redeemed and destroyed them. The banks of Portsmouth never issued them, and did not always receive them : they were issued from Concord and Haverhill. If the new coinage act makes change plentiful, as we really hope it may, there will be no absolute need of change bills. But if once in use, among us, as business is now transacted, they would be found so convenient as to become popular, like our other bank notes.

SPIRIT STATISTICS.

The Census returns show that 85,000,000 gallons of spirituous liquors are annually manufactured in this country. From this fact a larger amount of drinking has been inferred, we think, than actually exists.

The editors of the Boston Herald have obtained some statistical returns from nine distillers, in and near Boston, from which it appears that of 4,000,000 gallons manufactured in this city and vicinity, nearly 1,300,000 gallons are used for Burning Fluid, and more than a million gallons are consumed in the arts and sciences. About a million more are exported, leaving but about 700,000 gallons to be accounted for, as used for medicinal purposes and for a beverage.

It is not certain that the same proportions would hold good throughout the country, but if they did, then 12,375,000 gallons of liquor, must serve as drink for 23,000,000 of people, or a little more than half a gallon per capita.

This allotment seems to us incredibly small : nevertheless we give the statement as we find it, open of course, to correction from any quarter.

We regard the general diffusion of spirits for mechanical and other purposes, as presenting one of the greatest obstacles in the way of discovering and preventing their sale and consumption, for worse than useless purposes, viz. as a common drink.

ELECTION AND WASHING.

It is astonishing to see how firmly a few bigoted old fogies set themselves against every step of progress.

That staunch conservative print the Boston Courier, informs us that a correspondent after its own heart, a woman who belongs to that class of matrons now growing few and unfashionable, who believe in keeping up the supervision of her family affairs, in attending to the economical arrangements thereof, in looking after her children and scolding her servants, suggests that if the Constitution is changed so as to permit women to vote, the day of voting must also be changed, as Monday is washing-day throughout the commonwealth by universal acceptation, and women of her sober and humdrum qualities being unable to attend the polls on that day, will be entirely outvoted by the romantic and ambitious highflyers whose regards for women's rights is so much greater than their approval of woman's duties. It is therefore suggested that to preserve the rights of the minority, when the Constitution is altered so as to allow women to vote, Monday shall be abolished as a voting day in Massachusetts.

☞ Thomas Hussey, the man who was hurt in the Glendon Mill, East Boston, by Humphrey, died on Saturday. Humphrey is now charged with murder. He had previously quarrelled with another man, and Hussey, who was behind, said, "It was a pity to fight about a trifle"—whereupon Humphrey turned on him, and threw him violently down on a pile of iron, giving him a fatal wound. He richly deserves the most severe punishment.

"The last bit of gossip from Italy mentions the probable early marriage of Grace Greenwood with a wealthy and accomplished American, whom Grace captured in the British City."

"A GOOD HOLY WORK."

The Boston Chronicle, in speaking of the Maine law, in Maine itself, as about to be amended, says :

"Some of the best temperance men we know condemn as the worst foe to the cause, the present liquor law of that State. But the whole trouble lies there, as it does here in this ; gentlemen are afraid openly to avow their sentiments, lest they should be called rummies. They want Rev. gentlemen like Mr. Lovejoy—clergymen who dare avow their sentiments in the face of all the abuse that may be heaped upon them. * * *

But good men are arousing themselves all over the country, and the cry of rummy will hereafter be no cry to frighten and deter men from engaging in a good holy work—the promotion of temperance by legitimate means."

It would be gratifying to have the Chronicle point out what means are legitimate, in the promotion of temperance. The subject has occupied our minds to some extent, for many years, and we shall hail with joy any new light on the subject from any quarter.

The evils of intemperance are so great and fearful, and the approaches to it so easy and insidious,—that he who will show us what we can do to stay it, will indeed be a public benefactor.

"Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown."

Italy, Hungary, Austria, Naples,—all these, and more, by the last steamer, are witnesses to the truth that more thorns than roses form the couch of European royalty just now. The bitter experience of the common people in and after the last general outbreak, greatly discourages similar efforts. But the monstrous tyrannies, and the petty oppressions, practised by kings and priests, are such as to force the sufferers into rebellion and revolt, even with the most disheartening prospects.

We do not see any signs of good governments, moderately or partially free, in Europe, at present—but there are signs, visible to all, of restlessness and discontent, which ought to alarm all sovereigns and potentates there, who value either their crowns or their heads—both being in some danger.

☞ Messrs. Mathes & Varrell have a large stock of Forbes' patent Gutta Percha water Repellent, advertised in our columns. A friend calls it "the lazy man's blacking." It will give a fine polish, that's sure—whether without injury to the leather, as the wrapper guarantees, time will show.

It is high time somebody invented or concocted a polish for leather, in lieu of the filthy, troublesome paste blackings, and the destructive varnish blackings now in use—something which will last five minutes in the moisture and dust, and not keep a man half his time blacking his boots, ; and which will not, at the same time, kill "the cals." We hope this Repellent is such an article,—and mean to give it a fair trial.

PUTNAM'S MAGAZINE, No. 4, for April, is received from J. P. Morse. The contents are : New York Daguerreotyped, The Mill-Pond, Mary L. Ware, Our New Livery and other things, Life in a Canadian College, November—December, "Our own," A visit to Popocatepetl, Virginia in a Novel Form, How they Manage in Europe, The Ambassador in spite of himself, The Bourbon Question, Editorial Notes. All Americans should encourage this truly American publication,—the only one of the sort.

PRESIDENTIAL APPOINTMENTS.—The Washington correspondent of the N. Y. Evening Post says :

"The appointments of the President, you will perceive, are like his Cabinet, made without too implicit regard to the wishes of politicians. Clay, Webster, Fay, DeBow, Mann, Washington, and several others are of the Whig school. The politicians, of course, complain of this, as they do of the alleged preferences shown by the President to the military, and especially to Mexican campaigners. The consequence of this is, that all the Whig subordinates expect to stay in, and that people here invariably call each other colonel, or by some other warlike appellation."

A CURIOUS ABDUCTION.—The New York Evening Post states that Captain Genn, of the schooner Prospect, at that port from St. Johns, Porto Rico, lost his wife on the voyage under peculiar circumstances. A few days after leaving port the vessel was run into by another, when the crew, excepting one man, and the captain's wife and child, under the apprehension excited by the collision, jumped upon the latter, and threupon both vessels were instantly separated and could not come together again. The captain navigated his vessel safely into port, but the name of the vessel which carried off his wife and the crew, or where she was going, or what has become of them, he does not know. It is a singular case of abduction.

PATENTS—Issued from the United States Patent Office, bearing date March 22, 1853:—Wm. Mansfield of Dracut, Mass., for improvement in knitting machines; Seth D. Tripp of Rochester, Mass., assignor to Edward L. Norfolk of Salem, Mass., for improvement in machines for pegging boots and shoes.

PLAYING CARDS.—At one manufactory in New York over twenty one thousand packs of playing cards are manufactured daily. Few in this section have any idea how generally, among all nations, these playthings are used. In Spanish countries you can hardly meet a person who has not a pack in his pocket.

LOCAL.

CITY ACCOUNTS.

The annual pamphlet, better known by this name than any other, has just issued from the office of Mr. Whittem. It contains 64 octavo pages, and is much more convenient for preservation and reference than the quarto form.

Besides the receipts and expenditures of the city, the pamphlet contains Reports from the City Marshal—the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department—the Superintent of the Almshouse :—and four school Reports, viz., from the High School Committee and from the three District Committees.

The City Property, as appraised, amounts to $114,334.00.

Balance of City Debt, 47,648.16.

Decrease of City Debt within last year, 3,171.90.

The estimate of Taxes for 1853, is $38,556.65.

In the Overseer's Department, including the Town Farm, the amount appropriated the past year was 4,000.00.

of which there remains undrawn 1,314.34.

Paupers now at Almshouse 84 ; average for last year 91.

The High School Committee recommend new School Houses for the Boys' and Girls' High Schools. [We second this motion.—There ought to be no underground or dismal school rooms any where. A cellar or basement room will do for a bridewell—but all school rooms should be above ground, in the air and light.]

The Committee for District No. 2, allude to the pressing want of more and better school room, as the brick school house in Cabot street is much crowded and poorly ventilated, so that the atmosphere is most of the time impure and unhealthy.

The skill of the teachers, and the progress of the scholars, are favorably noticed. Number of scholars in the schools 2269.

THE CONCERT THIS EVENING.

The Concert by the Quintette Club, assisted by Mrs. Wentworth, at the Cameneum this evening, promises to be equal to any musical entertainment ever offered in this city. The artists engaged for the evening are well known to the entire musical community of the country, and need no special commendation from us ; yet we cannot refrain from urging upon our citizens the importance of filling the house, and demonstrating to the community that Portsmouth can boast of sufficient musical taste and skill to appreciate a first-class concert.

A very decided attraction is Mrs. Wentworth, a native of this city, who after receiving a thorough musical education from the best teachers, returns (by urgent request) to charm us with a voice as pure and sweet as ever fell upon the ear of mortal. Let the entire community turn out, and give her such a welcome as her superior merit deserves. ***

☞ On Friday afternoon, Mr. Reuben Rand, while hewing a stick of timber in the ship yard of Messrs. Tobey & Littlefield, received a severe cut on the inside of his leg above the knee, caused by a mis-stroke of his axe. A large artery was severed, which bled so freely that it was necessary to carry him home on a litter.

SPRING is the proper time of the year to purify the Blood, by taking Medicinal Bitters. We are ever taking sweet food into the stomach, forgetting that the system demands a proper amount of Bitter to counteract the sweet. Among the many articles in the market, none have proved better or of more efficacy than the following:

Dr. S. O. Richardson's Sherry Wine Bitters;
Dr. Pierce's Indian Restorative Bitters;
Dr. Langley's Root & Herb Bitters;
Dr. Atwood's Vegetable Jaundice Bitters

These Bitters are purely medicinal; and are not made for any other object and any person purchasing of the subscriber who is not satisfied, shall have the money returned.

LADIES' DRESS CAPS.—A fresh assortment just received by H. A. BIGELOW.

For the Chronicle.

TO C. L. D.—OUR FIRST CIGAR.

Some years ago, when hand in hand we ranged
The old woods, Charley,
About the time that "Mother Goose" was changed
For "Peter Parley,"
We smoked our first cigar, one day in spring,
When busy swallows were upon the wing.

A "short six" each—thus we began to learn
The art of puffing,
Although we knew our heedless ears would burn
And ache with cuffing.
Maternal lips had warned us many a time,
To keep untainted from the fragrant crime.

It mattered not—we smoked till we were sick—
Sick as the dying;
The sky spun round, the air grew hot and thick;
The earth seemed flying.
Like landsmen first upon the heaving sea—
So, heaving on a sea of flowers, were we.

Wide open was the green leaved book of May,
A lesson teaching,
Unheard by us; upon the grass we lay
Like linen bleaching.
Our cheeks vied with the blossoms falling from the tree,
Beneath whose shade we lay upon the lea.

But "sixes" now are changed for "principe,"
(As squibs for rockets)
And penny whifs, alas! now cost us three,
And try our pockets;
Still fields of smoke like arms about us close,
And like Nepenthe soothe our mortal woes.

To-night I watch from my cigar (the last)
The blue smoke curling;
I see the dusty banner of the past
Again unfurling,
And memory's finger points me to the day,
We smoked our first cigar in blooming May.

DAILY

PORTSMOUTH:
TUESDAY, MARCH 29, 1853.

For the Chronicle.

Recollections of Old Acquaintance.

BY UNCLE TOBY.

TRADERS IN OLD PAVED STREET.

EDWARD PARRY.—On a white marble tablet of not more than two feet square, on the front of a store in Market street, stands this inscription:—

"Burnt Decr. 26th, 1802, when 120 Buildings were destroyed, with other property to the amount of 300,000 dollars. Rebuilt, 1803, by Edward Parry."

This tablet, when placed there, was in the exact centre of a block of three uniform brick buildings, which are now no longer uniform. One of them has been burnt down and rebuilt; and the others have so frequently and variously altered, as to break up nearly all the symmetry of the block. But in the days when the sidewalks of old Paved street were wider than the carriage way, the exterior symmetry was complete and perfect; and the architecture (as Uncle Toby thought) was admirable. He thinks so still. The three stores were all of a size, and all large; the brick work was new and bright; the paint fresh, and the bow windows magnificent. They were all occupied for the sale of dry goods; and the stocks being large, made a good show.

Let us enter. In one of the stores, the door frame was finished with a counterfeit presentment of dry goods in packages of single pieces, carved in wood and painted, so as to make a very accurate representation of the goods sold within. In this, the northern store of the block, traded Edward Parry, the builder and owner of the whole, who was a native of Wales, and a man of some marked singularities of character. Phrenology was not brought out as a science then; but he must have had the bump of constructiveness large, and also that of symmetry, and of taste for the picturesque and beautiful, sometimes running almost into the grotesque and whimsical.

He had begun his business here under the emblematic sign of the Lamb and Flag. Pictures of these graced the newspapers of the day, and drew custom to his shop. But some envious native Americans, grieved or vexed at the success of an enterprising foreigner, had often suggested that the animal on the sign was no Lamb at all, but only a Welch Goat, which emigrated from its rocky home to find a better pasture in New England.

Parry was sensitive; some called him touchy—and he might abandon the sign because he felt offended by the sneer:—all we know about it is, that it gave place to the plain gilded sign and the carved door frame.

Inside, the room on the ground floor was filled with Dry Goods; and not only so, the second story was finished as a gallery, with a light open balustrade surrounding the opening, and the walls covered with shelves and filled with goods, as showy as those below.—A light staircase led from one to the other; and when customers and clerks were passing round in both, the scene was quite lively and beautiful. Uncle Toby thought it the ne plus ultra of dry goods stores to look at; though he never went in, as he bought his shoes and clothes of Henry Haven and Timothy Upham.

Mr. Parry's constructiveness did not wholly expend itself on one block of stores, nor was his taste satisfied with only so much of the beautiful as could be seen at his store, inside and outside. His house on Pleasant street, at the corner of Edward, (which was named in his honor.) was finished, furnished and arranged to suit his peculiar taste. His garden in the rear, extending to the South Mill Pond, was furnished with all manner of trees pleasant to the eye and good for food.

He did not feel quite sure of the honesty and good will of the boys in his vicinity—and therefore he planted a thorn-hedge on the whole side of his garden next to Edward street—and outside them built a substantial stone wall, breast high or more, and strong enough for a fortification. This was surmounted with broken glass bottles embedded in the masonry, so as to render climbing impossible. At the lower end of the garden, on the shore of the pond, the walls were eight or ten feet high, of massive stone, built after the manner of a regular fort, and by the proprietor named Fort Anglesea. Here he had a costly Summer House, which was the Castle or Block House of the fort, and was surmounted by a flag-staff, bearing a beautiful flag with some device, and with the Welch motto "Ich Dien." To complete the fort, he had an armament of two small cannon, duly mounted as swivels. With these he used to favor the town with salutes on set days, and especially on the fourth of July.

The republicans, in those days, used generally to have their oration for the fourth, delivered in the Universalist meeting house, and the orator would be about half way through his performance at twelve o'clock at noon—precisely at which moment Mr. Parry's swivels would begin to speak, and would keep on speaking ten or fifteen minutes, during all which time the audience were regaled with the orators patriotic music from the pulpit, mixed up with the powder music from fort Anglesea.

All this is of by-gone days; but now, though the fort is there, the swivels are gone; there are no republicans left, and but little of the Fourth of July; the glass bottles are brushed away; the hedge has overgrown the plants it used to protect, and the beauty and glory of Fort Anglesea have departed. The owner and captain of the fort, in the decline of his fortunes, removed to Philadelphia, where he kept a genteel boarding house for several years, and where he died—but his toils and his hopes, his toys and his favorite property were here; and though born in a foreign country, we never had a resident trader here who felt more like a Portsmouth man, or had stronger hopes of permanency of residence among us.

Mr. Parry was never very popular here—but he was an advertiser and a trader, ahead of his times. He loved to make money and to spend it—and he did considerable of both. A man who builds a good block of stores, a house, and a fort, and gives his own name to a street, has certainly a claim to remembrance as an energetic and effective citizen. Such an one was Edward Parry—with a will, taste and purposes all his own, and with force of character enough to carry them out.

THE PHILADELPHIA HORROR.

The awful murders in Philadelphia, of which the wretch Spring has just been convicted, constitute in all their details a dark and damning episode in the criminal calendar of this country. The spectacle of a son testifying against his father, and the father condemned to the gibbet, solely upon that son's evidence, is painful beyond parallel.

We have stated that the jury on Thursday evening returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, for killing the two women, for money. The closing scene was as follows:

The Court room was directed to be cleared, and the audience slowly retired. The Marshal, with his officers, formed a line from the door of the passage way on each side, to the cab waiting to receive the prisoner, through which he was rushed with great speed. As he descended the steps on Sixth street, he took off his hat, and cheered just as he stepped into the cab. This insult to their feelings was followed on the part of the crowd by a groan so terrific that even the heart of the hardened criminal must have felt its chilling influence. Some of the crowd were about mounting upon the cab, but were driven back by the officers. Just before the verdict was rendered, the prisoner exhibited a great deal of anxiety to know whether they had agreed. He was much depressed, but on a stout drink of brandy being administered, he again resumed his hardihood. Spring threatened to kill his son if he got hold of him.

On Saturday, a motion was made for a new trial on the ground that one of the jurymen who sat in the case was not the person who was drawn, and to whose name he had answered. Mr. Bernard Cory, the juryman drawn, hired Mr. Bernard McQuillan to act for him, and the latter answered to the name of the former throughout the trial.

☞ Benj. F. Newton, Esq., of Worcester, District Attorney for the middle district of Massachusetts, died suddenly on Thursday, at the age of 32, of consumption. His life was insured for $5000 on a policy which would have expired in May.

The new steamboat law went into operation on the 1st inst., and the various steamboat proprietors in their spring arrangements, the Journal of Commerce says, are industriously conforming themselves to it. The administrators of the law are said to be unflinchingly exact in enforcing its provisions, and boats undergo a thorough inspection. Engineers and pilots are strictly examined as to their qualifications.

JOHN P. HALE.—Hon. John P. Hale has been passing a few days at Staten Island with the Hon. Minthorne Tompkins, one of the candidates at the late Gubernatorial election in this state. Mr. Hale, it is said, will resume the practice of his profession in this city, and may have his residence near that of his friend, Gov. Tompkins. In that case the Free Soil party will become formidable; and should Staten Island declare itself independent, especially if it should form an alliance with the "secessionists" of the South, with whom they hold identity of principle, the Union could not be preserved.—New York True Democrat.

THE HOG CROP.—The St. Louis Republican expresses a doubt as to the accuracy of the statements which have been made relative to the number of hogs packed in the West this season, believing that the number as set down by the Cincinnati Price Current to be greatly exaggerated. A correspondent at Peoria, Ill., states the deficiency in a few points in that neighborhood to be nearly 7000 less than the number stated by the Price Current.

OUTRAGE.—Mr. Alfred Dutch, of the Chicago Daily Advertiser, announces through the Chicago Journal that while he was absent on a railway excursion, on Monday evening last, Deputy Sheriff Regan seized the types in his office, on a distress warrant for rent for $50, threw them into "pi," and scattered them, with his books and papers, through the streets, thus ruining several thousand dollars' worth of property.

LOCAL.

Reported for the Chronicle.

Court of Common Pleas—Adj. Term.

EXETER, March 28.

Case 6. Kendall vs. Fitts, was in order this morning, but counsel stated that they had agreed upon a continuance to the Sept. Term, the deft. to pay the costs of this term, and if he prevail in the suit, to tax no costs of the Sept. Term 1852; and to take no depositions until said costs are paid.

Case 100. Jonathan Prescott vs. Nath'l P. Fogg, was by consent, substituted upon the Docket for case 83, and the former is now on trial. It is an action of Trover against a Sheriff for goods wrongfully taken on process.

French for Plff. Marston for Deft.

The same Jurors are in attendance this week as last.

ANOTHER SAGACIOUS COW.—While passing down Pleasant street one day last week, we were much amused by the motions of a cow and a boy with a bucket. The cow was pursuing the pail, and the lad who was appended to it sought refuge on the steps of the Pleasant street church. The cow, however, coming too near, the boy jumped into the enclosure below the church. He had hardly cleared the fence, when Moolley swung on her heels, and running round the other side of the meeting-house, cut off his retreat in that direction. The boy, now pretty well frightened, took the back track, jumped into Pleasant street again, and was just running round the old Hall stable into Washington street, when the cow emerged from Livermore street at full speed, and seeing the direction the pail was going, shook her head after it, and then galloped up Pleasant street, and through Gates street into Washington—reaching a gate just as the boy disappeared within it. As he told us we "shouldn't catch him out o' that yard agin when that cow was round," we left him with the cow keeping guard at the gate. She did not appear at all malicious—but we did think that, whether she could "make a calculation" or not, she certainly was excellent at "tacking."

☞ Mr. Gerry's Spring Term for instruction in Drawing, is to commence on Monday next,—and those who wish to partake of its advantages would do well to make immediate application.

ABDUCTION AND RESCUE.—Information having been received at the Police Office that a young girl about seventeen years of age, belonging to Newmarket, N. H., had recently been enticed from her home and taken to a house of ill repute, in' Pleasant street Court, kept by a woman named Smith, Deputy Chief Eaton, at the request of the friends of the girl, proceeded with a posse of officers to the house, and succeeded in rescuing her therefrom. The girl had previously attempted to escape from the house, but was prevented from doing so by Mrs. Smith. A sister of the girl has for two or three months been an inmate of the same house, and yesterday morning warrants were issued against her and Mrs. Smith, charging them with abducting the girl.

Yesterday afternoon Mary Ann Smith, the keeper of the house, and Elizabeth Watson, sister of the rescued girl, were examined in the Police Court, on the charge of abducting the latter for improper purposes, and in default of bail in $1000 each, they were committed for trial.—Boston Journal, Saturday.

DEATH OF AN OLD CITIZEN.—Mr. Jonathan Prescott, aged 92, died at the residence of his son, in East Boston, on Sunday evening, at eight o'clock. Mr. Prescott was appointed a constable in the year 1809, and retained the office until the past year, when Mayor Seaver refused to reappoint him. The old veteran served as a Lieutenant in the government forces during Shay's rebellion, and has rendered repeated patriotic services to his country. The Fourth of July has always been a gala day with him. He dies leaving a large circle of acquaintances who have long esteemed him for his many eminent qualities, both as a citizen and a friend.

WIFE RETURNED.—Mrs. Genn, wife of Captain Genn, of the schooner Prospect, and her child, together with the mate, four seamen, and three passengers, who abandoned the Prospect, night of 18th inst., when she was in contact with an unknown vessel, arrived at New York on 26th inst., in British brig Nova Scotian, which took them from the brig Samson, bound from New York for St. Marks, the vessel which was in contact.

LARCENY OF A GOLDEN CHALICE.—A gold chalice, valued at two hundred and fifty dollars, was stolen from the house of the Rev. Patrick Flood, at Watertown, during vespers Sunday afternoon.

THE PORK TRADE.—Some writers state that if the present prices of pork in New York shall continue, there will be a loss of $2 on every hog slaughtered in the West this season.

PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE PROGRESS.—The editor of the St. Paul Minnesotian writes—"We were at one time one of the only three white men residing within the limits of the present state of Iowa, which now has a population of over 400,000. In our own beautiful territory we have made many trips between Prairie du Chien and St. Peters, and from St. Peter's to Traverse des Sioux, when the hotels we lodged at were in the open air, and our table furnished from the supply we carried, or from the game killed on the route. Yet, with the blessing of God, we hope yet to travel in a railroad car on a continuous route from the Minnesota river to New Orleans, and very probably to San Francisco."

For Navy Agent, Anson H. Herrick, of the Sunday Atlas, or Conrad Swackhammer, of Williamsburgh.

Ex-Governor Thomas has also been decided upon as Collector of Baltimore.

Washington, March 28.—A report is prevalent here that General Pierce intends to countermand the Japan expedition.

The exploration of Behring's Straits will be postponed.

Charles M. Bodfish will be nominated for Collector of Bath, Me.

Mr. Comstock, Solicitor to the Treasury, has tendered his resignation to the President.

CONCORD, N. H., Saturday, 8.30 P. M.—Concord Election.—At the election for the choice of city officers, under the new city charter, held to-day, the Democratic ticket was successful in 5 of the 7 wards. Five of the seven Aldermen elected were Democrats, as were also eleven of the fourteen Common Councilmen. There has been no choice of Mayor, a majority vote being necessary for a choice on the first trial. A plurality will elect on the next election. Gen. Joseph Low leads Bradley, Whig, who was run on the citizens' ticket, by 102 votes, but lacks 25 of an election. Low had 749 votes, Bradley 647, Fowler, Free Soil, 99. Scattering, 28.

THE BRAZILIAN SLAVE TRADE.—Washington, March 28.—The correspondence between the American minister to Brazil and Mr. Webster, which is called for by Mr. Seward's resolution, will bring to light some startling facts relative to the Brazilian slave trade, and show pretty conclusively that during the last two administrations, there has not been a very cordial co-operation on the part of our government with Brazil to prevent our citizens from engaging in that traffic.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE SENATE.—In the United States Senate, on Friday, Mr. Adams of Mississippi offered a resolution authorizing the Secretary of the Senate to appoint a Reading Secretary, to perform such duties as the Secretary may require, and receive the same salary as the Chief Clerk. The place, if made, it is said, will be given to B. B. French of New Hampshire, who has much experience in the duties which pertain to it.

A man has been sentenced at Paris, France, to three years imprisonment for selling quack medicines. Among his compositions were the "Water of Giants," to hasten the growth; "Water of Financiers," to strengthen the flesh; the "Elixir of Arabs," to fortify the voice; "Prodigal Son Pomatum," composed suggests the Gazette Tribunaux, of the marrow of the fatted calf; and the "Oil of the Capuchins of Alsatia," to make the beard grow.—It was shown that the waters and elixers were either pure water or scented vinegars.—Foreign paper.

A SAILING FISH.—Sir Stanford Reffles, under date Nov. 30, 1822, from Singapore, says—"The only amusing discovery we have made lately, is that of a sailing fish, called by the natives ikan layer, of about 10 or 12 feet long, which hoists a main sail, and often sails in the manner of a native boat, and with considerable swiftness. I have sent home a set of the sails, as they are beautifully cut, and form a model for a fast sailing boat. They are composed of the dorsal fins of the animal, and when a shoal of these are under sail together, they are frequently mistaken for a fleet of native boats."

FIFTEEN FEET HOUSES.—Dwellings with this narrow front in fashionable quarters are now quite common in the city. The architects have contrived to put a great deal of house room in 15 feet front.—N. Y. Express.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT FROM THE BURSTING OF A FLUID LAMP.—We copied a day or two since, a paragraph briefly stating that the wife of Dea. Perley Allen, of Fiskdale, was burnt to death on Tuesday evening, by the bursting of a fluid lamp. The particulars of this accident as given in the Worcester Transcript, are of the most shocking character. She was sitting by the lamp when it burst, from some unexplained cause, communicating the fire to her dress. There was no one in the house but an aged man, who was too feeble to render any assistance. Mrs. Allen ran to a bed, in which she rolled herself to extinguish the fire from her person. She succeeded in doing so, but not until her clothes were entirely consumed from her waist downward, and her flesh burned to a crisp. In the meantime, the fluid had set the room on fire, yet, notwithstanding her terrible condition, she had the almost superhuman courage and presence of mind to think of extinguishing the fire, which, by this time, had communicated to various parts of the room. With this purpose in view, she ran to the well and drew pail after pail of water, which she dashed around the room till the fire was subdued, thus saving the house and the life of an aged and helpless man. She then ran into the street and made her condition known. She was so badly burned that portions of her flesh and also her finger nails came off, and one part of her back was almost literally roasted, burning her inwardly. She lingered in excruciating torture, but in full possession of her faculties, for nine hours, when death terminated her sufferings. She was fifty-six years of age.—Boston Journal.

SPRING is the proper time of the year to purify the Blood, by taking Medicinal Bitters. Dr. Pierce's Indian Restorative Bitters;
Dr. Langley's Root & Herb Bitters;
Dr. Atwood's Vegetable Jaundice Bitters

These bitters are purely medicinal; and are not made for any other object and any person purchasing of the subscriber who is not satisfied, shall have the money returned.

LYON'S KATHAIRON,

For Preserving, Restoring & Beautifying the Hair,

CAUSING it to grow luxuriantly, and giving it a soft and curling appearance, of the most delightful character. The KATHAIRON neutralizes the effects of disease, climate, and old age; in preserving and restoring the Human Hair, even after a Baldness of many years,—cleanses the scalp from Dandruff, and its natural impurities,—immediately relieves sympathetic attacks of Nervous Headache, and cures all cutaneous diseases of the skin, such as Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Itch, &c.

AS A TOILET ARTICLE,

For giving the Hair a rich, soft, glossy and curling appearance, nothing has been discovered to compare with its incontested—its incontestible virtues. It imparts the fragrance of the most delightful and exotic flowers, and is free from all mineral properties, or any substance which can color the skin, or stain a lady's hat.

FOR BALD OR GREY HEADS

It is pre-eminently beneficial. "The Kathairon restored my hair after a baldness of 12 years. A. J. COURTRIGHT, 76 Bond-st. N.Y." This admirable preparation can be had of all reputable dealers, throughout North and South America, and the Islands of the Ocean, in large bottles, for 25 cents.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.
IN 1840 the subscriber was appointed Agent of the United States Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th section of the Act of 1837.
Having relinquished the agency for the transmission of models, and adopting a more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, whereby a Patent can be procured several weeks earlier, he continues to attend to them, as before, free of expense, and to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe.
The subscriber aims to present to inventors superior facilities for obtaining patents; and is now prepared to make Specifications at rates cheaper by ten to twenty per cent. than those of other agencies. They can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.
R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.
"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."
"PATENT OFFICE,
"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.
"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agency I am very respectfully,
Yours, &c. THOMAS EWBANK,
Commissioner of Patents."

GEORGE MUNSON.

"I have concluded," said Mr. Munson to his wife, as they lingered at the tea-table after their children had withdrawn from the dining room, "I have concluded to have George go into a store. He is quite old enough to begin to prepare himself for the business in which he is to be engaged hereafter."

"He is now past sixteen," said Mrs. Munson.

"Yes," continued her husband, "and he has done well in his studies the past year. I charged Prof. Bell to spare no pains in making him thoroughly what he undertook, and he told me to-day that George had stood first in his classes, though he is the youngest member. He is especially good in figures,—quite proficient in book-keeping."

"Have you any place in view for him!" inquired Mrs. Munson.

"Yes, Josiah Moore received a letter from his brother in the City last evening, that he was in want of a clerk, and inquired after young Fenton, who was in his store last winter. Fenton is sick yet, and Mr. Moore will recommend George, if we desire it."

"He is rather young," said the mother, thoughtfully, "to be sent so far from home, and with no one to care for him or counsel him."

"Oh! we could soon get to him, if he were sick; and for the matter of care and counsel, I doubt not but he will behave himself creditably. He abhors anything low."

"Quite true; but here the influence is all on the right side, his associations are such as we desire; but we cannot expect it to be the same in the City. I certainly prefer having him nearer home. Can't you get him a situation here in the village?"

"Yes: Jones makes a very good offer; indeed, he is quite anxious to have George come in with him. He could then board at home; but I have been thinking the matter over, and am decided that he had better go away. You know he is very diffident and retiring—too much so for a boy of his years,—it is not manly. It will do him good to see more of the world."

So saying, without waiting for a reply Mr. Munson took his hat and walked out.

George was in the garden. He had that afternoon been assisting his little sistere about their flower beds. The roots were transplanted, and they were now counselling with him in regard to the seed to be sown. Brother George was perfection in their eyes. Well they might love him—ever ready to oblige and instruct; a noble, generous youth, the glow of health was on his cheek, the fire of intelligence beamed from his eye.

He was somewhat surprised when made acquainted with his father's wishes, and though not at all elated, readily acquiesced.

A month passed away and found George at his new place of residence. Very different it was from the quiet home he had left in the outskirts of the pleasant village of S. Mr. Moore, his employer, was a good natured, busy, bustling man, carried on an extensive business, kept a sharp lookout to see that those in his employ discharged their duties to him: further than that they were at liberty to do as they pleased. It was a matter of no importance to him how or where their leisure hours were spent, with what company they associated, or how they passed their Sabbaths. He was a member of the Church, and contributed of his sustenance for the support of its institutions, but the individual souls he left for his pastor. Home influence, blessed fireside restraints, there were none. What wonder, that amid the numerous temptations to which they are exposed, the morals of young persons thus situated become questionable? For a time George manfully withstood the tide, but the jests raised of "Deacon Munson's scruples about taking a glass of wine, indulging in a game at nine pins, visiting the theatre, &c., deeply wounded his sensitive nature.

Highly impressible and ever inclined to yield to present influences, by degrees he became assimilated in character to those around him. Little did his parents think, when on his brief annual visits they looked with pride on his manly beauty and noble bearing, that there was a moral blight within, that his banishment from the paternal dwelling had been followed by the undermining of those principles they had desired might be the guide of his life. The accounts they had heard from their neighbor Josiah Moore were always favorable, for George was active and faithful in his station. The story of his revels reached not the quiet village of S. * * *

"Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap," saith the inspired penman. Sooner or later will come the harvest. Human laws may sometimes be violated with impunity, the penalty evaded; but the law of God, written in the physical, mental and moral institution of man, never. In due time its violation will be followed by its appropriate penalty. No less sure than early it came in the case of George Munson. Ah! it was a sad thing to watch by the sick bed—to hear from those lips the ravings of madness. We will not dwell on particulars, it casts a shadow on the heart.

The parents saw not, heard not; for when the news of his illness arrived, the father was watching by the sick, and what ultimately proved the dying bed of his wife. A friend was dispatched to the city, but he arrived only in time to convey to the house of his childhood the remains of the once noble and virtuous, but self destroyed youth.

As the father turned from viewing the pallid features of his son to those of his wife, each clad in the habiliments of the grave, he was heard to exclaim in deep agony, "I thank thee, O my God, that thou hast taken her. I thank thee that she feels not this fearful weight of woe."

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH:
WEDNESDAY, MARCH 30, 1853.

PORTSMO. & CONCORD RAILROAD.

At an adjourned meeting of this corporation, held on Tuesday, at Concord, the Committee of Investigation made a report, in a printed pamphlet, which presents some points of interest.

The whole capital stock consists of 1776 shares at $100, on which the Directors have received $349,785.88. They have received from Bonds, as cash, $296,634.40; from loans, and all other sources, including the above, $1,054,646.87. As an offset to this, and to a similar amount, they exhibit the road as constructed, with legal and other expenses, and interest.

The road now owes	$723,473.53
Funded debt	483,686.12
Floating debt	$239,787.41

On 3185 shares subscribed, no payment has yet been made; and on 466 shares only partial payments. So that but little more than half the capital stock has yet been raised and realized. Yet with the difficulties thus in the way, the road has been completed, and so far equipped, at $22,117.98 per mile—and has been operated for 6 months past, by the Transportation Company.

During these 6 months, or 26 weeks, the earnings have been	$26,732.79
Running expenses	15,832.35
Net earnings	$10,900.44

If the gross income of the road should be doubled—and this is no unreasonable expectation—with economical management the net earnings would be sufficient to pay six per cent. upon the whole cost of the road.

The Committee say,

Taking into consideration the season of the year, the recent date of the opening of the road, and the fact that for want of sufficient equipment in cars, engines, &c. the company have been able to transport a part only of the freight offered, we think reasonable hopes may well be entertained in regard to the future earnings and profit of the road.

In view, however, of the large indebtedness of the corporation, and the insufficient equipment of the road, it is apparent that immediate action on the part of the stockholders is necessary, or their investments will be subject to very great hazard.

We learn from Stockholders, who have returned, that the meeting at Concord was very fully attended. The Report of the Committee was accepted. The Transportation Co. was dissolved, and merged in the Railroad Co.—the stock paid in being considered as cash.

The following plan was adopted for future operations: The old stock of the P. & C. Railroad Co. is rated at $40, and the new preferred stock set at $100: so that any person holding an old share, on surrendering his certificate, and paying $60, will receive one of the new.

All the proceedings of the meeting were characterized by spirit and unanimity—and by a disposition on the part of the stockholders to persevere and complete the enterprize by success.

JENNY LIND.—The Boston Post is assured by a gentleman, recently from London, who received a letter from the nightingale but a few days before his departure, that she does not intend appearing again in opera; that she is a great admirer of America, and may possibly visit it again, but has not yet determined when; and finally, that her relations with her husband are the very opposite of newspaper rumor—an unpleasant word having never been exchanged between them since their marriage.

BARNUM'S HEALTH.—Some papers gave currency to a report that Peter T. Barnum was ill of consumption. This report he contradicts in a published letter, wherein he states that he has no consumptive habits at all, except the habit of consuming three good meals a day. Glad of it—hope Barnum will live long and do much good—make and spend much money, and help to keep the world in good healthy motion.

MAYOR OF PORTLAND.—The Democrats we believe, nominate their present Mayor, Parris, for re-election. The Whigs, one portion, nominate James B. Cahoon; the other, Neal Dow. Under these circumstances, Mr. Parris stands the best chance of election.

APPROPRIATE PRESENT.—A very skilful young violin player, a Mr. Carle, of Portland, Maine, has been playing in various places, especially at Buffalo, N. Y., in which latter place his hearers were so delighted at repeated concerts, that they have given him a fine Violin, worth fifty dollars. He travels with Grimes, the mesmerizer, and plays under the mesmeric influence.

BOSTON ATHENÆUM NOT DEAD.

The question of uniting the Boston Athenæum to the City Library was most emphatically and decisively set at rest by the proprietors of the Athenæum, at their meeting, held for this purpose, on Monday afternoon. The meeting resulted in a unanimous vote against the project. Rarely, if ever, has so much interest been manifested in the affairs of the institution, by its friends, as on this occasion.—The meeting first convened in the hall of the statuary, in the basement of the Athenæum building, but that large apartment was found insufficient to contain all who assembled, and the meeting adjourned to the church in Freeman place, opposite, which was well filled by the members of the association. They exhibited (says the Boston Courier) the choicest collection of the "solid men of Boston," taking the designation in its highest sense, that we have ever seen.

The following resolutions passed unanimously:—

Resolved, That we will not entertain any proposition for selling the library or other general property of the Athenæum, because we believe that by so doing we should act contrary to the wishes and intentions of many of its founders and benefactors, and to the best interests of literature and science in this community.

Resolved, That we have entire confidence that the liberality, love of learning, and public spirit, which have been so nobly exerted in behalf of the Athenæum in times past, and which have raised it to its present position of prosperity and usefulness, is not extinct; and that any further call for means to increase its usefulness and enlarge its resources, will be promptly met.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—A Baltimore despatch of the 28th, mentions an accident on the Ohio Railroad, which occurred when the train was descending a curved grade of 100 feet to Cheat River. Two cars were thrown off, falling over 100 feet in the river, turning four summersets in the descent. They contained forty passengers, of whom eight were killed, viz.: Mr. Holt, oyster dealer, of the firm of Holt & Maltby; Mr. Aurelius, supposed to be from South Carolina; Louis Deline, a French emigrant, returning from California; Richard Clayton, of Virginia; a young lady and a middle aged gentleman, unknown, but supposed to be from Kentucky; a step son of Robert Murray, supervisor of the road; a son of Mr. Geise, of St. Louis, on his way to New York. Mr. Geise and wife were much injured.

☞ The Boston Post is dressed out from top to toe in new type—one of its editors has just been appointed to a good fat office "under the crown"—it will soon be favored with U. S. advertisements, laws and treaties—in short its cup of prosperity runs over.

Some writer has lately styled Mr. Greene (of the Post) and Benj. F. Hallett, "incorruptible democrats," by which hyperpolical compliment he means to convey the idea that they are not abolitionists. We prize the Post very highly for its talented editorials and its admirable foreign correspondence; but our idea of the paper and its editors, is, that they are, jointly and severally, aristocratic, to a degree above most of their cotemporaries.

PARTIES IN MAINE.—In the Maine House of Representatives, the voters on the new liquor law were: for the bill 49 whigs, 41 democrats, 4 freesoilers. Against the bill 4 whigs, 39 democrats.

DIVIDENDS.—Thirty-two Banks in Boston have declared dividends of from 3 to 5 per cent., amounting to $961,500—payable April 4th.

A BOAT'S CREW SAFE.—One of the boats of the clipper ship Golden Light, arrived at Antigua March 5, with seven men, all safe.

☞ A bitter sectarian war is raging in Ohio, and the papers are filled with calls for public meetings in different parts of the State. The contest is between Catholics and Protestants, growing out of the opposition of the former to the public school system there.

MILITARY PUNISHMENTS.—An officer in the United States Army writes to the N. Y. Tribune that the practice of "bucking" soldiers has been abolished by an order from head quarters, dated Jan. 17, 1853.

SUDDEN DEATH.—We learn from the Worcester Spy, that Col. James Shepherd, of Worcester, died very suddenly on Saturday morning last. His health had been delicate for several months, and on Saturday morning, while in the act of dressing, he fell back upon the bed and quietly expired.

A BAD POSITION.—A commercial friend of ours received a letter from a Northern insurance company on the day following the destruction of the Alabama Cotton Press, saying:—"We have reinsured for a New York company a portion of their interest on cotton in the Alabama Press in your city; please inform us of its position." Answer was sent by return mail that its position was very bad, the press having been burnt up the night before.—N. O. Picayune.

G. W. Belyea, Insurance Broker, who was some weeks since sentenced to the House of Correction for a conspiracy to defraud an insurance company of Boston, died there on the 25th inst., of rheumatism.

Reported for the Chronicle.

Court of Common Pleas—Adj. Term.

EXETER, March 29.

Case 100, Prescott vs. Fogg, on trial yesterday, was ably argued on both sides this morning, by Marston for Deft. and French for Pltf. The Jury had not agreed up to the moment of writing—4 o'clock, P. M.

Case 82, Rundlett and Godfrey vs. Fogg, is now on trial. This is an action of trespass, for the wrongful taking of goods in Epping, by a Dep. Sheriff—the Deft. The same parties are interested in case 83, and the latter will abide the issue of the former.

McMurphy, D. Clark, Emery and Shapley for Pltf.; Bacon, Stickney and Wells for Def.

Mr. Sanborn of Epping was excused from the Jury during the trial of this case, and Mr. Calvin Thayer substituted.

THE QUINTETTE CLUB CONCERT.

The Cameneum, that most beautiful of concert rooms, was filled with an appreciating audience on Monday evening, to listen to the favorite Boston 'Mendelssohn Quintette Club,' (instrumental,) and especially to hear the justly-famed and popular vocalist, who left her native Portsmouth but a few years since, and who told us that she "ne'er forgets her home," in tones of enrapturing sweetness and with perfect execution.

Mrs. Wentworth's five songs were the chief attraction, though of course the admirable manner in which she was accompanied by the efficient orchestra, added greatly to her performance. The sacred airs were finely rendered—with more much effect than it would seem reasonable to expect from a voice no heavier than hers. The effect of the Echo Song was greatly impaired by the flute-echo being given altogether too loud and too near.

Mrs. W.'s last ballad, 'Thoughts of Home,' was to us the most pleasing performance of the evening—so beautiful in itself, so well adapted to the occasion, and so sweetly and yet artistically executed. Ballad singing must be her peculiar forte—and this was, of all ballads, the one for the occasion.

It was pleasant to see so much interest exhibited in the success a former townswoman—and must have been gratifying to the lady herself. We understand the Club may give another entertainment here ere long. An audience will not be wanting. The whole performance evinced talent of a high order, and long practice on the part of each performer; and was a treat we but rarely get in Ports' mouth, because we don't usually give artists (whether our own or imported) sufficient encouragement to induce a repetition of their visits or entertainments.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—As the steamboat train from Taunton, on the Taunton Branch Railroad, was approaching a crossing near Mansfield on Saturday evening, the engineer noticed a wagon, in which were two men, approaching, and rang the bell and blew the whistle to warn them of their danger. The men whipped up, however, instead of stopping, with the idea of getting across before the train. They did not succeed, however. The engine struck the wagon, smashing it to pieces, and killing one of the men on the spot, without seriously injuring the other.

Mr. Thomas J. Boyce, master sail-maker of the United States Navy, was found dead in his bed, at Newark, N. J., on Friday. Mr. Boyce is well known on account of a misunderstanding between him and some naval authorities, by which he was suspended. On the third of March, Mr. Fillmore restored him, dating back his warrant to 1833, thus removing any censure that attached to the suspension.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE STORY.—The police give a different account of the homicide at East Boston from any which has been published. They state that the prisoner, Jeremiah Humphreys, was not engaged in a quarrel at the time of the occurrence of the sad affair, but that Hussey and another man were in angry dispute which was likely to end in acts of violence, when Humphreys interfered, laying his hand upon the shoulder of Hussey and pulling him away from the other, by which Hussey fell, receiving a mortal injury. The prisoner is a man of medium stature and by no means of unprepossessing appearance.—Boston Chronicle.

DEATH FROM THE PRICK OF SCISSORS.—Some two weeks since a young lady residing in Granby street, Baltimore, had some slight difficulty with a brother, aged about twelve years, in relation to his going to school. He picked up a pair of scissors and stuck the point into the ear of one of her knees. The injury resulted in an inflammation, which on Monday night terminated her life.

THE AFRICAN EXPLORING EXPEDITION.—Capt. Lynch, of the U. S. Navy, was at the river Gambia, he having arrived there only the day previous to the sailing of the John Adams, which was on the 14th of February. Commodore Lynch is under orders from the Secretary of the Navy, in connection with the Pennsylvania Colonization Society, to examine the West Coast of Africa, and decide upon a location suitable, in regard to healthfulness, fertility, &c., for the colonization of our free colored population. He had orders for any U. S. vessel he might fall in with to transport him to whatever point he might wish to proceed.—Accordingly, Captain Brown had determined to sail on Friday for Monrovia, touching at Cape Mount. Congress declined giving any appropriation for the purpose of this African Exploring Expedition.

LONDON and AMERICAN PORTER, for sale by TILTON & BLAISDELL.

SOMETHING THAT SHOULD BE LOOKED TO.—There are reports afloat of immense frauds having been perpetrated upon the Minnesota Indians, by parties who had something to do with the payment of the Annuities. The Cincinnati Enquirer places the sum as high as $250,000, of which they have been robbed, and says that it seems that they robbed them in a double form. They first obtained the money in specie from the government, and exchanged a large sum of it for spurious paper, the Bank of America, pretending to be an institution at Washington city. This they took out to Minnesota and palmed upon the unlettered Indians as good money, which they now cannot get rid of at any price. This was one source of the swindle, and of profit, for it cannot be supposed that they exchanged coin for utterly worthless rags without getting an immense premium for the former.

They robbed them by another process.—They provided fictitious claims, for which they obtained money from the chiefs in the name of the tribes, after first making them drunk and depriving them of ability to take care of their own interests. And then they paid money in certain amounts and fraudulently got the Indians to sign receipts for much larger sums, and themselves divided and pocketed the differences. In the meantime, the poor Indians, unable to provide supplies with the rag-trash in their hands, were suffering with cold, starvation and disease.—Buffalo Courier.

CHARACTERISTICS OF THE RISING GENERATION.—An elderly gentleman, being asked to describe the present Rising Generation, replied, "I don't know what I can say of them, excepting that the old proverb might be applied to them—'Fast come, Fast go.'"

The correspondent of the London News, writing from Washington says:—"There is no small spot on which more bare-faced corruption grows, and prospers faster, than at Washington."

Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.
R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

PORTSMOUTH BUSINESS.

The Newburyport Herald has an excellent and well-timed article from a correspondent, on "The Business of Newburyport," which we give below, and from which, we hope our readers will draw some useful reflections—the same remarks apply with equal force to our own good city. The writer says:—

We hear it constantly asserted, that "it is impossible to make money in Newburyport," and we can well believe the assertion when we compare the number of inhabitants with the number of producers. There are nearly 13,000 people in this city, and how many of them either produce anything, or add a value to the products of other places which find their way here?

We have in the first place, five mills employing unitedly about 1500 hands. There is a fraction over 200 employed in ship building, and these, with the exception of those engaged in the fisheries and shoemaking, are the only avocations which give employment to any large number of persons. By a careful calculation we find, that the whole, in this city, employed in mechanical pursuits, or any kind of productive labor, is not over 3,4000. There remains therefore, (our population being 12,865) 9,466 non-producers. Professional men, merchants, retailers, all those connected with banking and insurance officers, with their employers and clerks, who must be supported out of the profits of these, 3,400, or live by eating up each other. A tremendous balance on the wrong side, which sufficiently accounts for the fact that so many engaged in the trade find it impossible to do a fair paying business.

But if these producers that we have enumerated were all men, or the most efficient laborers, the case would be much better than it really is; for a large number of them are women, and some children; the majority of the operatives in the mills are of this class—while cigar makers, miliners, dress makers, tailoresses and sempstresses, reduce the number of first class producers still more, for the wages of many of these are comparatively small, and makes the aggregate value of their labor to the city proportionably so—people cannot spend more than they earn.

For any place to increase in wealth, the producers must exceed the non-producers, except it may be, under a rare combination of favorable circumstances, as for instance, where the profits of those engaged in producing are so large to enable them to support the non-producers, and still leave a large surplus; or, when the imports of a place are large and valuable, and can be paid for in products that leave a large margin of profits. Neither of these conditions apply to Newburyport, and the fact will therefore remain, that "it is impossible to make money here," unless some new branches of manufacture are introduced, or more labor diversely and profitably employed.

Just look at the immense number of retail dealers of all kinds, particularly dry goods, and groceries, in proportion to those who by labor create anything, or add value to what exists. Leave out of the calculation this small proportion of producers, and our store keepers might, so far as profit is concerned, dispense with the use of money, and return to the old system of barter; they could live by that; and they can do but little more than live, with only 3400 producers divided among them for customers.

What has become of the capital that once found profitable investment in Newburyport? we do not know; but it is pretty evident that it cannot increase much under the present regime. In 1825 there were ten hat manufacturers here, with a capital of $17,000. Now, nearly all the hats sold here, are brought from Boston, and those who make them of course get the first and largest profit on the article. Cordage was annually produced to the value of $70,000; now, if we want to rig a vessel, we must go to Portsmouth or Boston for the ropes. There was then too, morocco dressing and wool-pulling establishments, dressing over 10,000 skins annually; now, the only wool-pulling attempted to be done, is, we believe, about election time. The annual manufacture of gold and silver, principally spoons and beads, was valued at $40,000 to $50,000; while comb manufacturers were doing an annual business worth $183,000; and in addition to these, there were tanneries, the making of hosiery, &c.

The present state of things will never work its own cure, and the only hope of increasing what capital remains, would seem to be in the prosecution of some enterprise creating a demand for productive labor, and could some such be started, we might hope to see a portion of those now engaged in trade, with the pleasant alternative of starving themselves or cheating their creditors, withdrawn from the ranks of the non-producers, and adding to the prosperity and real wealth of the city; or at least, that the class of mere exchangers would be comparatively, if not positively reduced."

ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE.—John Aspden was one of the English claimants of the immense estate left by Matthias Aspden. Before the case was decided by the Supreme Court in favor of the American heirs, the latter proposed to the deceased to compromise the matter, and offered to pay him the sum of $200,000 to relinquish his claim; this he refused to do, and the decision of the Court cut him off without a farthing. On Monday morning the estate was divided between the heirs at law, and almost the same moment John Aspden fell dead, at a tavern in Carter's Alley, of disease of the heart, supposed to have been induced by disappointment and mortification. At the time of his death his pocket contained a solitary cent! his entire fortune! To-day the man who might have been the possessor of a quarter of a million of dollars will be borne to his grave from an obscure part of the District of Southwark.—Truth is quite as strange as fiction.—Philadelphia Bulletin, 17th.

Poor fellow! He was afraid of poverty and yet he carried exactly as much wealth out of the world with him as if he had been worth millions.

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.
PORTSMOUTH:
THURSDAY, MARCH 31, 1853.

TO ADVERTISERS.

☞The Chronicle offers excellent advantages as a means of communicating with the public in this vicinity. We have regular and proportionately-large lists, supplied daily by carriers in our employ, in Newcastle, Kittery, Greenland and Epping; which, with our Daily circulation in the city, and on the Eastern, P. S. & P., and Portsmouth & Concord Railroads, and our Weekly circulation in all the neighboring towns—advertisements being inserted in both papers—affords a very thorough medium of communicating with "the people," at a low rate. ml

CORONATION.

The pope was to leave Rome soon after Easter, to crown the emperor of France. A despatch from Paris of the 11th says—

"The holy see will obtain many important advantages by this concession of the pope to the wishes of Napoleon, not the least of which will be the loan of ten or twelve millions of francs to recruit the exhausted treasury of the eternal city. The legitimists are positively wild with chagrin at this abandonment of the principle of 'divine right,' on the part of the head of the church, and many prophetic warnings are held out that the college of cardinals, in permitting the act, are blindly, but deliberately, sealing the doom of the papacy."

The divine right of kings, and the equally divine right of popes, seem to us, sturdy republicans, very like a bundle of trash. The theory on which we declared our national independence, was, that all human governments ought, of right, to be founded on the will or choice of those who are governed. And the theory on which the New England Colonies were planted, was, that the people of every town or place have the right (not the privilege) of choosing their own religious teachers.

But to the legitimist and papist, all this is beginning at the wrong end of the matter. He, on the contrary, views the pope as the legate of the skies, the head of the church, the dispenser of power temporal as well as spiritual—if he blesses a king, he is blessed; if he curses him, he is accursed. And in the palmy days of the papacy, kings trembled on their thrones at the bare apprehension of a frown from his holiness. But now how changed—the pope, leaving his throne to be guarded by the French bayonets which are the real power behind it—is to go to Paris, to crown an illegitimate monarch, whose father was—alas! we know not who—and who scrambled up to the throne on all fours, through a revolution, an election, a grab and a swindle. The Emperor's habits are those of a free thinker and a roue—his policy makes him one sort of a christian:—and the pope, (for a quid pro quo! don't mention it!) goes to Paris to bless this hopeful son of the church, and he in turn, lends the poor old man money as well as troops:—and thus keeps up the farce of the pope's temporal power.

MAINE.—The Maine House of Representatives, on Monday, passed a vote to adjourn sine die Wednesday. The two branches passed the following railroad bills on Monday:—

To establish the Dexter and Newport Railroad; the Belfast and Moosehead Railroad; the Vassalboro' and China Railroad; to provide for certain railroad connections for the European and North American Railway Company; to authorize the lease of the Atlantic and St. Lawrence Railroad.

An attempt to amend the liquor law, so as to repeal the section which provides for the city and town agencies, was defeated in the House, 77 to 34.

GROSS CARELESSNESS.—The fire in Boston on Tuesday afternoon was in a wooden structure on Lewis wharf, which was used by Messrs. Glidden & Williams. The fire originated through carelessness. A man undertook to solder a leaky canister, which was filled with camphene. The liquid ignited and exploded, and the flames were scattered in all directions. The building, together with its contents of turpentine, &c., was ruined. The loss is about $2500.

THE EAST BOSTON HOMICIDE.—The investigation with regard to the manner of Thomas Hussey's death was brought to a close on Tuesday before Coroner Rice. The jury found that he "died in consequence of injuries received in the Glendon Rolling Mill, by being cast or thrown by one Jeremiah Humphreys, purposely and with violence, upon the cast iron plate or floor of said mill, thereby dislocating his neck, of which injuries he died." The evidence upon which this verdict was based the Coroner did not disclose. Humphreys will be examined in the Police Court on a charge of murder. His defence will be that the fall of Hussey was accidental.

The safe in the ticket office of the Old Colony Railroad at Plymouth, was blown to pieces by gunpowder on Monday night, and the author of the mischief obtained about $16 and lots of tickets.

A watchman (?) in the building, slept on as if nothing had happened!

The Delaware Constitutional Convention have received a proposition abolishing the property qualification for office, and extending suffrage to all free white male citizens.

LOCAL.

THE BUSINESS OF PORTSMOUTH.

On our first page will be found an article richly worth the perusal and consideration of every citizen of Portsmouth—the case of the two cities named being analagous. There is no good reason why this city should not teem with manufacturing, mechanic and commercial life—only let our business men and capitalists wake up to the necessity of action in this direction. To be sure, something, aye much, has been done within the last ten years. The Portsmouth Factory—which is now running under very favorable auspices; the Sagamore Factory—which can hardly fail to do well for its new owners, if sagaciously managed; and the P. & C. Railroad, which is doing and must do much for the business of the city—have all tended to help us on toward our due position. But much more remains to be done—and the sooner the better..

Ship building is our chief dependance now; and this important branch of industry is capable of being greatly extended, to the manifest advantage of all. Every ship built here causes the distribution of an immense amount of money—a great portion of which is for labor, in almost every department. There is a fine yard on the Eliot bank of the Piscataqua, whence Mr. Hanscom has launched some creditable specimens of marine architecture—and which might be kept in operation. And there has been some talk of a new yard near the south part of the town, with a track laid from the P. & C. Railroad thereto. What prevents the carrying out of such a scheme?

The Hosiery Co.'s works have been transferred to Franklin, and their buildings, etc., are lying idle. The property is in the market—and would make an eligible site for an extensive steam-power, for all sorts of mechanical purposes. The hosiery manufacture here is now in private hands,—of which Jarvis & Brother have one of the most extensive establishments, at the Creek. We understand it is in contemplation to construct quite a large one near the Plains.

The shoe-manufacture should be introduced into this city. But little, comparatively, is now done. Newcastle shows striking proof of the good effect of its extensive introduction there. Kittery also is fast filling up with "kits."

It is of no avail to complain. Let us be up and doing—"Doing with our might, whatsoever our hands find to do."

Reported for the Chronicle.

Court of Common Pleas—Adj. Term.

EXETER, March 30.

In case 100, Prescott vs. Fogg, the Jury after being out several hours could not agree, and were discharged from further consideration of the cause.

Cases 83 and 101—H. G. O. Rundlett & Chas. L. Godfrey vs. Stephen W. Dearborn—actions of trespass against a Deputy Sheriff—on trial yesterday, are still in hearing; and may occupy several days. The amount of property involved is about $2300.00.

McMurphy, Shapley & Emery for Plffs., Bacon, Wells, Stickney & Christie for Deft.

This morning, Mr. Jonathan Prescott, plff. in case 100, came into court upon notice to show cause why an attachment should not issue against him for contempt of said court, in attempting by threats and violence to prevent a witness from appearing in court and testifying against him. Prescott confessed an attack upon the deft. Fogg, who served the subpoena on the witness, but denied the alleged contempt.

The Court appointed Mr. Hatch, Solicitor, a Commissioner to propound such interrogatories to the respondent as will elicit the truth.

Reported for the Chronicle.

Police Court—March 30.

[Before Justice Parker.]

Yesterday was a very busy day at the Police Court.

The first case brought for the consideration of Judge Parker was John Marden and wife for creating a disturbance—in fact getting up a regular family row. The disturbance was commenced by the fair prisoner, accusing her lord of infidelity. The result was, both were sentenced to the House of Correction for 15 days, and costs of prosecution. The heads of the family being thus removed, their three children were taken to the Alms House.

The next case was Nathaniel Woodworth for getting drunk and assaulting his wife.—The officer who arrested him had a pretty tough customer to encounter, as his face proved, which was considered a good diploma for the close of his official career. Nathaniel was fined $1 and costs, and ordered to give bonds in $200 for his good behavior for one year.

John and Samuel Ricker were complained of by Mr. N. P. Frost of New Castle, for assault and battery. John pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs. Samuel pleaded not guilty, and after an examination of witnesses was acquitted.

Margaret and Ellen Lynch were complained of for a brutal assault upon a Mrs. Sullivan. The parties are all Irish. Margaret was arraigned, but Mrs. Sullivan was unable to attend, owing to the severe injuries she sustained. The case was postponed till 9 o'clock to-morrow morning. Ellen had not been arrested. Both the prisoners were intoxicated at the time of the assault.

DIST. No. 2.—The annual meeting in this district was held on Monday afternoon last. The following gentlemen were elected:—

Robert O. Treadwell, John P. Lyman, Samuel Storer, John Stavers, Thomas Norton, Andrew Gardiner, James M. Carr.

DIST. No. 3.—The annual meeting in this district was held last evening. The following gentlemen were elected:—

William H. Rollins, Edward J. Laighton, Thomas J. Whittem, Abner B. Bennett, Benj. F. Chandler, Bartholomew Barri, Henry Whittemore, George W. Drake, George Marden.

☞ In Mr. Morse's shop window may be seen a splendid picture, executed in the high-style of "two-crayon" drawing. The poor spaniel is represented as floating on the top of her kennel, barking for assistance, while the little pup by the side of his mother and another in the water, swimming to the ark of safety, have a most perfect expression—one of wonder, the other of fear. This picture was drawn by Mr. C. F. Gerry, who commences a new term next Monday.

NEW SCHOOL HOUSES.—A correspondent expresses his hope that the subject of a New School House or School Houses, for the High Schools, will not be suffered to die nor sleep till we have suitable buildings for this important purpose.

☞ Dr. Gregory, Secretary of the Society, has sent us the Fourth Annual Report of the Female Medical Education Society, and the New England Female Medical College.

It is published by the Society, and to be had gratuitously of the Secretary, Samuel Gregory, 15 Cornhill, Boston.

It is a pamphlet of 24 pages, containing a variety of information relative to female medical education, and many interesting facts in aid of the Society for promoting it.

MANCHESTER, N. H.—We have received a neat pamphlet containing the Inaugural Address of Hon. Frederick Symth, Mayor of Manchester, to the City Council. It is a business document, plain, perspicuous and able.

There is a rich editor in New Hampshire. He made his money by practising the strictest economy. He always writes his editorials on a slate.—Mail.

We know a rich editor in New Hampshire who does not even go to the expense of buying a slate—he has no editorial in his paper. Scissors have to do the duty.

APPOINTMENTS.—The telegraph last night did not at all confirm the former loose rumors about the appointments at New York, but it announces that Ex-Senator Dickinson, a Democrat of the national stamp, has been appointed Collector of New York, and ex-Senator John A. Dix, a "Barnburner," has been made Sub-Treasurer. Mr. Birdsall, of Batavia, son-in-law of Mr. Dickinson, is announced as Navy Agent, in place of Mr. Leroy. Politicians are much exercised in feeling at all nominations which carry influence with them, but the people care very little about them.—Boston Courier.

MARINE LOSS.—Ship Charles, Andrews master, of Boston, lost in Straits Malacca (no date,) bound from Singapore to Batavia, was owned by Chas. B. Fessenden, Esq., and was built at Portsmouth, N. H., in 1838—valued at $13,000, insured at the Boylston office for $6500, and at the Alliance Mutual office for $6500. There is $15,000 insured on freight, supposed to be divided at the same offices.

Rev. Dr. Vinton, Rector of St. Paul's Church in Boston, will sail for Europe on Saturday, in company with Bishop Doane and other Episcopal clergymen. Dr. Vinton will remain in Europe some six months, during which time his Society will defray his expenses, continue his salary, and supply the pulpit.

Mr. Caleb E. Colcord, 3 feet 1-8 inch high, 40 years old, weight 77 pounds, and who has a wife and child in Maine, slept in the north watch-house, Boston, on Monday night, and we understand rested comfortably.

QUICK WORK.—The clipper ship Wild Pigeon was recently discharged at this port, of 1300 tons of merchandize in 28 working hours. This we believe is the quickest work of the kind ever performed at our wharves.—San Francisco Times.

The Cincinnati Nonpareil of the 15th inst., states that a duel took place in that city between a grandson of ex-president Harrison, and the son of an extensive banker. On the second fire the descendant of the president received a bullet in the arm. Cause—a young lady in pantaletts and short dress.

From the address of Gov. Wright, of Indiana, we learn that in that State there are 800 miles of railroads in operation, 1500 miles of plank roads, and 550 miles of navigable canals.

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

Death of Mrs. Fillmore.

A Washington despatch of last evening says, Mrs. Fillmore, wife of the ex-President, died at Willard's Hotel this morning. She had been suffering from Pneumonia for some time past, but no serious result was anticipated until within a few days. The immediate cause of death was suffocation by accumulation of water on the lungs. Mr. Fillmore, with his family and friends will leave with the remains early to-morrow morning for Buffalo.

The Senate adjournned immediately on hearing of Mrs. Fillmore's death.

WASHINGTON NEWS—NOMINATIONS, CONFIRMATIONS, &c.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Robert Ewing has been appointed Sub Treasurer at Philadelphia, and Dr. Birdsall Superintendent of the Mint at San Francisco.

The Cabinet was engaged yesterday in the consideration of the Baltimore appointments. Mr. Davis will probably be Collector, and Col. Polk Naval Officer.

The nominatoiu of Mr. Slidell as minister to Central America, was confirmed yesterday. The Consular Treaty with France was also approved.

The nominations which were submitted yesterday are said to be a compromise between the Cass and Buchanan interests.

NEW YORK NOMINATIONS.—The President nominated ex-Senator Dickinson, Collector; Ex-Senator Dix, Sub-Treasurer; and Charles O'Connor, District Attorney; and other appointments for New York. The nominations took the Senate by surprise, were received with a laugh, and immediately confirmed.

The further New York nominations are J. T. Fowler, Postmaster; Hillyer, Marshall; Redfield, Naval Officer; Swackhammer, Navy Agent; Cochran, Surveyor.

The Philadelphia nominations are—Brown, Collector; Miller, Postmaster; Pettit, the Mint; Eldred, Naval Officer; R. C. Hale, Surveyor; Day, Navy Agent.

The New York appointments cause considerable talk. It was the President's own method of settling the complicated affair.

SCHOOLS IN OHIO.

Cincinnati, March 29.—An immense mass meeting was held last evening in Market square, to nominate an independent ticket for city officers to sustain the common schools, in opposition to the encroachments of the Roman Catholics in regard to them. All political lines were entirely laid aside, and the candidates selected with a single view to the school question; both Catholics and Jews participated, and pledged themselves in favor of the people's colleges. Great indignation was expressed at the attempts of foreign ecclesiastics to interfere with our common school system.

New Orleans, March 27.—A terrible steamboat disaster occurred in Galveston Bay, Texas, on the night of the 23d. The steamers Neptune and Farmer were racing from Houston to Galveston, when the latter exploded, killing the captain, clerk, second engineer, 13 of the crew; and about 20 of the passengers were also killed or missing; 20 passengers, mostly ladies, were saved.

The steamship Falcon, from Aspinwall, arrived on Sunday morning, with 210 passengers, $150,000 in gold, and the California mails of the first of March.

VERMONT LIQUOR LAW.—On Tuesday week the unconstitutionality of one of the sections of the new Liquor Law in Vermont was argued before the Supreme Court of that state. A Mr. Powers had been thrown into the Woodstock jail, by proceedings under the 22d section, and was brought before the Court on a writ of habeas corpus. It was contended by his counsel that the said section conflicted with the Vermont bill of rights and with the Constitution of the United States. The arguments of Charles P. March, Esq., and the Hon. Andrew Tracy, on this point, are said to have been very able. The Court held that the Constitution of the state and of the United States had nothing to do with the proceedings in question, and sustained, generally, the constitutionality of the twenty-second section of the new Vermont Liquor Law. The Court did not touch the policy of the law, nor did it express an opinion of the law itself generally.—The section is that which provides for the arrest of a person found intoxicated, and his detention until he will disclose where he obtained his liquor. Powers was arrested for intoxication, and lodged in jail. On the examination he was questioned as to where he obtained the liquor. He said he found it under the Universalist church, and this was all the answer he would give. It was not deemed satisfactory by the justice, and Powers was recommitted, but still refuses to divulge, and the justice says he will keep him in jail for a year unless he owns up.

At St. Albans, the law has been carried out in three instances. The witnesses having the alternative of a term in jail, owned up, and the liquor taken on their information was destroyed. At Rutland, the law, it is said, is executed, and people hope to get rid of liquor entirely.

The new section, above alluded to, creates much alarm in some quarters, but on the whole, seems quite popular.

The Woodstock Age says of Powers, above mentioned,

"But little sympathy exists in the community for the victim, who is a worthless fellow, and as far far from the true mark upon one extreme in rum matters as the doctor is on the other."

Powers, the prisoner, is a poor drunkard—Powers, the doctor, his brother, is one of the hardest kind of temperance men.

An orchard of maple trees has been found almost equal, acre for acre, with the sugar cane, in producing sugar and molasses.

LONDON and AMERICAN PORTER, for sale by TILTON & BLAISDELL.

JOHN RANDOLPH OUTDONE.—Of the many amusing anecdotes of this eccentric man of Roanoke, we do not believe the following was ever in print:—

He was travelling through a part of Virginia in which he was unacquainted—and stopped during the night at an Inn near the forks of the road. The Inn-keeper was a fine old gentleman, and no doubt one of the first families of the Old Dominion. Knowing who his distinguished guest was, he endeavored during the evening to draw him into a conversation, but failed in all his efforts. But in the morning, when Mr. Randolph was ready to start, he called for his bill, which, on being presented, was paid. The landlord still anxious to have some conversation with him, began as follows:

'Which way are you travelling, Mr. Randolph?'

'Sir!' said Mr. Randolph, with a look of displeasure.

'I asked,' said the landlord, 'which way you are travelling?'

'Have I paid you my bill?'

'Yes.'

'Do I owe you anything more?'

'No.'

'Well, I'm going just where I please—do you understand?'

'Yes.'

The landlord by this time had got somewhat excited, and Mr. Randolph drove off.—But, to the landlord's surprise, in a few minutes the servant returned to inquire for his master, which of the forks of the road to take. Mr. Randolph not being out of hearing distance, the landlord spoke out at the top of his voice, 'Mr. Randolph, you don't owe me one cent; just take which road you please.'

It is said the air turned blue, with the curses of Randolph.
